GERMAN SUBMARINE CAMPAIGN IS GIVEN A DECISIVE BEATING

Noted British War Expert Declares
Prussian Ruthlessness Has Met
Its Match and Is Beaten.

OPENS WAY TO AMERICA'S FULL PART

London, Nov. 15.—Arthur Pollen, noted British war expert, has made the following statement to The Associated Press on the submarine war:

"Anything unsatisfactory in the military situation in Europe is balanced by the extraordinary news that the German submarine campaign has been broken down altogether. The submarine is defeated. This is the most momentous event since the United States declared war. It means we can all stay in and that America can really come in."

"Six months ago shipping was being destroyed, according to some authorities, at a rate of 9,000,000 tons per annum. Had this loss continued, the Germans had the right to expect, not indeed, military victory, but a peace that would mean something much less than defeat. This was Germany's only hope and it was the allies' only anxiety."

For every one, including the German high command, knew that with sea communication reasonably safe the military defeat of the German army was certain.

"In the first fortnight of November the rate of loss of British tonnage of ships greater than 1,000 tons has fallen to about one million tons a year. The present ship building capacity of Great Britain alone can make this loss good in less than eight months. At the rate America, Great Britain and Japan are striving to attain, we should replace this loss in less than eight weeks. The rate of loss for the last week is actually less than the annual toll of wrecks in peacetime. It is an amazing development. It is not to be expected that losses can remain as low as

CAMOUFLAGE AN ANCIENT DEVICE SAYS AN ARTIST

New York, Nov. 15.—Camouflage is as old as the hills, says an artist, told a meeting of artists and architects here last night. "You all know how the Greeks captured Troy by the strategy of concealing warriors in the wooden horses," he said. "Shakespeare wrote on camouflage too, in Macbeth. Confederate soldiers in the civil war were camouflaged by their uniforms of grey that blended with the dust of highways, Mr. Toch explained. The navy department engaged Mr. Toch at the outbreak of the war to lessen the visibility of important naval stations. The artist explained that since then he and a staff of fellow workers have been making visible objects as nearly invisible as possible. He said one important center was camouflaged only after sixty experienced men had worked four weeks.

The aviator says, with particularity at first, "unable to judge the military conditions and at least twenty-five per cent. of the machines will be disabled during the long transport."

THE WHITE WAYS GET THE DIMMER TO SPARE COAL

Washington, Nov. 15.—America's "white ways" will be darkened early tonight. Brightness throughout the many cities which have blazed with white lights for many years will lapse into comparative gloom at 11 o'clock tonight in compliance with orders of the fuel administration restricting electric display advertising, using power generated from coal, to the hours between 7:45 and 11 o'clock P. M. There will be no curtailment of the small signs used to identify the place of business but the wartime fuel shortage makes it necessary to limit the hours during which power will be furnished for the larger signs. Figures announced by the fuel administration indicate that the coal shortage for 1917 is approximately fifty million tons. Although efforts to stimulate production have increased the output by fifty million tons, war time consumption has advanced 100,000,000 tons.

Presidio, Texas, Nov. 15.—Francisco Villa's forces today are in possession of the Mexican town of Ojinaga, having captured it last night after a two hours' battle with the Mexican federal troops who finally fled to the American side of the Rio Grande and surrendered to the United States troops in command of Captain Theodore Barnes.

General Juan Espinosa y Cordova, who was in command of the Mexican federal troops, said the fighting was hard to hand in the streets of Ojinaga and that many on both sides were killed.

Executions Expected.
The Mexican federal troops who crossed the border and were interned in the Presidio army camp numbered 300. The rest of the Ojinaga garrison, estimated at 200, are missing and are supposed to have been killed or captured.

Villa troops under command of Martin Lopez are said to have numbered close to 1,000. Wholesale executions were expected to occur today when the Villa commanders will wreak vengeance upon the enemy prisoners.

Mexican history repeated itself last night, as just four years ago, Villa

HOW KAISER SPY BETRAYED SELF AND WAS KILLED

Pacific Port, Nov. 15.—The story of how a German spy betrayed himself was told today by M. A. Jeller, who arrived here from Europe. On the way out Dr. Jeller said there was a passenger on board of charming manners who spoke English and went by the name of Forbes. He showed an unusual interest in military matters and took photograph while passing through the Suez canal. Forbes claimed to be a Scotchman, but Dr. Jeller said that during the journey across the Red sea, he suddenly asked Forbes in German where he was born. Forbes sprang to his feet and also in German asked the doctor what he meant, as he was an Englishman. When the steamer put in a Colombo, Ceylon the doctor saw Forbes making sketches and informed the British authorities, who took the man into custody. Dr. Jeller said he had since learned that Forbes was a German spy and was

With the American Army in France, Wednesday, Nov. 14.—(By The Associated Press.)—A number of American soldiers have been killed or wounded in the recent shelling of the American trenches by the Germans. One shell which dropped into a trench caused several casualties. The American artillery fire has been heavy recently and there is good reason to believe that it has accounted for a considerable number of the enemy.

The American patrol in which there were some Frenchmen, arranged the ambush near the German lines on a shell ruined farm.

After lying in the mud nearly all night the patience of the watchers was rewarded by the sight of a large German patrol, its number more than double that of the Franco-Americans.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The first regular installment payment on the second Liberty bonds, 18 per cent of the face value, fell due today at the treasury and federal reserve banks. By tonight the government expects to add at least $685,000,000 to its credit from the second Liberty loan and probably a great deal more, since many of the 9,400,000 subscribers paid in full for their bonds yesterday and today.

This also was the last day on which first Liberty bonds bearing 3½ per cent interest could be exchanged for those of the second issue bearing 4 per cent, with interest at the higher rate, dating from today. Exchanges made hereafter

The food problem is one of the vital issues of today. For that reason Fort Wayne women are urged to get back of the movement for the appointment of a home demonstration agent in this city. Definite action is expected to be taken at a meeting in the Jefferson school, Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, when Miss Elizabeth L. Cowan, state urban home demonstrator, will speak.

No one can escape from the food problem, it is pointed out. Everyone has his individual responsibilities in the situation. To win the final victory in the great war, America must feed not only herself and her

U. S. CONGRESSMEN GIVEN WELCOME BY FRENCH PRESIDENT

Paris, Nov. 15.—President Poincare today welcomed the delegation of American congressmen to France in behalf of the nation and spoke of the cordial relations between the two countries. He asked the congressmen to convey his respects to President Wilson. The party then visited the chamber of deputies, where Speaker Deschanel received them. The speaker said that the ministerial crisis was a kind of familiar affair and did not affect France's attitude toward the war, adding: "The soul of the nation is in the armies in the field." He asked them not to look to the politicians but to the deeds of the men at the front.

Minister Painleve entertained the party at luncheon. He said he was no longer premier, but that his attitude toward the war was unchanged as was that of the nation. He spoke of the friendship of the two countries as being cemented by the blood shed on the battlefields. Representative Taylor responded. The American party will start for home tomorrow.

ELECTRO-TECHNICS TO REORGANIZE

Meet in Firemen's Quarters at General Electric Works Tonight.

The Electro-Technic club, which incorporated under the laws of Indiana several weeks ago, will meet in the firemen's hall, in the main office building at the General Electric works, tonight to reorganize to meet the requirements of the law. A. A. Serva, president of the club, said this morning that it was important that there be a full attendance at the meeting. The club has the largest membership at present in its history and will give one of the most interesting and instructive series of lectures and entertainments this winter in its existence. The lecture at the high school auditorium next Tuesday night by Dr. Stanley Coulter, dean of science of Purdue university, will be one of the best of the series. Chairman J. B. Mills had invitations sent to a number of other clubs in the city today. In the list were the Quist club, the Rotary club, the Kiwanis club, the Dowsler Efficiency club, the University club, the Wayne Knits, the Wayne Oil Tank club, the Dudo club, the Boss club and others. These clubs will also be invited to some of the other lectures of the series.

RAIDING COAL CARS.

"There must be some suffering because of the shortage of fuel in the city," said a railway official this morning. "Reports come to me of an unusual number of women and boys who are carrying coal home, using for the purpose such things as hand express vans, buckets, baskets and sacks. They climb upon cars frequently, throwing the coal down and picking it up afterwards," he continued. "Every winter there is more or less of this sort of thing, but it is worse this year than ever, an indication that fuel is not only high in price, but very difficult to get even if the people have the money."

SUPERINTENDENTS STILL AHEAD

The superintendents' team still leads in the bowling games of the G. E. & L. Office Bowling league, but is being pressed by the team from the road foreman of engines' office. At the games at the Star alleys last night, the Road Foreman took two out of three games with the Time Clerks and the Trainmaster took two out of three from the Superintendents. High score, 192, was made by J. Kallfleish. The standing of the league after the games was as follows: Superintendents, won 12; lost 6; Road Foreman, won 11; lost 7; Trainmasters, won 8; lost 10; Time Clerks, won 5; lost 15.

SURPRISES HER PARENTS.

Mrs. Chester Withey, of New York city, surprised her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Philley, Saturday, by paying them an unexpected visit. INJURES FOOT.

W. H. F. Dornte, machine operator at the Pennsylvania old car shop, had his right foot injured this morning shortly after 7 o'clock, having the member caught between a car wheel and a turning table he was operating. GOT REQUIRED NUMBER.

The trip covers a period of seven days, at an expense of $66, including fare, lodging and meals.

PREPARING FOR NEXT YEAR.

The ground used as a "war garden" by the Wayne Knitting Mill employees last year, is being plowed and fertilized for next year. The garden was a success the past year, the yield of potatoes being twelve bushels to one planted, and some other products gave greater returns. The company will set aside other ground for this purpose next year.

TO CALIFORNIA FOR THE WINTER

Fred Schultz, an assembler in the induction motor department of the General Electric works, has obtained a three months' vacation, beginning next Monday. On that date he will leave for California, where he expects to remain during the winter months.

BONUS PLAN A SUCCESS.

It is said that every machine at the Wayne Knitting mills has an operator at present and its force of workmen near the maximum point. This condition is due in fact to the "bonus" system, which allows an employee $3 for each good new employee he gets at the expiration of a month's service of the new man.

WABASH OFFICIALS HERE.

Superintendent E. A. Solitt, Division Engineer N. Johnson and Trainmaster C. E. Wells, of the Wabash, were in the city today, looking after business for the departments they represent. Traffic on the road is still heavy—up to the limit of the power and cars to handle it.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 15.—Louis A. Diefel, Sullivan, Ind., boy reported among the wounded in the trench raid in France, is really Louis A. Kiefer, son of Mrs. Catherine Kiefer, who lives in the country near Sullivan. Mrs. Kiefer said today that her son enlisted last November at Effingham, Ill., under the name Louis A. Diefel, in order that he might be enrolled with a boyhood friend whose surname began with the same letter. The latter was William Duckworth, of Hymers, Kiefer is a miner and was formerly employed at the Mildred mine, near Sullivan.

AN AMERICAN OF THE LEGION PASSES OUT

New York, Nov. 15.—William Harrington, of San Francisco, member of the French foreign legion, lost his life as the result of wounds he received in a recent action, the Herald announces today.

"Tell the folks back home I went out gamely pal," Harrington murmured as the captain stooped to pin on his breast the military medal, says a letter received by Jack Barry, of Brooklyn, another member of the legion who is on a furlough in Paris from which the Herald quotes. The letter was penned on the front by Oscar Nouvet, giving the circumstances of the death in Lorraine of his twenty-year-old volunteer.

Washington, Nov. 15.—One hundred and fifteen women track workers are now working picket shovels and crowbars maintaining the road bed of the Pennsylvania railroad between New York and Pittsburgh. QUALIFIES

QUALITY

STANDARDS ARE STRICTEST

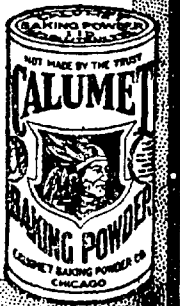

Calumet Baking Powder is now used in the Army and Navy. For years it has been used by an army of housewives—and that army enlists thousands of recruits every year.

The Tallahassee, a submarine tender, is a type of the United States Navy's floating submarine bases.

Housewives use Calumet because it produces best results. They judge it by results entirely. Government experts selected Calumet for this same reason—and other reasons too. They looked back of the results. They demanded purity in Baking Powder, and purity in bakings, as well as surety of results.

They selected Calumet because they could secure these desirable qualities—and were certain of getting them. The strongest guarantee you could ask for Calumet's thorough goodness. Try it

News of Our Neighbors

COMMITTS SUICIDE.

Elmer Oyler, of Atwood, Hangs Himself in Barn.

Warsaw, Ind., Nov. 15.—Elmer Oyler, 53, residing southwest of Atwood, committed suicide early this morning by hanging himself in his barn.

Mr. Oyler got up about 5 o'clock, built the fire in the house and went out to the barn to do the morning chores. It was his custom to call his wife after building the fire, but as he did not do so this morning, she awoke and went out to look for him and found him about 6:30 o'clock hanging to a rope fastened to the rafters of the barn. He had climbed to the barn loft and after putting the rope about his neck, jumped from the loft and it is thought that death was instantaneous as his neck was broken.

For some time Mr. Oyler has been worrying over his finances, having been somewhat involved in indebtedness on his farm but at the time he retired last night he was in his usual good spirits.

SLANDER IS CHARGED.

Bluffton, Ind., Nov. 15.—A complaint for slander was filed in circuit court yesterday with William Joseph Kitchen as the plaintiff and Allie Robinson as defendant. The complaint states that on or about October 15 the defendant stated in the presence of various and diverse persons that the plaintiff was pilfering about his place and that the plaintiff had killed his turkeys and chickens, and that he had falsely and maliciously accused him of these actions in the presence of other persons. The plaintiff states that his reputation and good name has been injured in the sum of $1,000 and he asks this sum from the defendant.

DISLOYAL TALKS.

Bluffton, Ind., Nov. 15.—Sheriff J. A. Johnson, together with A. B. Cline, Wm. Settle, Dr. G. B. Morris, W. L. Kiger, Dr. Severin and Rev. W. T. Arnold, went to Nottingham township yesterday afternoon to investigate some reported cases of disloyalty and to explain to the men the law in this case. Sheriff Johnson stated this afternoon that all cases of disloyal talk against the government would be investigated and charges filed against the people. It is the duty, he said, of every loyal American to report such cases, so that they may be dealt with according to the law.

CAUSED HIS DEFEAT.

Elkhart, Ind., Nov. 15.—Although the passenger trains on the Lake Shore through here are so regular in their schedules that they are almost set by watches by them, when one of them happened to be five minutes late it caused the defeat of Albert S. Forgey, round house foreman, for a seat in the city council. Forgey was defeated by four votes. The train which arrived five minutes late brought home six men who had promised to vote for Forgey. They arrived too late to get to the polls before they closed at 6 o'clock. Had the train been on its usual schedule they would have been able to vote for Forgey.

HAD NO LICENSE.

Elkhart, Ind., Nov. 15.—Fined for hunting hares in his own backyard without having procured a hunter's license was the experience of Joseph Kavich, of this city. The rabbits were the property of his next door neighbor who told the court he saw Kavich shoot them. Kavich said the hares ate his cabbage plants. When the owner of the rabbits had been arrested Kavich admitted he did not have a hunter's license until after he had shot the "game." He paid a fine of $5.

PLENTY OF COAL.

Bluffton, Ind., Nov. 15.—Poneto ought to have a plenty of coal, if reports from that town are correct. Tuesday evening a car of soft coal arrived and at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday morning people were at the car to get their share. At 10 o'clock it was unloaded and at 12 o'clock three more cars arrived. And the best part of it is there is a car of excellent hard coal and two cars of West Virginia soft coal.

BAKER WARNS THAT LAWS MAY GO DOWN

Measures for Protection of Woman and Child Labor Must Be Upheld.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 15.—Secretary of War Baker, speaking last night before the National Consumers league, of which he is president, warned against the danger that, in the concentration of the nation's energies upon industrial support of the war, there will be such breakdown in the laws to protect women and child labor as will cause disastrous devitalization of the nation's strength.

"We cannot afford, when losing boys in France, to lose children at home," said Secretary Baker. "With the great drain which we will suffer in France because of the concentration of war, we cannot afford a great drain on the nation here at home, because of the devitalization of our youth."

"There is a possibility that we shall suffer at home losses equally great as those sustained by our armies abroad. Such losses would not appear in the newspapers; they would not be so spectacular as the losses in the armies, but they might be so great and as disastrous to the nation in the devitalization of the nation." Stating the government's stand respecting the protection of the workers, Mr. Baker said that the policy of the Council of Defense had been such that the government has advanced, rather than relaxed its standards since the beginning of the war. In nine-tenths of the work being done for the government, he said, conditions among workers in the industries are better than before the war started.

SUBMARINE WARFARE BIG DISAPPOINTMENT

Ruthlessness at Sea is Not Making Good, as Germans Realize.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Germany's submarine warfare is a failure, according to a sensational article published in the Berliner Tageblatt by Capt. Persius. This information was received by the United States radio service from the French station at Lyons and made public here today. The message says:

"Capt. Persius publishes in the Berliner Tageblatt an article in which, after having confessed that the German people are beginning to have their doubts in the results of piracy without mercy, he himself recognizes that the German admiralty was grossly mistaken in its calculations, and that in Germany today credence is no longer given to the decisive influence of the submarine war, as was the case last February, when the most optimistic forecast was published."

"Capt. Persius will not permit of supposing that the supply of food-stuffs in Great Britain will be threatened by the submarine warfare before the second half of the year 1918."

ONE ITALIAN BOAT LOST.

London, Nov. 15.—Only one small sailing vessel of Italian nationality was lost during the week ended Nov. 11 as the result of the operations of hostile submarines. It was officially announced from Rome today. The statement reads:

"During the week ended Nov. 11 vessels to the number of 384 entered ports and 333 left. The loss due to submarines was one sailing vessel of more than 100 tons."

A British destroyer and a small monitor which were operating in conjunction have been sunk by a hostile submarine. It was officially announced this evening. A total of thirty-three men from the two vessels are missing. The text of the statement announcing the losses reads:

"One of his majesty's destroyers and a small monitor have been sunk by an enemy submarine while co-operating with the army in Palestine. Seven men are missing from the destroyer and twenty-six from the monitor."

An American dispatch to the Daily Mail says a German submarine on Monday torpedoed without warning the Dutch trawler Huibertje at a point twenty-five miles off the Dutch coast. A Dutch boy of 15 years was killed. Ten survivors were rescued after being seven hours in a small boat and were landed at Ymuiden.

ALL WORKING FOR GOOD OF FORT WAYNE

Loyalty of City's Business Interests in Boosting City's Welfare.

The Fort Wayne stores yesterday presented a decidedly busy appearance on account of the immense number of visitors to the city, drawn by the combination of perfect weather and the exceptionally strong inducements offered by the merchants of the city. All Fort Wayne is benefiting from the growing success of Suburban Shopping day, a fact which should inspire appreciation on the part of everyone interested in the upbuilding of the city's welfare. The loyal men who are back of the Suburban day plan are giving willingly to make the weekly trade day a growing success, without regard to their own personal gain. They have the big welfare of the city at heart. They are not asking, "What am I going to get out of it?" but rather, "Is it for the general good of Fort Wayne?"

a good reason for women living longer than men, and there being more old women and old men. Dr. J. N. Hurty, state health commissioner, declares. Discussing the causes and the facts shown by vital statistics, he says:

"Vital statistics show there are more old women than old men, and further that women live longer than men. Of course, the reason is plain. Women live cleaner lives than men. They are given less to excesses, have fewer infections, don't drink whisky, don't use tobacco, don't sit for hours and play cards in unventilated rooms thick with tobacco smoke, don't chase off to big cities and stay several days, and so they come into old age with sounder organs. No wonder they have a death rate lower than that of men and a longer life expectancy."

"Intemperance in living will supply you with crippled vital organs at fifty, and then your pains and aches and doctor bills will remind you what a fool you were not to obey the laws of your well being. Very probably all kinds of intemperance will exist until we more generally get rid of the delusion that we can find a substitute for righteousness."

"Delusions bring plenty of trouble into the world. Two delusions, the divine right to rule, and the idea of the Huns that they are superior and born to rule the earth, have caused the blood wetter which now engulfs humanity."

AGAINST THE WORST FOE.

Germany is a strong, resourceful and unscrupulous foe. Prussianism will be hard to put down, but in the end it will be put down. It will cost hecatombs of dead and treasure inestimable, yet the task must be pressed and the burden borne until the world shall be made safe.

America, in common with her allies, has a worse foe to fight than Prussian militarism. The demoralizations that war inflicts upon manhood do not cease their consequences with the signing of peace pacts. They destroy those who are spared by the bullets and bayonets of the enemy. They go on working their dreadful ruin for generations. Spiritual decay, moral degeneracy, bodily rot are the immemorial inflictions of war upon manhood.

That the American armies may be, so far as human agency is able to provide, well guarded and fenced against the insidious attacks of the most degrading elements of war is the determination of the government and people of this nation. One of the greatest of instrumentalities to this end is the Young Men's Christian association. That great organization will erect its barricades against the foe in every home camp and cantonment and on every battle front in Europe where American troops are sent to fight. That work is now under way. It is doing its splendid duty everywhere that American soldiers are assembled. But the work must be expanded and its activities must be multiplied. To do this vast sums of money are required now and will be required throughout the war.

No good American who is able to give so little as a dime to the fund for the war camp work of the Y. M. C. A. will withhold that contribution. It is a duty that rests alike upon all to help in the financing of this mighty labor to keep the boys clean in body and mind and strong in the spirit of good. The movement now proceeding to raise thirty-five million dollars for this work is well under way. It is meeting with fine success. The people of the nation are aroused to the importance of the work and are responding generously. There remains much to be done that this drive for thirty-five millions shall be fully accomplished. Those who have given nothing are permitting themselves to escape one of the finest as well as one of the most imperative duties of American citizenship in the war. You who have given nothing, make it the highest and most immediate of your obligations to add your contribution to the fund. If you have been missed by workers for the fund, hunt them up. Do not try to find satisfaction in having been overlooked to the advantage of a few dollars to your bank account or your pocketbook. To you no solace will come from having effected that sordid saving.

American money placed in the hands of the Y. M. C. A. for its war camp work can perform wonders to make war safe for young American manhood. The forces of evil must be fought and downed as the forces of the victory over vice and shame and foul disease will not be the inferior triumph, be sure. It lies in the power of American wealth righteously employed to this great end to accomplish for American fighting men what never before has been true of the armies of any nation in any war. The boys can be sent sound and clean from camps to the trenches and brought back sound and clean from the trenches to their homes. But it will take money—heaps of it. Only prodigious expenditures can win this fight for the morals and health of the American fighting man. Do you think he is worth making that fight for? Then put in your money to help make the fight.

WHAT RUSSIA MAY DO.

The word that comes by way of Copenhagen announcing a rebellion in Siberia and the setting up of an imperial throne for Nicholas, the deposed czar, doubtless is of a piece with numerous other fictions that have been arriving by that route for some days. At the same time it may have some value as a forecast. There must be order in Russia under the democracy or there will be search for order under some other form of government. The mass of the people will at length become weary of turmoil and bloodshed, the clash of rivalries and the conflicting ambitions and purposes of factional and party leaders who thrust woe upon the people because they cannot agree.

Autocracy and its despotisms will be preferred to anarchy and its excesses and it seems to be into anarchy that the democracy of Russia is drifting. Liberty that realizes only license for the turbulent will not be thought a priceless blessing by any people that has an instinct for good order and peaceful pursuits. If the factional leaders of Russia can hold out to the people of that land nothing better than has come to them since the autocracy was overthrown it will not be a strange spectacle nor one without precedent to see them looking to a return of the old order that they may have peace among themselves. The situation in Russia has not yet reached that critical point, but that it may be reached is not an unreasonable supposition. What amounts to civil war is in progress in a part of Russia. It may spread extensively.

After some years of the revolutionary government with its red terror the people of France, at the end of the Eighteenth century, fell readily under the influence and leadership of the first Napoleon and welcomed the power of a strong hand to restore order, establish government, give security to life and property and potency to the state. The first empire followed and Napoleon made France the greatest power since Rome. Democracy in France fared precariously upon a devious road for near three-quarters of a century and got its root firmly into the soil only after the Napoleonic dynasty went down at Sedan before the sweep of von Moltke's Prussian legions. The republic of France, begun a century and a quarter ago, had no real establishment until after the commune of '71 had again made the way for it. After almost fifty years of order and progress the democracy of France may now be said to be durable.

The task of democracy in Russia is beset by enormous difficulties that France did not and could not know. The people of France are French. The people of Russia are of many kinds. The empire was a hodge-podge of nations knit together by the sword and held together by tyranny. Whatever force it is that keeps Russia together, whether a despotism or a democracy, must at least be strong. The failure of democracy to govern and set material and social conditions ahead will open the way for a return of the Romanoffs. It may be an ill refuge, but still a refuge from an anarchy that is worse than despotism. We believe that the people of Russia will be disposed to heed their wiser counselors and to give support to rational theories of government and aid to bring normal economic conditions about. But they haven't yet made headway.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM.

The Fort Wayne woman who caught up an ice pick and chased from her premises a stranger who insisted he was a federal agent with authority to inspect the food stores in her cellar set a worthy example. Not all mistresses of households may have either an ice pick handy or the courage to use it, but the good sense and resourcefulness of the heroine of this local episode may be emulated.

There is no purpose or effort of the federal government to pry into domestic cellars to find out what thrifty and patriotic American housewives have stored from the harvests of summer and fall. The more they have conserved perishable foods the better the government is pleased and they are more than welcome to their comforting stores. Hoarders of certain forbidden foodstuffs, who are preventing others from having even a meager share of the things that now are scarce will be looked after in good time by agents who are properly credentialed and can give good account of themselves.

Strangers who come nosing around your home demanding to get into your cellar are either thieves spying out the land for a raid or are enemy agents trying to perform a service for the kaiser. In any event of the sort, get the ice pick or call the police and be sure if the fellow gets away that you have noted him carefully enough to be able to identify him.

Did up your little or big bit for the Y. M. C. A. fund, give it cheerfully and then line your pocket for another touch.

TO MY MAECENAS, WHEREVER HE MAY BE.
(Q. Horatii Flacci Carminum: Liber Primus, Carmen I.)

"Maecenas atavis editte regibus—"

Maecenas, how I wish I knew
Just where you are. It makes me sick
To prow around, while maybe you
Are searching near my ballistics,
Desiring with an impulse warm—
(It's warmest when you are at table—)
That you might give that Sabine farm
To me. I wish this were no fable!

Maecenas, whom Q. Horace loved,
A Sabine farm near a near-Asian
Would make me feel—well, rather moved—Bucolic days for sure! Say, man!
Just try me out. I dare you to.
Your whole long life shall be a poem.
I'll write one every day to you—
You bet your life, old pal, I know 'em!

Maecenas, we will hold high links,
And deck your brows with festive green,
And every time a goddess winks
We'll order up the Hippocrene.
Ay, nymphs and satyrs will be there—
Believe me, Mike, I am some stayer—
Euterpe's arms shall smite the air,
And jolt our jazz piano-player!

Maecenas, let me kiss you on!
I want that farm—I do, indeed!
'Twould make me pretty near bon ton—
In this place farms are all the fad.
That settled we might talk on "ars
Poetica"—and I might, I dunno,
Hit my fool head agin the stars,
If you classed me with Harriet Monroe!

Our Daily Affirmation.

IT WOULD BE A GRAND THING TO OWN

OTHER GOOD-NATURED GUY WOULD LOOK AFTER THE COAL AND TAXES.

Great Moments in Poetry.

The following gems were selected with great care from the poem which Mr. William S. Braithwaite considers one of the best of the year. There are ten lines in the masterpiece. No, we beg Mr. Johns' pardon—there are twelve lines.

"She is never around for any one to touch.
But of ecstasy and longing she, too, knew much."
—From "The Interpreter," by Orrick Johns.

"Like snow in the springtime on a sunny hill,
And we were only frightened and can't think still."
—From "The Interpreter," by Orrick Johns.

"We can't think quite that the katydids and frogs,
And the little cheeping chickens and the little grunting hogs,
And the other living things, that she spoke for us,
Have nothing more to tell her since it happened thus."
—From "The Interpreter," by Orrick Johns.

And, at this point we pause, remembering full well what happened to those who read the fatal "King in Yellow."

But, it seems unfair to give Mr. Johns all the honors. This is Mr. Noble C. Spriggs, of Denver, our own discovery. May we not, in our little private anthology, add a final sprig of real verse?

"To know the haunts of the possum,
The raccoon and the skunk,
You ask, 'How did you do it?'
How come you to think to think?"
Was brought up in the backwoods
'Mongst the buzzards and the crows,
And who wasn't little reckons
All the things a body knows."

As long as breath gurgles through our wind-pipe
We shall insist that Orrick Johns divide his laurel Wreath—Mr. Braithwaite's nosegay—with Mr. Spriggs.

TROT-ZKY

HELPING TO WIN THE WAR

Article VI—Advice to Americans Between Ages of 50 and 100

By GEORGE ADE.

Prepared for the Indiana Council of Defense.

If it is not too late to accept an apology for the label of "advice" on these little talks regarding the war.

The writer does not pretend to be in charge of any reservoir of knowledge from which to ladle out exclusive information.

He is simply endeavoring to remind people of things they already know, and possibly permit them to draw some fresh conclusions from the same old array of facts.

"Old men for counsel and young men for actions."

The old men are counseling these days and doing great work.

A few of them have gone into the ditch and are lying upside down, with the wheels still revolving, but 98 per cent are on the job and swinging huge undertakings with calm efficiency.

The inside directors of this war are men past 50 and many have edged beyond 60 and an active minority will tell you that a fellow never gets into his prime until he is around 70.

The older men who have observed the grind of world politics for fifty years and who recognize the present struggle as the culmination of a cold-blooded plot to Germanize the planet they do not have to be lectured as to the dreadful significance of what is happening in Europe.

The venerable Joseph H. Choate, almost with his last breath, begged his countrymen to stand and fight for their heritage.

They say that Elihu Root is an old man but every time he speaks we are stirred as by the call of a bugle.

Thousands and thousands of college boys marched out to the training camps last spring and all of them received benediction from gray-haired professors, who know their Europe as well as their America, who have studied history and classified the underlying influences that move the races of the earth, and who know that all of the humane and decent influences in the world are now lined up against organized military brutality, and there can be no compromise.

The dangerous man these days is the fellow who cannot remember anything that happened more than six weeks ago and who cannot see beyond the boundaries of his own picket fence.

He is ready to discuss with you the report that the night the boys got into Camp McGinniss they had only a blanket apiece, but if you try to indicate to him the plans which have been incubating in Berlin ever since 1871, and the stealthy German efforts to get footholds in Mexico and Venezuela and the West Indies, and the revelation of German duplicity in 1914, and the whole diabolical plot for butchering nations, one at a time, you will lose your audience.

You are getting too far away as regards geography, and too far back as regards time and too blinded deep into psychology in your endeavor to explain motives.

The motives in which you are talking do not seem to connect the war with the tax rate in our township or the price of grain at the elevator.

Take this same Mr. Sleepy Citizen and recall to him how we kept turning one cheek and then the other, until we were slapped silly, and he will agree with you that a man or nation must fight if insulted and humiliated beyond endurance.

All right, he gets that part of it. But, if he regards this war merely as an attempt on our part to lick some one who picked on us, he had better be straightened out in the head or he will be voting, in a few months, for the acceptance of fake terms of peace.

The counselors, the leaders of thought, the molders of opinion, the elderly wise men, who can see through a board when it has a knothole in it, must set down with Mr. and Mrs. Average Man and drive it into them that we are fighting an enemy who never means what he says, who travels roundabout instead of direct, whose diplomat exalts the lie and excuses the felony, with whom the ulterior motive is always uppermost.

We know that the solid men of our country will buy Liberty Bonds and give to the Red Cross and make special prices to the government and serve on councils of defense and pay increased taxes without whimpering.

Just now another and larger duty is at hand—to convince the whole United States of America that when Germany begins to talk peace we must be hard of hearing.

A half-finished job is of less account than one that never was begun.

Of course Germany wants peace—on her own terms.

Any burglars will make peace with a policeman, if permitted to remain in the bag of silverware and if given a fresh license to go out and commit future burglaries.

When Germany talks peace (in vague terms and without coming down to cases) one purpose is to deceive the simpletons behind the allied lines and weaken the resolution needed to back up a successful war.

The other purpose is to convince the simpletons at home that the allies, in refusing peace terms, make evident their determination to exterminate the German people, therefore, every subject of the Kaiser must steel himself to new resolution and make ready for further sacrifices.

If the unfortunate Ottos and Fritzies, who are serving as cannon fodder, choose to believe the bulletins sent out from Berlin that is their habit and their blessed privilege.

But an American above the age of seven who regulates his war activities so as to be in harmony with the latest information from Potsdam, needs looking after, that's all.

The man and his wife who have a boy somewhere away off yonder, cooped in a shell crater—can you blame them for wanting the war to end?

The young wives and the sweethearts, and the anxious relatives, and the college mates and the townspeople—all grabbing at bits of information from the front and hoping for the best—is it surprising that they will pull for peace next year a good deal harder than they are pulling this year?

That is what we are coming to and we must be ready to checkmate and put into the discard all premature and aimless talk about quitting.

If people know what must happen to the world if the German conspiracy succeeds, there will be no faltering.

The editorials and magazine articles and public letters up to this time have tried to answer the question "Why we are at war?"

That question seems to be answered.

Now it needs to be shown that the war must continue until Germany, with bloody hands and bowed head, stands before the tribunal of everlasting right, pleading guilty and asking for mercy.

IN WASTE PLACES.

(From the Terre Haute Tribune.)

The Chicago Tribune, in a very faithful and commendable spirit, day by day seeks to lead the people of this country to a more intelligent and patriotic attitude toward the American flag as will prompt the citizen to remove his hat when the American flag goes by.

Of course it would be unfair to imply that all this delinquency on the part of the citizens of Chicago is a reflection of the flag and same patriotism of the mayor of that city. But that will be the conclusion to a great element of the people.

Indiana has been comparatively free from this discouraging phenomenon. Fort Wayne probably is the only point in the state where ulterior influences have seemed to palsify real Americanism, and there it is due to some of the newspapers projecting the local and state political game before the welfare of the nation and by studied and malicious criticism of the president and his chief aids in the conduct of the war.

Creating a suspicion in the community mind that has congealed its patriotic devotion to the cause of America.

Fort Wayne has, however, about overcome this obsession. She is showing signs of coming to her senses and appears to be lining up with the rest of the loyal and patriotic cities of the Hoosier commonwealth.

It is to be heartily hoped that the campaign of The Chicago Tribune to rehabilitate respect for the flag there will succeed. Fort Wayne will probably be restored to sound health patriotically by the very wave of loyalty that is sweeping the state from the sand dunes to the Ohio.

It is fervid enough to rekindle any dead or extinct area in the state.

PAYING WAR TAXES.

(Spokane Spokesman-Review.)

The government specifically expects the war tax on theater tickets to be paid by the buyer of the tickets, and not by the theater owners. That is made clear in the law which does not require the owners to go to a single cent of added expense on account of the ticket tax. The theatergoer understands this, and expects to pay 10 per cent of the face value of his ticket as part of his contribution to the country's war expenses. Whether he would be so cheerful in the face of 50 per cent increase, 40 per cent, of which would go into the theaters' tills, is another question. Care must be taken, now that the new taxes are about to go into effect, that they be not made an excuse for increasing profits. The temptation in many lines of business to take up a war tax of a cent by a price increase of a nickel will be great, especially if a few merchants make a notable success of it from the start. Nobody will object to paying a small direct tax to help the government finance the war, but everybody will object to contributing extra war profits to greedy tradespeople.

FROM THE SENTINEL PAGES 25 YEARS AGO

Benjamin Benninghoff, of near Maysville, is thinking of locating in this city and investing $20,000 in tenement houses.

One of Centville's teams ran away Saturday evening on West Jefferson street and wrecked the wagon at the corner of Brackenridge street. One horse ran to the stable and one is missing.

On Thursday of this week the Messrs. Centville will begin to bore for gas near their brewery. Some new and improved machinery will be used by the drillers. The effort is in the line of enterprise.

Willie Perry, whose parents reside at No. 1 Oak street, is the victim of an air gun accident. A playmate shot him in the eye, inflicting a wound which may result in the loss of the optic. Dr. Schilling is attending the lad.

Last night the family of A. Walters, who live on Huettis street, were awakened by loud screams of "burglars," "burglars," and Mr. Walters reached for his revolver and ran to his mother-in-law's room upstairs from which portion of the house the noise originated. He found the door locked upon the inside and aroused the neighbors. George Byers, a neighbor, went out on the street and began calling for the police, but in the meantime he had been shot in the head and it was found that the lady had been only dreaming of burglars.

Last evening about 5 o'clock, the patrol wagon was called to the corner of Wayne and Francis streets by a telephone message which stated that there was a fire in the northwest corner of the room. While the fire was in progress some suspicious characters were seen loitering about and were chased away.

FOLK EXERCISES, DEHM'S HALL.

Pupils of Clay School Plan to Help Colored Mothers' Club.

There will be an entertainment given in Dehm's hall on Tuesday, Nov. 20 by pupils of the Clay school, who are to give folk dances. The A. M. E. choir will sing and the opera is particularly wonderful in orchestration and varied in color with little of thematic quality, easy to single out to linger in the memory, but deeply impressive as a whole.

The role of Aida was sung by Miss

Not Russian Furs But Really English

Although their richness and the smart little Russian hat betokens the eastern origin of these Christmas furs, they were sent out by a London designer. The coat is of mole-skin and the trimmings are smoked fur—a grayish black tinge that combines well with other smooth, short-haired furs, and with velvet.

The Russian hat of silk is heavily embroidered and beaded with shell and wooden chains in brilliant colors and is in effective contrast with the subdued hues of the coat.

Louisa Darclee, who is taking the place of Mary Kacstner while that dramatic soprano is having a rest. Perhaps the role might have been better sung, but no one had any way of telling unless he had heard it done so, for Miss Darclee has a beautiful voice of range and power that easily carries such an aria as "O Skies of Tender Blue," third act, and she rises to the needed dramatic force at all times.

Very appealing was the duet between Aida and Radames when he impetuously her to "fly with me." Manuel Salazar as Radames was magnificent.

A wonderful voice, a fine presence, much "verve" and apparently an intuitive appreciation, left nothing to be desired in his presentation of the part.

Joseph Roger, basso, as the Ethiopian King, was equally impressive both as to voice and dramatic intensity, while Pietro De Biasi, high priest, and Natche Cervi, Egyptian King, were two other members of the operatic cast.

Miss Stella Demette, the mezzo-soprano, who sang America, has a smooth, sweet voice which always appeared to good advantage and in solos especially was equal to all musical demands.

Fortunately the audience was well seated early so that wonderful aria for the tenor, "Celeste Aida," was heard with an almost breathless silence.

All the way through the opera are many scenes of unusual beauty, of which the closing may well be touched upon, bringing as it does the story of the opera to a sad close with the two lovers, Radames and Aida, shut in the subterranean hall of the Temple of Vulcan to die, Aida by choice to be with the man she loves, Radames because he has refused to marry America or to confess that he was not a traitor to his country.

Above the despairing lovers is represented the interior of the temple with the statue of the god, Osiris, surrounded with the splendor of gold and lights of various colors, while two priests with burning vessels of oil in front of them guard the stone they have placed over the vault below and America kneeling before them bawling her jealousy and beseeching the priests to release Radames.

AT THE PALACE

Mlle. Bianca, Dansseuse.

Gracefully Artistic Girl on Bill Today at Palace.

A two-way headline bill opened this afternoon at the New Palace for the remainder of the week with Mlle. Bianca and Edward F. Reynard as the feature attractions.

Mlle. Bianca, formerly premier danseuse of the Metropolitan dancers in New York, with the assistance of Korsakoff, a Russian dancer of note, and Miss Haghighi, a graceful folk interpreter of the terpsichorean art, will present on this bill a series of artistic dance specialties, each with an elaborate individual stage setting.

Edward F. Reynard, the ventriloquist comedian, assisted by Katherine McConnell, and of course the famous "The Desperate Lovers" in "The Court," a riot in ventriloquistic comedy, depicting some scenes in Judge Dewberry's rag time court. Miss McConnell is afforded some excellent opportunities for the displaying of her ability as a dancer.

Harry Madison and Gene Winchester in "Versatile Nonsense," present a bit of everything including eccentric dances and laugh songs. Among the others on the bill are The Gladiators, super men in feats of tremendous physical strength and agility; Claudia Tracy, the petite miss with the talent for graceful dance and clever talk, and Duke Johnson and Mae Wells, in songs and dances of the moment.

The Value of a Color Sense in Home Making

BY BIDDY BYE.

When the American daughter reaches the "teen age" there is a flurry in the family circle and a disturbance in the family purse—prossing its deepening depression as young daughter grows in marriageability. The excitement is due to the realization that it is time to make daughter an accomplished girl.

Father is all for commonsense home training in cooking and sewing, but Mother knows such staples of education have little publicity value.

Now comes a New York art critic explaining mothers that a bit of training in the sense of color would double their daughters' success as homemakers.

Louis Weinberg, art lecturer of New York university, says "most women's knowledge of art is so limited that they think of color in such terms as blue, red and green rather than as values of blues, reds and greens."

"Color has a definite drawing power, so why shouldn't the daughter of the house study its uses? If a girl learned something about color she would have made a better homemaker."

Most women say, "If I had lots of money I could make my home beautiful, too."

"Now that is all wrong," declares Weinberg. "Art is possible for everyone. If a woman would only realize that she is the artist and her own home and her own person are her canvases, she could work wonders. There is no reason why she should take the word of a decorator or painter about her house or her dress. Let her do with what she has."

"Usually removing things from the rooms, rather than adding, makes an improvement."

"Assembling colors, not mixing them, requires color judgment, and this comes only with training. Every child in school should learn the principles of color."

A VISIT WITH YOUR BOY IN THE TRAINING CAMP

By SAMUEL MERWIN.
Let me try to paint a little picture of a cantonment town as I saw it a few days and nights ago.

It was, last spring, a quiet little town of a few thousand inhabitants. Then in the summer the contractors descended on it, took possession of the railway sidings and built many others, rushed to work thousands of laborers on a large tract of land not a mile away, and in two months' time cleared forests, built roads and churned up the deep mud where other roads will be before winter, erected hundreds of wooden barracks, stables, gunsheds, cook houses, administration buildings. Then, in September, the first drafts of the National Army began pouring in. Today about forty thousand of these young men, all from the family environment, from the more or less settled habits of work and friendship, torn by the grim hand of war for training as individual units of a colossal but as yet wholly new military machine.

Into the little junction city poured, at the same time, an inevitably parasitic insect moving to their prey, the hosts of organized vice. The little city fought them earnestly but feebly through its loose-jointed, rather casual, typically easy-going political organization. Commissions organized by the government—the first great government that has ever, right from the beginning of a war, determined to protect its young soldiers from evil influences, no matter what subtly powerful organized forces it might have to fight and destroy—moved in, set up standard of decency, impressed them on the local authorities, moved on to neighboring cities that are not an hour away by trolley or by convenient and ever-waiting automobiles, and grappled there with the local problems of drink and immorality.

But, able and determined as the men of these commissions were and are, effective as has been, already, much of their work, forcible as is the new, hitherto unheard-of federal regulations that alcoholic drink may not be served to men in uniform and that soldiers must wear their uniforms, the blind, persistent forces of organized and unorganized evil press in here, there, everywhere. Here and there they break through the walls of regulation, slip under or around. Eternal vigilance is necessary to achieve even a partial success. There is much that is ugly in life; of an ugliness that persists, assuming a thousand attractive forms and faces, confusing the individual, appealing to his weakness, his loneliness, his temperance.

Yes, in spite of this organized and determined against evil, evil persists. It swarms at the young soldier as by an insidious, unorganized evil press in here, there, everywhere. of their minds and spirits? What are they thinking, behind the quiet, already bronzed faces under the wide brims of the campaign hats? What confusions are there, what stirring restless desires, what complex personal problems, what desperate needs of mind or spirit?

These and other disturbing questions rose among my own thoughts as I watched those faces the other day. Then, in the cantonment, as I went from one to another of the low-spreading green "huts" of the Y. M. C. A., all my brooding questions were answered.

I want to tell you if I can, briefly of necessity, but as forcibly as possible, how the Y. M. C. A. is doing today, in every training camp in England, France, Egypt—wherever our boys in olive-drab are being sent—a work so necessary, so vital, so comprehensive that it reaches straight back through every soldier's boy to cheer the home he came from, to strengthen the faith of every watching sister, mother or father in the boy, in the army of which he is a unit, in the country for which he fights.

In this cantonment there are ten or eleven buildings, of which eight or nine are the so-called "huts." A "hut" usually has a roomy entrance hall, with stove, desk and counter for the local secretary, for the dispensing of writing paper and envelopes, of postcards, stamps and other little necessities. There is a big stove or two. There is a telephone room with perhaps a dozen instruments divided off by boards to give at least a little privacy. There are long shelves of books—good but never goody books—and magazines. There is always a talking machine with plenty of records. There are chairs and benches.

It is all as simple as possible, for the expense of all this construction and maintenance in America and Europe is immense. But it is as comfortable and cheery as a strong corps of trained experts in comfort and cheer have been able to make it. On the wall behind the counter, just where your eye will rest on it when you come up for letter paper and envelopes, there is likely to be a lettered placard reading: "Have You Written Home?" with the "You" in red ink.

Push through the swinging doors and you find yourself in the auditorium, where perhaps six or eight hundred men are sitting on the wooden benches, standing at the back around the stove or on the endless bench and plank writing table (with inkwells) that line the walls.

We will consider the uses of these auditoriums in a moment. First please let me tell briefly what these "huts" broadly mean. Here is the soldier's club. Here he can come in any free moment between reveille and taps and find a welcome. Here he always finds a reminder of home and of his home obligations. His own home really touches him every day through the nearest Y. M. C. A. "hut." If a telegram comes from him and he seems to be lost in the vast army machine, the Y. M. C. A., through these nerve centers (and it has nerve tips in the persons of residents in each barracks) will find him. If a long-distance telephone call comes from some anxious one to our soldier boy, the Y. M. C. A. will bring him into its own convenient telephone room where he can hear the home voice. Though the Y. M. C. A. is essentially a religious organization, here he can smoke to his heart's content, play checkers or other games, find a good novel. He can study simple conversation, read the "single men" some huts, play billiards. Spiritual counsel is always ready at his elbow, yet so far as I can gather, not a boy in the forty thousand feels nagged. If he did he wouldn't come. And come he certainly does!

I went about, during the evening, from hut to hut, five or six in all. I had come without warning, to see the machinery of the organization at its usual daily work. It was in no sense a special occasion—a Friday as it happened. But in those five or six huts and in the larger main auditorium, where a "Kilties" band was giving a formal concert, I estimated as carefully as I could the between five and seven thousand men were accounted for, busy, comfortable and in good spirits.

In the first hut, an observer fresh from the trenches in France—an easy, crisp, very affectionate speaker, who knew or seemed to know his audience and held them—was giving a sort of lecture. The place was literally jammed. Men everywhere standing or sitting on those long wall writing tables. In the next hut there were motion pictures. And a crowd. In another the more talented "stunt" men of a certain company were entertaining the rest of the regiment. They produced while I was there, an excellent, well-trained baritone singer, an adequate accompanist, and an orchestra of eight or ten pieces with a conscientious conductor. In another hut, Vernon Stiles, one of the commissioned song-leaders, was entertaining a crowded hall to sing "Over There," with a chart of the words above the platform. And they all sang. For ours is to be a singing army.

And then—there are many moving little histories of the sort—the Y. M. C. A. men are trained to leave, in a moment, the ninety and nine in the fold and go out after the one that is lost. For among the forty thousand, lurking, hidden here and there, are tragedies.

One war bride tried to kill herself at home. The young husband, desperate, planned to do it. It was Y. M. C. A. man who arranged for his leave, dropped all other work and rode home with him, four hours, in an express car, and stood by until the hysterical crisis had passed.

One soldier found himself about to become unhappily a father. The father of the girl he had injured threatened to kill him. It was a Y. M. C. A. man who went home with that boy and drew the parties together at a wedding which appears to have turned an apparently certain tragedy into at least partial happiness.

These are grim facts. I mention them after deliberate thought. For they illustrate that the work of the Y. M. C. A. is real and vital. It takes hold of the soldier where the army control must, in certain ways and to a considerable extent leave off. It reaches recognizes frankly that the soldier boys are not plaster saints, but "single men" in barracks, most remarkably like you." It faces the grim facts in life with courage, hope, unshakable determination. It holds a boy to his faith in himself as in his God. There is no other organization in the world that is organized and equipped to do precisely this work. If American ideals, if the American hope of democracy, democracy, a cleaner, sweeter earth, are to be realized, such an organization is emphatically necessary. It stands today, on the spot everywhere, reaching every soldier, recognized by our government as the moral and spiritual branch of the army.

All this special service to the soldier and to those who are thinking of and praying for that soldier is necessarily free. There is no way that the soldier himself, out of his small pay, after the heavy sacrifices he has made, could even begin to pay for it.

It is, in the aggregate, a costly service. It must be kept up, everywhere that the soldiers go.

I appeal to you, the reader, as one who has had an opportunity to see something of what the Y. M. C. A. means to all of us, to give something to keep it going. Much or little, give something.

COAL DISTRIBUTION COMPLETE FOR WEEK

Work of Indiana Fuel Administrator Relieves General Situation.

Indianapolis, Nov. 15.—All coal needed to meet the demands of the state for the present week, as indicated in estimates made on Monday by the county fuel administrators, has been ordered to the various counties according to information given out today at the office of the state fuel administrator, Evans Woolen. A total of 401 cars was ordered to 47 counties. This indicates either that the coal situation is much better or that people and jobbers are not taking advantage of the mild weather to lay in a supply.

Alex. R. Holliday, assistant fuel administrator, has called attention to delay in some communities in unloading cars. Mr. Woolen and others have repeatedly impressed on those having charge of coal shipments that it is necessary that the cars be unloaded as quickly as possible.

The executive committee for the Indiana administration met with Mr. Woolen yesterday and the attention of coal jobbers was called for a second time to what apparently will be their function in aiding the shortage of coal. At the conference it was brought out that coal jobbers can be of service in bringing eastern coal to the state and they will be advised to exercise that function.

With a total of $10,805 in new subscriptions reported today by the teams in the drive to bring up Allen county's quota of $45,000 on the war work fund of the Y. M. C. A., the total reached $21,898.

Final reports will be made tomorrow noon, and it is fully expected that the quota will not only be reached, but be safely passed.

Bishop Commends Movement.
Rt. Rev. Harry A. Alving, bishop of the diocese of Fort Wayne, has not only made a personal contribution to the cause, as he did to similar work under direction of the Knights of Columbus, but has given his cordial approval of the big undertaking of the Y. M. C. A.

Eighty teams are at work today in the outside districts of the county, from whom no report has yet been received. Special campaigns are in progress at the Bowser works, the Pennsylvania shops and other institutions about the city which are yet to be heard from. More than this, the city teams were released from the card system at noon today and started the final roundup by soliciting everybody within reach.

Enthusiasm Is Marked.
Enthusiasm was at high tide when the teams gathered at noon today at the Elks' club for the luncheon and the reports of the canvass. During the dinner, in response to many remarks, Mrs. R. W. Fowler sang "Over There" in her inimitable fashion, and the big crowd of men joined her heartily in the chorus.

As was the case yesterday, there was lively rivalry among the teams for leadership in the amount of subscriptions secured, and Art Smith's men's club crew was once more victorious, thereby winning the $2,000 Bowser subscription, which was promptly added to the club's total, bringing it to $10,035.

Reports of the Teams.
The report on the work of the teams to date is as follows:

Team	Total
182-Commercial Club	$2,597
292-Elks	450
325-Friars	450
375-100 Per Cent	825
735-Kiwanis	825
342-University	825
380-Real Estate	825
539-Rotary	1,725
1,635-Quest	3,725
2,935-Men's	8,035

Bishop Alving Commends It.
Rt. Rev. Harry A. Alving, bishop of Fort Wayne, not only has subscribed to the Y. M. C. A. fund in a sum equal to his gift to the Knights of Columbus for war work, but has assured the managers of the Y. M. C. A. campaign that he is fully convinced of the great value of the war work of the Y. M. C. A., a world wide perfected organization which he hopes will be supported to the fullest extent.

"You may quote me as being heartily in sympathy with the great work which the Y. M. C. A. is doing in these perilous times," said the bishop.

The Boys Are Working.
The Fort Wayne high school boys' committees are just getting under their campaign in earnest. They had a meeting this morning, addressed by George Carhart, representing the state headquarters war work committee. One boy had ten cards which he produced. The boys plan to make a twenty-four whirlwind finish, and expect to reach the 200 mark. The local slogan is "Earn and Give." The national slogan is "One Hundred Thousand Boys, One Million Dollars," each boy earning and contributing $10 between now and the 18th of April, 1918. Principal L. C. Ward and the men of the high school faculty are forming an advisory committee, with backing up the boys in their efforts, and will keep them in suggestions for getting employment. Firms and individuals having work of various kinds which boys can perform are asked to get in touch with Mr. Ward and his committee, as the boys are not to ask their fathers to "fork over" $10, but to earn it themselves, according to the terms of the boys' campaign—a challenge to the heroic that finds an enthusiastic response with boys.

Good for Adams.
Word received from Decatur this morning is to the effect that Adams county, with very few exceptions, has gone over its quota of $5,000 by $152. Several townships had not yet reported, and it is believed the total will exceed $6,000.

Up to this morning, Huntington county had registered $8,142 of its $12,000, with every prospect of success. State headquarters report that one-third of Indiana's quota of $1,000,000 has been reported. A number of cities throughout the state have reported the proportion of their quotas subscribed as follows, up to last evening: Indianapolis, 51 per cent; Anderson, 85; Crawfordsville, 66; Gary, 55; Vincennes, 80; Marion, 59.

More Money Needed.
A telegram received by the Fort Wayne Y. M. C. A. campaign committee from Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary in charge of the war-work of the association, contains these significant words:

"In the light of the startling developments on the eastern and southern fronts and in the light of significant cablegrams just received from the prime minister of France, it is clear that we shall need much more than $35,000,000, and this is in the national interest as well as to save the allies. These recent developments have convinced our best advisers that the war will continue longer than most of them anticipated when our goal was fixed. All think it would be most desirable if we could now raise a sum sufficient to make another canvass unnecessary prior to October."

TO RECEIVE BIDS ON FOUR NEW SIDEWALKS

Board of Works Will Act on Assessment Roll at Regular Session.

The board of works will hold its regular meeting this evening, at which time bids for four new sidewalks will be received. The first on the south side of High street, from Francis to Hanna; the second on the east side of Arlington to Rudisill, the third on the south side of Pierce, from South Wayne to the first alley east and the fourth on the east side of Mary's, from Burgess to High, and on the west side of St. Mary's from High to Third.

The assessment roll for the sewer in the alley south of High street, from Barthold to Shannon street, has been completed and will be acted upon. The total assessment is placed at $845.25.

New 200 Cases.
Two hundred cases of smallpox are at Fort Wayne at the present time. Although the most cases are those of children, a considerable number of grown people are also afflicted. Owing to the constant action of employers the spread of the disease has been hampered to a great degree. All downtown stores have been requested to have their employees vaccinated, and any cases found at those places will not be through lack of precaution.

The following cases were reported up to Thursday afternoon: Rev. Doege, 1638 St. Mary's avenue; G. Harlan, 2003 California avenue; H. Umer, 1616 Oakland street.

The Birth Record.
Born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Schult, 1705 Lafayette street, a daughter.

BAVARIANS GET SORE AT SABBATH TRANSFER

Copenhagen, Wednesday, Nov. 14.—The Bavarian government in order to effect better utilization of water power and electricity and to save coal, has decided to transfer the Sunday holiday to another day in the week. This has stirred up a hornet's nest. The Catholic clergy have protested most energetically and are supported by the Protestants. Catholic labor unions have held a big meeting of protest. Only the socialist unions acquiesce.

GERMANS FELICITATE BOLSHEVIKI BUNCH

Stockholm, Nov. 15.—The German minority socialist executive committee has sent the local newspaper of the Russian Bolshevik a telegram congratulating the Bolsheviks on their "seizure of political power." The telegram expresses the hope that the Bolsheviks will succeed in forcing a peace without annexation.

The revolutionary committee in Petrograd, according to a dispatch from Haparanda, has taken measures for revictualing the Russian capital. Arrangements have been made for increasing the stocks of wheat and workmen have been ordered to continue their work without interruption.

FEDERATION ACCLAMED

Labor Body Praised and Congratulated for Patriotic Attitude.

MANY TELEGRAMS TO THE CONVENTION

Steps to Prevent Strikes in Shipyards and Munitions Plants Win.

Buffalo, Nov. 15.—Telegrams from all parts of the country congratulating President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor and the officers of the building trades department for the steps they have taken to eliminate strikes on shipbuilding and munitions plants have been received and several of them were read by Secretary Frank Morrison at the opening of today's session of the Thirty-seventh annual convention.

Printed copies of about 200 resolutions introduced during the last three days were on the delegates' desks and the indications were that debate would get under way today. A score of the resolutions, introduced by the radicals, intended to develop their strength at this convention, but thus far there has been little indication as to their numbers or plans.

Addresses by fraternal delegates from Canada and Great Britain were made a special order of business after the reading of the minutes.

WOULD RAISE FARE ON CAR

Indiana Union Traction Co. Would Boost Toll in Four Indiana Cities.

ASKS TO CHARGE STRAIGHT 6 CENTS

Wants to Increase Street Fare in Anderson, Elwood, Muncie and Marion.

Indianapolis, Nov. 15.—A petition for permission to increase street car fares on city lines in Anderson, Elwood, Muncie and Marion was filed with the Indiana public service commission today. The petition was filed by the Indiana Union Traction company and also asked permission to increase certain of the interurban rates now in force.

The traction company asks authority to charge a straight six-cent fare in Anderson, Muncie, Elwood and Marion. The present fare is five cents cash, or six tickets for 25 cents. The petition sets forth that because of the higher cost of materials and operation, the present basic interurban fare of two cents a mile provides insufficient income to meet the present rates in the cities where it operates lines. Pending a readjustment of the basic interurban rate, the company asks that a number of special increases be granted.

Among them is an increase for the round trip fare from Indianapolis to Fort Benjamin Harrison from 25 cents to 35 cents and also an increase in the minimum interurban fare from 5 cents to 10 cents. Another request of the company is for authority to charge more for commutation tickets and so-called "special concession" rates. In Indianapolis, where the company operates cars from the business district to Broad Ripple, the company desires to establish the zone system of fares, charging 7 cents for all passengers who ride beyond Fair Grounds avenue and 6 cents for all fares. The present rate is 5 cents.

The filing of the petition follows similar action by some of the traction lines in the southern part of the state a few days ago. It was said that the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal company, which operates all of the street cars in Indianapolis except those going to Broad Ripple and Beach Grove, soon will seek an increase of fares.

DR. DEAN METCALF GIVEN COMMISSION

Word has been received here that Dr. Dean Metcalf, one of Fort Wayne's popular physicians, has been commissioned a first lieutenant in the medical corps of the army. His work will be confined exclusively to the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis in the various cantonments of the country. He is now taking a special training for that purpose at Fort Benjamin Harrison.

CARD PARTY.

The married ladies of St. Peter's Catholic church will give a card party Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE NEXT

Twenty-Five Thousand Members Wanted for Red Cross Chapter.

HARRY MULLER IS NAMED CHAIRMAN

Car Load of Supplies Are Sent from Northern Indiana Warehouse.

The National Red Cross leaders have completed plans for a nation-wide Christmas membership campaign, hoping to raise the total membership of the nation to 15,000,000. Local chapters all over the country will aid in the work of recruiting more members. The week set aside for the drive opens Dec. 17, and closes Christmas day.

In Fort Wayne Harry Muller has been appointed chairman of the membership drive committee and he will form plans to get as many new members as possible during this campaign. The hope of the leaders here is to raise the Red Cross membership in Allen county to 25,000. The local chapter now has over 10,000 members, which will leave only 15,000 more that the committee will have to get. People all over this country are taking more and more interest in the work of the Red Cross as day by day the appeal from "over there" gets more and more urgent. The American people are the ones on whom the warring nations will depend as the women of the other nations have not the time to devote to the cause. For this reason every American man and woman should join the Red Cross.

Another Car Shipped.

The northern Indiana warehouse shipped another car of supplies for the soldiers Thursday. The car contained 116 boxes of knitted garments, hospital garments, bed shoes, sweaters, Christmas kits, etc., and was shipped directly from Fort Wayne to an eastern port and thence to the fighting men of the United States army. A large number of Red Cross workers put in a busy time in inspecting every article that went into the car at the local warehouse Wednesday night. The boxes were shipped to the warehouse from the various Red Cross workshops of northern Indiana.

Those assisting in the inspecting work were: Mesdames Julia Fay Randall, E. J. Riecke, E. C. Miller, A. G. Emrick, John Purman, Ralph Magee, F. E. Stouder, Eric Crull, John Thione, Frank Cutshall, E. H. Kirkland, William M. Morris, Hugh Keegan, Metekser, Capron, Kappell, Schwartz, Burger, Stanley, Metcalf, Merriether, Littlejohn, Peule, Dutton, Reeves, Hughes, Niebergall, Newman, Robinson, Dalman, McCuskey, DeWald, Wiggins and Wagner, and the Misses Hilda Pranger, Florence Kemp, Rose Goldberger, Fanny Goldberger, Ethel Lawrence and Catherine Medsker.

GIFFORD PINCHOT IS ONCE MORE RESIGNED

Quits His Place as Member of Food Administration for Usual Reason.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Resignations of Gifford Pinchot and E. C. Lassater, a Texas cattle grower, have been accepted as members of the food administration organization. They have been serving as voluntary aids to Food Administrator Herbert C. Hoover. Mr. Pinchot and Mr. Lassater resigned, it was said at the food administration today, because they differed with administration officials as to how the meat situation should be handled. Both contended that the packing industry be taken over and operated by the government and that the cotton seed crop be taken so that cotton seed meal cake could be sold to cattle growers at low prices.

NO CASE AGAINST WEBER.

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 15.—Instructions to the jury to return a verdict in favor of Horace Weber, former surveyor of Delaware county, charged with having presented false claims against the county, were given today by the court at the close of the state's evidence. The court held the state had failed to prove the material allegations in the indictment against Weber.

MUST LEND TO THE RAILWAYS

President Rea, of Pennsylvania, Declares That Time Has Come.

GOVERNMENT MUST AID THEM TO MONEY

Puts His Reason on General Ground "Because of the War."

Washington, Nov. 15.—The time for considering the question of the government lending money to the railroads has arrived, Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania, told the interstate commerce commission today during cross-examination on the proposed 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

Questioned as to whether it was because the government required extensive transportation facilities now and because equipment was being shipped abroad, Mr. Rea confined his answer to the statement, "because of the war." Whatever action might be taken, he stated, however, should not affect the request for higher freight rates.

Railroad officials whom representatives of shippers desired to cross-examine appeared at today's hearing.

Besides Mr. Rea, Howard Elliott, of the New Haven, and C. M. Shriver, of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, testified. John Muir, president of the Railway Investors' League, gave a statement favoring higher rates for what he termed the standpoint of small investors in railway securities.

MAGNATES TO VISIT PEORIA

National Association of Baseball Leagues Picks That City for 1918.

LOUISVILLE MEET COMPLETING WORK

Harry Stahlhefer of the Central on Committee of Important Work.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 15.—With the selection of Peoria, Ill., for the 1918 convention city the National Association of Baseball leagues closed its annual convention here today. The meeting will be held next November.

John H. Farrell, secretary of the national association; President M. H. Sexton and Harry Stahlhefer, of Evansville, Ind., president of the Central league, were appointed to meet with the national committee in the interest of International league affairs. They will endeavor to arrange early payment of funds for drafted players. Some of the major league clubs, it was contended, have declined to reimburse the minor league clubs until satisfied that the drafted players will not be called for military service.

The minor league representatives also will seek to establish the status of players under contract to leagues which suspended last season. Several clubs have been seriously crippled through the loss of star players who were signed in other leagues. They want these players returned or settlement made for their loss.

Players in the class A and A leagues hereafter may be released without the customary five-day notice. The convention passed a resolution presented by President Baum of the Pacific Coast league calling for the elimination of the five-day clause from the players' contracts.

The convention also passed a resolution prohibiting players in every league from participating in any game outside of the regular schedule without the consent of the club owner. The action was directed at players in several eastern league who, under assumption of being released, had taken part in games of objectionable character to organized baseball. President Sexton was elected to membership of the national board of arbitration to succeed M. E. Justice, former president of the Central association, who no longer is identified with the game.

PLEA THAT VENICE'S ART MAY BE SPARED

Geneva, Nov. 15.—The emperor and empress of Austria-Hungary are appealed to by the Journal de Geneve to save Italian art treasure in a petition which is circulating among art lovers in Switzerland for signatures before forwarding to Vienna. The appeal describes the treasures as the common patrimony of civilized humanity. Damage to them it says, would cause profound sadness to the whole world and bring unanimous reprobation.

MADE HIM WASH AND DO MUCH OF COOKING

George A. Bugert Can Stand It No Longer and Sues for Divorce.

Because his wife made him do his own cooking and do his own washing, George A. Bugert, 826 Home avenue, filed suit Thursday in the superior court asking for a divorce from Hanna Marie Bugert. He is represented by Attorney Harry Hilgemann.

Bugert also alleges that his wife told him to go to lower regions, has falsely accused him of infidelity, often has told him she did not love him and finally deserted him. Mr. and Mrs. Bugert were married June 17, 1914, and separated Nov. 13, 1917.

FAULT-FINDER.

Mildred J. Miller Brings Action for Divorce From Frank.

Charging her husband with constantly finding fault, Mildred J. Miller filed suit Thursday through her attorney, Edward W. Meyers, for a divorce from Frank E. Miller. Mr. and Mrs. Miller were married September 4, 1912, and separated November 15, 1917.

Mrs. Miller alleges that her husband possesses a disagreeable and quarrelsome disposition and calls her vile and profane names—names which impute lewdness and unchastity to the plaintiff and reflect upon her character. He also has hit her, she charges. In addition to a divorce she is asking for alimony in the sum of $500.

SUES FOR $300.

Dr. E. H. Underwood Says Auto Was Damaged to That Extent.

Suit for $300 damages was filed Thursday by Dr. Edwin H. Underwood against Oliver P. Parker for damage done to his automobile at the corner of St. Mary's avenue and High street, on September 14, 1917, when an auto truck belonging to the defendant ran into him. He alleges that the truck was running at a speed of twenty miles an hour and was on the wrong side of the street.

Second Divorce Case.

Henrietta Coby has filed suit for divorce against Herschel Coby for the second time within a month. She says that this time she is determined to see the case "through," notwithstanding the pleadings of husband, who had her with the first complaint, he paying the costs.

Divorces Granted.

Divorces were granted Wednesday by Judge Carl Yapple in superior court to Dorothy B. Sanders from Charles L. Sanders and to Emma J. Gaunt from Charles J. Gaunt on a cross-complaint. Sanders was ordered to pay his wife's attorneys fees, and Mrs. Gaunt's maiden name of Shirk was restored.

Divorce Case Dismissed.

The divorce suit filed by Alice Thurman against Charles A. Thurman was dismissed Wednesday when Mr. and Mrs. Thurman decided they couldn't get along without each other and are now living together as happy as newlyweds.

Married One Year.

It was not until late Wednesday that The Sentinel court house man was told that Frank Koch, popular deputy county clerk, was celebrating his first wedding anniversary. It was too late to give the clerk a special attention in the court house Wednesday as such a momentous matter deserves. One year ago Frank took unto himself a charming wife for better or worse. It has been better ever since, and if the remaining years of their married life are as happy as the first twelve months have been, the future is a path of roses, with happiness and contentment reigning supreme in the lives of both.

Application Dismissed.
The application of John T. Brown for admittance to the Allen county bar has been dismissed with no further hearing being taken, as "more than reasonable time" had been allowed since the date of filing the application.

Divorce Granted.
A decree for divorce was granted Thursday morning by Judge Carl Yapple in the superior court to Charles Garver from Ellen Garver. The case has been pending in the courts since June 29, 1916.

Pay Day But No Boss.

Thursday was pay day at the county clerk's office, but there was no pay forthcoming for the reason that the "boss," David G. Starn, county clerk, is now hunting in the northern wilds of Michigan and will not return until the forepart of next week.

On Sick List.

Ed Young, deputy clerk in the circuit court, was ill Thursday with an attack of the grip. Fortunately, the circuit court is not in session this week.

Fred B. Wilcox, 22, agent, and Marie C. Welch, 21, Karl F. Rockstroth, 25, member medical corps at Fort Harrison, and Ruth Leuging, 28, were married Thursday morning by Judge Carl Yapple in the superior court to Charles Garver from Ellen Garver. The case has been pending in the courts since June 29, 1916.

CONFERENCE COMES TO END

Many Subjects Discussed by Lutheran Ministers at New Haven.

REV. LANKENAU READS PAPER

Next Meeting Will be Held Second Week in November, 1918.

New Haven, Ind., Nov. 15.—A paper on "Justification by Faith" was read by Rev. F. J. Lankenau, of Napoleon, O. The conference requested that this paper be published in the Theological Quarterly of the synod. Rev. H. Hicken, of Kouts, Ind., read an essay on the subject, "The Supervision of the Parochial School on the Part of the Pastor." The essayist clearly defined the relative spheres of pastor and teacher and showed the great necessity of hearty co-operation by the two in order that the school may be the greatest possible power for good in the home, society, country and church. The incalculable importance of the Christian day school for the religious and moral training of the child was brought out in that discussion, and again and again the speakers insisted upon everything being done to increase the efficiency of this means of educating intelligent church members and conscientious citizens. A number of speakers emphasized the need of expert professional school supervision.

Rev. M. Kretzmann, of Kendallville proposed that the conference petition the Central district that it request the various pastoral conferences to place the discussion of missions on their regular program. Rev. P. Stoenpelwerth proposed that the synod be requested to appoint an auxiliary board on missions for each conference. His proposal met with the approval of the conference. Rev. P. Miller, of Fort Wayne, presented the claims of the indigent students' fund. The committee appointed by the chair to work out the details of the plan to increase the receipts of the synodical treasury submitted its report. New subjects for treatment were assigned to Rev. L. Damsch, of Decatur, and Rev. O. Sauer, of Michigan City.

A motion was carried that the conference convene at the usual time, the second week of November, 1918. After the committee on excuses had presented its report, and the conference had expressed its hearty thanks to the congregation of New Haven for its hospitality, the conference adjourned.

DAN SHAY TRIAL IS MAKING SLOW HEADWAY

Little New Light Shed on Baseball Manager's Killing of Negro.

DAN SHAY TRIAL IS MAKING SLOW HEADWAY

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 15.—Miss Elizabeth Brinkman, who testified in the hotel case in which Dan Shay, formerly manager of the Kansas City and Milwaukee American association baseball teams shot and killed a negro waiter last May, continued her testimony today at Shay's trial. She said she did not hear the name of the negro, but asserted that the waiter did not attack Shay until after Shay had shot him. The defense cross examined the cashier at length. Dr. Wm. Barnes, of Evansville, Ind., testified that he was in the cafe at the time of the shooting, but having no memory of the waiter, he heard the shot from Shay's revolver. He said the waiter then attacked Shay, took the revolver from him and knocked him down. The trial is not moving as rapidly as was expected, and as about thirty witnesses are to be examined, the case probably will not go to the jury before next week.

WOULD BAR FOREIGN FIRE RISK CONCERNS

American Defense Society Opposes Licensing Certain of Them.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Arguments for and against licensing eleven German, Austrian or Bulgarian insurance companies operating in the United States were presented today to Secretary McAdoo. Richard M. Hurd, of New York, representing the American Defense society, opposed the licensing on the ground that insurance agents could obtain information to direct fires and explosions in industrial plants and thus the companies can obtain no money from parent organization in enemy or ally-of-enemy countries etc meet extraordinary losses, their business was not sound. In defense of the companies Charles E. Rushmore, a New York lawyer, argued that although the companies were financed by enemy capital, their business in this country was conducted as if by independent American concerns, and was directed by loyal and patriotic Americans. Mr. Hurd opposing the licensing, set forth that the companies under question had assets of $27,730,000 and risks of $2,255,000,000.

GOOD SPORTS AT GREAT LAKES NAVAL STATION

Will Be Very Conducive to Physical Perfection of Youngsters.

Great Lakes, Ill., Nov. 15.—Health and muscle building sports of all sorts promise to make the winter at the Great Lakes naval training station a period of recreation, which will be conducive to the physical perfection and fitness of approximately 17,000 youngsters averaging 19 years, who are being trained to fight sea battles.

In the athletic office some of the country's star athletes are mapping plans that will provide for competition in indoor track, basketball, indoor baseball, swimming, boxing and wrestling. According to the plans of Dr. J. B. Kaufman, who is in charge of athletics, every jackie will be extended the use of the gymnasium and other health developing channels. In fact it is probable that athletics will be compulsory in the daily routine of the enlisted men.

Back in the days when the enlisted personnel of the station was being increased daily by hundreds from all over the middle west, Capt. W. A. Moffett, consistent with his policy to place every man where he would be of the most benefit, detailed every prominent athlete enlisted to the athletic office. The wisdom of this policy was shown in the summer months in baseball, boxing, wrestling and track and this autumn in football.

The last week in November will see the final match in the station football league, after a series of competitions which commenced Oct. 15. The organization brought into play eight teams which represented various regiments on the station. It is estimated that 5,000 boys profited physically as a result of their football training which can be traced directly to the interest in the game worked up through the station league and the camp's representative eleven.

Basketball activities promise to bring more boys into the gymnasium than any two of the other sports combined. Speculation as to the strength of the "first" team of the station, which probably will be composed of the star college players, already is being indulged in by the boys, but the station basketball league seems to attract more gossip than the representative five, which will be confined to a squad of ten or fifteen men.

It was estimated by a prominent collegian in the athletic office some time ago that the station houses more boys who have played basketball. From this one could conclude that there will be all of 300 quints in uniform. It is probable, however, that the station league will be limited to twenty-five teams, or a representative aggregation for every branch of the naval service.

Boxing, which was introduced to Great Lakes just before the war, by Gunner Jack Kennedy, continues to thrive. During the summer bouts were held weekly in "the ravine," the station's natural amphitheater, but at the first call for steam heat the drill hall was adopted as the scene of glove combat. By the time the officers have suggested boxing to their boys, others have requested it, but none has made it compulsory.

Boxers who fought professionally in civil life are instructing the jackies in the fine points of the mitt game. Among them are Maurice Flynn, Morris Bloom, Billy Walters, Cal Delaney and Eddie Nearing.

Ben Reuben, claimant of the middleweight wrestling championship of the world, has done his share to popularize the mat pastime. He has held classes, assisted by proficient enlisted Chicago grapplers, and a result more than 500 men will know how to conquer a German should hand to hand fighting ever occur in their sea careers. Wrestling shows also are put on weekly and bring an average of twenty-five new faces a week to the mat, and a consistent attendance of 5,000 enthusiasts. The sailor's co-workers are Jack Gruppel, Sam Varron and Herb Singers. They hold forth in the various ramps and are free at all times for consultation with the bluejackets.

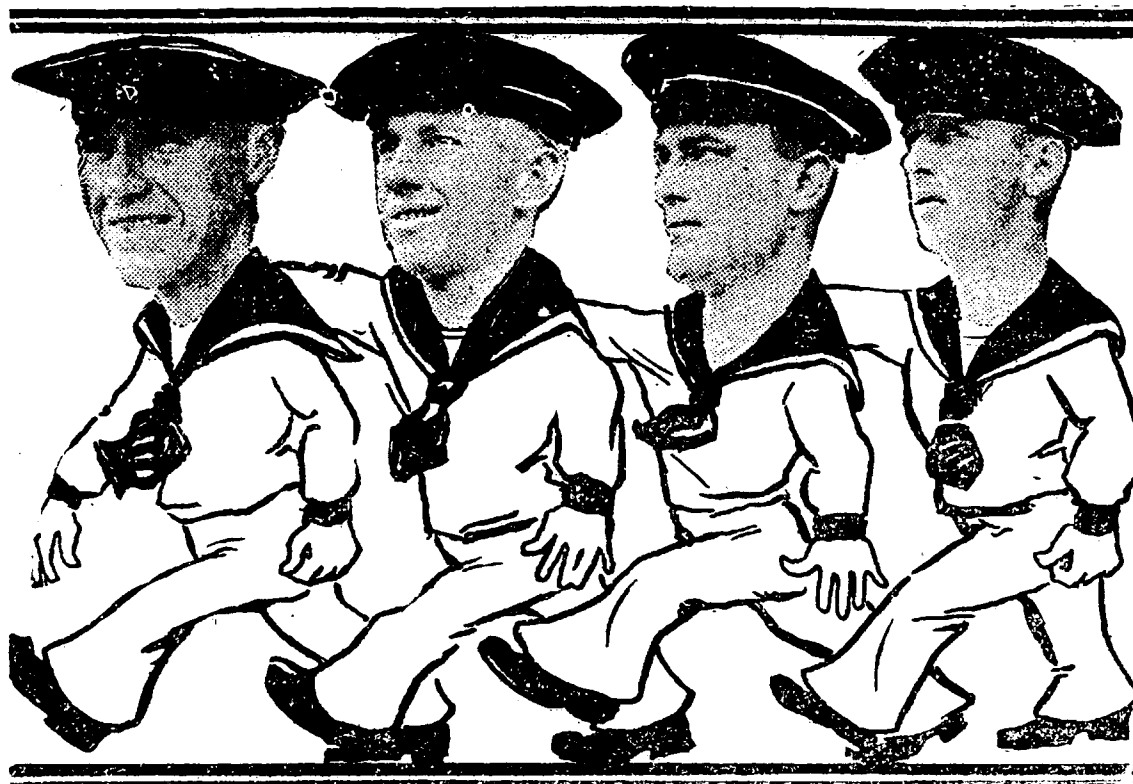

Andy Ward, national A. A. U. 100 and 220 yard dash champion; Eddie Fall, western conference two mile record holder, and Frank Hill, former distance star, all chief winners, have charge of the indoor track work. Weekly track meets probably will be held, with interregiment competition as monthly features.

Bowling, billiards, indoor baseball and skating also will play big parts this winter in making the sailors capable and efficient members of Uncle Sam's fighting forces.

BASKET BALL CHALLENGE.

The Spencerville basket ball team has organized a strong outfit for the season and is now booking games with all fast clubs. Write at once to Manager Fred High, Spencerville, Ind., for further particulars.

THEY MADE CHAMP BASEBALL PLAYERS; NOW THEY WILL SHOW UNCLE SAM THEY'RE CHAMP SAILORS

(By Paul Purman).

It's only a year ago that we were all reviewing a certain world series and telling about the exploits of the Boston Red Sox, the best team of "money players" ever gathered together.

And it's only a few months ago that this same outfit was coming down in the stretch in the American league trying to overcome a handicap established by a team superior in mechanical ability.

There are five members of this club who very probably won't be seen cavorting over American league diamonds this year for the simple reason they have given their services to Uncle Sam.

Down at Boston navy yard after May 15 Jack Barry, manager of the Red Sox, and the biggest world series money winner in baseball, is a yeoman and with him are three of his teammates, Chick Shorten, utility infielder, and Ernie Shore, the string bean right-handed pitcher.

And out in the Mare Island navy yard at San Francisco Duffy Lewis, regular outfielder, and one of the heroes of the 1916 world series, is doing his bit in a jackie uniform.

Another member of the Red Sox is awaiting his call for government services. He's Dick Hoblitzel, crack first baseman of the Sox, who will serve in the dental reserve corps.

SOLDIERS DEFEAT HATTIESBURG BOYS

Southerners Are No Match for Fort Wayne Boys at Camp Shelby.

Herb Miller, one of Fort Wayne's star bowlers, now a member of Company A, 113th regular engineers, Camp Shelby, Hattiesburg, Miss., has written an interesting letter telling of a three-game match between Fort Wayne soldiers at the latter camp and some of Hattiesburg's star pinsharks. The soldier boys won by a margin of 374 pins. Score:

WILL FIGHT EMMETT.

Tommy Atkins, a local battler, will meet "Young" Emmett for a ten-round bout in Indianapolis on November 30 at 120 pounds. The latter is a bantamweight. Some time ago Atkins lost his decision to Emmett at the capital city and is anxious to redeem himself. Joe Walters, of Columbus, Ind., who will be remembered here as having defeated Nip Howell before one of the local clubs, will appear on the same card with Atkins, whom he was instrumental in getting on there.

STILL HOLDS CUP.

Eddie Kraft is still in possession of the St. Paul bowling trophy, notwithstanding the strenuous efforts of the challengers to take it from him. Kraft met E. W. Koenig the other evening, but Koenig's poor start resulted in his defeat. Walter Frank is Kraft's next opponent.

FRIARS MAY SIGN WABASH FOR NOV. 25

Game Between These Two Ancient Rivals Would Be Welcome.

It is generally known that the Friars have made an attempt to secure the Wabash A. A.'s for a game, Sunday, November 25. A reliable source of information has it that the game will be played in this city on the above date. It is not conceded that Wabash has a team the equal of their last year's eleven, but with Milliner, Reno and Cheeky still among the number will make it very interesting for most of the teams they stack up against.

Wabash and the Friars have been rivals for so long that the annual game, if played this year, will be one of the best of the season and is a contest looked forward to and desired by each season. The Hammond Clabys whom the Friars wished to secure for this date do not seem willing to play the local team on this day and for this reason the locals would like to fill this date.

SPORTING NOTES.

In the new tax law owners of motor boats not over five net tons, with fixed engines, will pay $5 a year.

Pittsburg billiard and pool proprietors have organized an association for their mutual welfare.

In running up a score of 179 to 9 on Kingfisher colleagues recently, the Oklahoma eleven, coached by Bennie Owens, replied mostly on straight football with an occasional forward pass. In an hour's play a total of twenty-six touchdowns was registered, Davis kicking twenty-three goals.

Under powers conferred upon them by the defense of the realm regulations, the department of agriculture and technical instruction for Ireland has issued an order prohibiting the exportation of horses. This does not apply to horses shipped by military authorities, or to any horse which the department may, in special circumstances, allow to be exported under license.

FRIARS MEET COLUMBUS PANHANDLES SUNDAY

Somebody Starts False Report That There Will Be No Game.

In some unaccountable way the report has been pretty generally circulated that the Friars will not play in Fort Wayne next Sunday. How such an erroneous rumor ever was started and why the Friar management is at a loss to explain.

However, there will be a game here Sunday and one of the best games of the season. The Columbus Panhandles, who play here Sunday are old-timers at the game and have a reputation of being one of the strongest as well as dangerous independent aggregations in the middle west.

The famous Nesser brothers are still with them. There are five of them, and each of them are stars. As a matter of fact they have been playing together for so many years that there isn't much more about the game for them to learn. Besides, their team work is perfect.

But the Nesser brothers are not the whole team. There are other stars equally as brilliant and clever. By reason of the fact that the Columbus Panhandles have a light backfield an open style of play is expected. Forward passes are their specialty, and while dangerous, this style of playing is always pleasing to the fans.

Although having a light backfield, the Panhandles' line is exceptionally heavy, much heavier than the Friars. It is said, while the Friars confidently expect to win Sunday, they will have no walkaway by any means.

HAMMOND CLABYS TO PLAY WABASH SUNDAY

Wabash, Ind., Nov. 15.—According to information received here, 500 rooters will accompany the Hammond Clabby team here next Sunday when they will meet the W. A. A. team in what promises to be the hardest fought battle of the season with the locals.

Two weeks ago the Hammond eleven defeated the W. A. A. at Hammond. Since then the locals have strengthened their team.

SPORT RAVINGS

The latest report is that the Friars will play Wabash on November 25. Such a game would no doubt prove very interesting to Fort Wayne football fans as the Wabash county team has been rivals of the Friars for a number of years.

The Columbus Panhandles, next Sunday's Friar opponents have given the local team two hard battles on their last two trips to League park. Both games resulted in a 3 to 0 victory for the locals. Next Sunday's game promises to be another hard battle.

One of the big factors in last Sunday's victory over Racine was the playing of Elward at end. His touchdown after capturing a long pass gave the Friars the needed confidence and unnerved the Racine warriors. Elward, who is a college coach, had not intended to play in the game but dropped into Fort Wayne Sunday morning on his return from a scouting trip. He was sitting on the Friar bench without a uniform when the game opened, having refused to play.

Seeing that the Friars were in for a hard game he rushed to the club house put on a uniform and came back and went into the game. On the first play he captured the pass that clinched the game.

It is reported that Gloeckson, Racine's star lineman and punter, would like to play with the Friars. He may be given a chance as his punting would be a valuable asset to the Friar machine.

Indiana fans will get a good line of comparison between the strength of Indiana and Purdue as the result of next Saturday's game. Purdue will be given a chance as his punting would be a valuable asset to the Friar machine.

WESTERN GRID STARS TO PLAY WITH MARINES AGAINST ARMY

Coach Zuppke is Not a Bit Confident of a Victory Over Ohio State.

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 15.—Prospects for a victory over Ohio State did not appear bright to Coach Robert Zuppke and members of the University of Illinois football team as final preparations were made today for Saturday's contest at Columbus, West Point. The greatest obstacle to a victory, according to Zuppke, is Harley, Ohio's star punter.

"Don't be fooled because Harley didn't make any long runs against Wisconsin," said Zuppke. "He is the most dangerous man in the country. If you are not on the job every minute he'll be gone."

SOCIAL TONIGHT.

An enjoyable evening is in store for all Wayne Knit bowlers who, with their wives and sweethearts, will congregate at the club house tonight for a social time. An excellent program of entertainment has been provided for the early hours, which will be topped off with a supper that will but serve to cement still closer the friendly feeling permeating like gatherings of the enormous Wayne Knit family.

NEELEY, ONE ARMED STAR OF THE GRIDIRON, BROUGHT OUT BY GREEN

Unarmored powerful guard, despite physical handicap, is a tough proposition for any opponent.

earlier in the season by a 45 to 0 score, while Indiana will play Depauw, who held Purdue to a 7 to 6 score. Indiana will be the favorite in the annual Illinois game.

Ohio and Illinois will play a game Saturday that will no doubt decide the championship of the conference. Ohio will go into the game the favorites although Illinois may pull the unexpected and win.

Chicago and Michigan are other conference teams who have not been beaten this year. Chicago will get a big test Saturday when she lines up against Minnesota. Although the Gophers were beaten by Wisconsin, with two weeks rest they may be expected to wage a bitter comeback and will make things exceedingly interesting for the maroons.

There has been no new claimant for the state football title lately. The claims of the Hammond manager have not been stifled for he has made no serious attempt to sign up with the Friars. Several little advances have been made by the Hammond manager but they have all been of no importance because of the unreasonableness of his propositions.

BOXING TO CONTINUE.

St. Louis, Nov. 15.—Boxing will be given a chance to thrive in St. Louis despite the recent police raid on one club for violation of the membership rule.

Under the new police edict the contests will be cut from twelve to eight rounds and the clubs will not be permitted to sell tickets to members after 6 o'clock on the night of the contest. While the promoters say the rule forbidding the sale of tickets after the prescribed hour is a hard blow, the clubs will live up to the regulations.

W. B. CHARLES, MANAGER OF THE TOMAH, WIS., BASKET BALL TEAM, COMPOSED ENTIRELY OF INDIANS, NOTED FOR FAST AND CLEAN PLAYING, WRITES THAT HE EXPECTS TO BRING HIS TEAM THROUGH

W. B. Charles, manager of the Tomah, Wis., basket ball team, composed entirely of Indians, noted for fast and clean playing, writes that he expects to bring his team through this section of the country some time this winter and wants to book a number of games with fast teams. He wants to play the Fort Wayne city team and also desires games with fast clubs in this territory. It is suggested that those who wish to open negotiations write Manager Charles at once so that necessary arrangements may be made.

INDIANA WILL PLAY AT HATTIESBURG

Post Season Game Will Be Played for Benefit of Indiana Soldiers.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 15.—At a meeting of the university athletic board last night it was voted to send the varsity football team to Hattiesburg, Miss., Thanksgiving day to play a post-season game for the benefit of the 30,000 soldiers of Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia at Camp Shelby. Early in the week the board decided an invitation from a commercial organization at Hattiesburg to play the University of West Virginia for a commercial guarantee but since this action a letter was received from the army Y. M. C. A. secretary at Camp Shelby asking that the Indiana team play a soldiers' eleven. No admission will be charged the soldiers at the camp but expenses of the Indiana team will be cared for through assessments against the regiments.

ILLINOIS' PROSPECTS ARE NOT VERY BRIGHT

TO AVOID GETTING LOST IN THE SKIES NAVIGATORS OF THE HEIGHTS NEED MAPS AS BADLY AS A SAILOR

How Airmen Map Uncharted Lanes and Find the Way by Watching a Roll-Map in Front—A Noted Air Authority Indicates How Geographers Will Help Make Flying Safe.

Special Dispatch from J. H. Duckworth of Our Washington Bureau.

New York, Nov. 15.—Finding one's way in an aeroplane is not the least of an aviator's troubles.

An aviator may be very familiar with the roads of a certain piece of territory and yet easily get lost while flying over it.

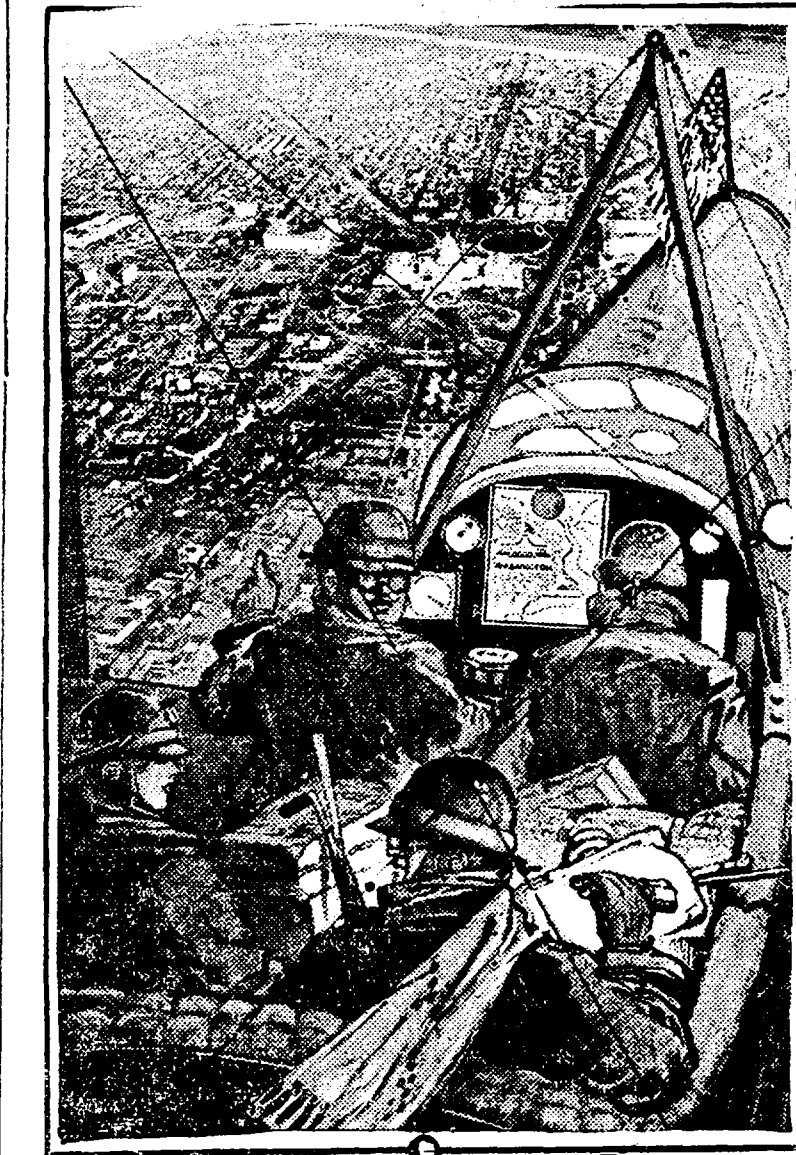

A birdseye view of a stretch of country looks very different from the view of the poor crawling human being below. Hills are flattened out, and if the airplane is up high enough it is difficult for the novice to distinguish between a forest and a potato patch.

Airmen need maps—as much as sailors need charts. The ocean navigator must be warned of rocks, shoals and dangerous currents. The aeroplane pilot must have a map that will show him all the possible landing places.

The most popular kind of aeronautical map is that showing the air routes between two given points, say between Washington and New York. Such a map, printed on a long strip of paper and rolled like the music on a piano-player, while based on the regular geological and geodetic survey maps, has landmarks such as church towers, unusually tall buildings, gas tanks, lakes, reservoirs, and other stretches of water marked with particular clearness.

In the accompanying illustration, which the artist has prepared from an actual photograph taken from the air, the aviators are passing over Washington. They are flying east over the mall and approaching the Capitol. The map in front of the pilot shows plainly the Capitol building, the most distinctive landmark in Washington.

A map is being prepared of the air-line of Great Circle route between New York and San Francisco, which would make it possible for any aviator to fly across the continent without losing his way. This map will not only show the narrow strip along its course, but will include lines leading from the main line to central landing places like Erie, Cleveland, Detroit, etc.

REPRODUCED FROM THE GEOGRAPHICAL REVIEW FOR NOV. 1917, PUBLISHED BY GEOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY OF N.Y.

Aviators Consulting Map While Flying Over Nation's Capital.

As soon as regular air lines are established to carry passengers and mail, and aircraft start from a given station at a given time daily, says Henry Woodhouse, in the Geographical Review of New York, it will be possible to insert on this type of map the appropriate time at which the aircraft must pass certain places so that the aviator will be able to navigate the air with even less trouble than the mariner navigates the sea.

CITES REGULATIONS AS TO REOPENING CASES

Letter is Received by Various Selection Boards from Eschbach.

The four selection boards in this city are in receipt of a letter from Jesse Eschbach, state conscription agent, containing a copy of a telegram from Provost Marshal-General Crowder, in which stringent regulations concerning the reopening of cases of drafted men are set out and a statement by Eschbach. The statement said:

"We are facing a crisis in the history of the world. We firmly believe the reopening of cases should no longer interfere with the mobilization and training of our army. The federal government has made provision for needy cases in the act of congress approved October 6, 1917. May we plead with you to give the above (telegram) very careful study and the federal authorities their active co-operation in the execution and enforcement of provisions of this important measure?"

Work Impaired.
General Crowder's telegram tells how the reopening of cases of drafted men has seriously impaired the work of the government in organizing and training the new army. New restrictions are thrown about the reopening of cases of men already in service, and the order says that "cases of men already inducted into military service heretofore reopened and now in process of rehearing shall be forthwith closed and the prior disposition of the case adhered to." The order continues:

"Any person already inducted into military service who claims that he has not had a full and fair hearing or has not had a full and fair opportunity to be heard by a local district board as required by the selective service law and regulations, or who claims that the board has exceeded its jurisdiction or substantially violated the selective service law or regulations in passing on his claim, may apply to the commanding officer of his mobilization camp at any time within seven days after arrival at the mobilization camp to be discharged under the provision of Paragraph 129, army regulations."

Steps Necessary.
The order then goes on to explain the necessary steps to be taken by the commanding officer, the adjutant, generals of states and local exemption boards with reference to such case.

The report also points out that the response to the recent intimation from the president that lawyers throughout the country assist the government in examining additional draft men has been so widespread that it is now suggested that the service of the lawyers be requisitioned to assist state conscription headquarters and local boards to dispose of the great number of appeals to reopen cases, and thus "clear the decks" for the subsequent draft machinery.

COST OF WAR WILL BE LESS THAN EXPECTED

Secretary McAdoo Says Expenditures Run Far Below the Estimates.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 15.—In a speech before the Investment Bankers association here last tonight Secretary McAdoo disclosed that government expenditures are running far below estimates given congress, and predicted that the amount of money still to be raised for the fiscal year would not exceed ten billion dollars.

"Vague and unfounded apprehensions seem to exist in the public mind as to the extent of the financial requirements of the United States during the current fiscal year," the secretary said. "It may be helpful to the country to know that these requirements have been greatly exaggerated and that in the judgment of the secretary of the treasury there is no reason whatever for apprehension on this score. This opinion is based on the latest estimates of our financial needs."

"During the past few days the various departments of the government have submitted to me their estimates of expenditures during the current fiscal year. On the basis of these estimates, I am confident that allowing for a liberal balance in the general fund at the close of the fiscal year, not more than $10,000,000 remains to be raised by the issue of bonds, war savings certificates and treasury certificates of indebtedness."

"This is not regarded by the treasury department as a task which will in any way strain the capacity or resources of the United States. The splendid score of the second liberty loan shows that the people are fully determined to support the war and are prepared to make such sacrifices of luxuries, pleasures, comforts and conveniences as may be necessary."

"The estimates of the various departments include appropriations already made and proposed supplemental estimates to be submitted at the forthcoming session of congress. Through the estimated extraordinary expenditures (excluding advances to the allies) for the year average about a billion a month, the ordinary expenditures for the four months' period ended October 31, have been only $1,286,000,000 at the rate of $32,650,000 a month. For instance the expenditures for the war department for the four months' period have been fifty per cent. less than was estimated by that department for that period. It may be confidently expected therefore that the actual expenditures for the balance of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, will not at the most exceed the estimates."

SECOND DAY'S SESSION LUTHERAN CONFERENCE

Laporte Minister Reads Paper on Organization and Work of Y. M. C. A.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 15.—The Lutheran conference of northern Indiana began its second day's session yesterday morning with devotional exercises conducted by the chairman, Rev. J. Jungkuntz. After the appointment of a number of important committees, Rev. J. Jungkuntz, of La Porte, read a paper on the organization and work of the Y. M. C. A. The paper brought surprising data concerning the wonderful growth of the association, its diversified purposes and aims in times of peace and war, in our cities and encampments, at sea and on land, at home and abroad. The moral and social influence exerted by the Y. M. C. A. workers was shown to be very great, and increasing from day to day. The paper called forth a very brisk and enlightening general discussion.

A letter from Rev. Fr. Wambgans, who is taking spiritual care of our boys at Camp Taylor, Louisville, Ky., was read to the conference. Chaplain Wambgans is doing very satisfactory and successful work at Camp Taylor. In his letter he speaks in very complimentary terms of the courtesies extended to him by the military authorities and the Y. M. C. A. officials of the camp. Rev. J. H. Jans, superintendent of the large Lutheran institution for the feeble-minded, Watertown, Wis., was given opportunity to present the claims of his institution to the conference. His words made a deep and, as we believe, a lasting impression upon the members and we doubt not, will bear fruit in the form of liberal donations to prosecute this work on an enlarged scale in the future. A paper by the Rev. Aug. Rump, of Tullahoma, Ind., bearing the title, "The Synod as an Advisory Body," was presented to the conference in the afternoon session. The essayist, among other things, called the attention of the conference to the great debt owed to the founder of the Lutheran Missouri Synod for founding a body which as one organization is a model of true democracy in which no individual nor body of men is granted particular powers, but where all privileges and rights are vested in all the members as a royal priesthood. It was shown by the essayist that no church body in our country is so consistently democratic and popular in its practical working as the Lutheran Missouri Synod with its membership of over a million souls and, therefore, how truly American the Lutheran church is in its principles of government.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN

MILITARY NEWS

WILL GO TO FRANCE TO AID Y. M. C. A. WORK

First Man from Camp Taylor to Be Ordered Abroad is a Preacher.

Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., Nov. 15.—Iowa, which has no troops in training here for the national army, will send the first man, and he a civilian, too, from Camp Zachary Taylor to France. He is the Rev. James S. Corkey, religious work director of the Y. M. C. A. building No. 152 at the big cantonment on the edge of Louisville, where thirty odd thousand selected men from Indiana, Kentucky and southern Illinois are being trained for service overseas. His order came from the International War Work council at New York, which directed that he prepare to leave for Europe in the near future. The order was supplemented by the statement that all Y. M. C. A. workers at the cantonment will be sent eventually into the war zone. Beginning Dec. 1, five will be sent each month from the camp, indicating the cantonment will be a training post and a feeding station from which workers for foreign fields will be selected.

Dr. Corkey, the first to go, came to Camp Zachary Taylor two months ago from Winterport, Me., where for ten years he had been the pastor of a Presbyterian church. He enlisted in the Y. M. C. A. army work when war was declared and was assigned here. He comes from a family distinguished as preachers and authors. He is a graduate of the May College, Ireland, and the Union Theological seminary, New York city.

His father was Dr. Joseph Corkey, a noted minister of Londonderry, Ireland. There were eight sons and three daughters in the family. All the sons entered the ministry and the daughters became missionaries. Mr. Corkey has three brothers now in France. One is chaplain in the English army, who lost an arm while at the front, but has returned to duty. Two others are in the English Y. M. C. A. working in France.

SEARCH CAMP SHELBY FOR AGENTS OF ENEMY

Secret Service Men Examine Every Soldier at Hattiesburg.

Hattiesburg, Miss., Nov. 15.—A thorough and systematic search is going on at Camp Shelby for spies and persons suspected of pro-German sympathy. The investigation is not being made secretly. On the contrary as much publicity as possible is being given to it and any one is liable to be tapped on the shoulder by a man wearing the eagle and star of the American intelligence department. This man may be employed as a carpenter or he may be a civilian working about the camp. The investigation is due to the report of the presence of spies and the fact that numerous forest fires are occurring in the vicinity of Camp Shelby. These fires generally have started on a day when the wind was blowing directly toward the camp and sometimes fires were so close to the buildings that only the quick work of the soldiers prevented a fire that would have threatened the entire camp.

LOUIS L. MILLAR IS GIVEN COMMISSION

Appointed First Lieutenant in Radio Department of Signal Corps.

Louis L. Millar, of 2713 Fairfield avenue, returned to Fort Wayne Wednesday night from officers' training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, having received a special commission of first lieutenant in the radio department of the signal corps, and was ordered to leave camp at once and report at Washington, D. C., within seven days for final disposition. He also received at the same time a commission of captain in the ordnance department, which he declined, to accept the former commission, as the commission he accepted is in the most desirable branch of the service.

Out of 220 applicants for this department, Lieut. Millar was one of four that was accepted for a commission, he being the only one to receive a first lieutenant, and the others second lieutenants. Lieut. Millar and Second Lieut. Glenn Black, of Cleveland, were the only ones that received special commissions in the fifteenth company, which consisted of 120 men.

Robert Byron, formerly of this city, is now sergeant-major with the Ohio National guard, in an Alabama camp. He is the nephew of Robert Hunt, former station agent at the local Pennsylvania depot and now located at Ada, O.

UNIT M TO CAMP GREEN

Fort Wayne Boys Are Transferred to Charlotte, North Carolina.

EXPECT TO BE THERE
THE ENTIRE WINTER
Order to Move South Came Soon After Reporting at Fort Harrison.

Back across the southern slope of the Allegheny mountains and through the Cumberland Gap comes the first official message home from the seventeen members of the Fort Wayne Red Cross hospital unit M who have been transferred into the medical department of the regular army.

The young men who enlisted in the Fort Wayne unit, and eight of whom lived in the city have been sent to Camp Green, at Charlotte, North Carolina, for winter training. They arrived at the southern camp on Wednesday evening, according to a message to The Sentinel.

Members of the former Fort Wayne unit were called into service just a week ago, and after most of the young men had been enlisted, for several weeks. They reported at Fort Benjamin Harrison but as soon as they were fitted out in uniforms there came the order to move south.

The local medical service men are the first to be transferred to the North Carolina post from Fort Wayne, which has been the military and medical headquarters for the best equipped of the southern camps.

The Fort Wayne unit men were thrown in with Instruction Company K of the medical branch upon their arrival at the Indianapolis fort. Company K was made up of New York and Pennsylvania medical troops.

On the first evening the members from the local unit were taken out for drill under Lieutenant Bodala, former chief interne in the largest Philadelphia hospital. The unit M men were in civilian clothes. They had known nothing of military training before.

The odd number of seventeen added to the unattractiveness of their general appearance. Yet their earnestness in taking up the new line of work made an impression on Major McCormack, in charge of the Indiana fort. He paused to compliment the recruits when he passed the drill grounds.

When Instruction Company K was broken up and its members scattered to five different posts, it was by order of Major McCormack that the members of the Fort Wayne unit were sent with the best trained squad of the company to Camp Green.

Almost Deserted.
The Indianapolis fort is now almost deserted. Less than 4,000 men occupy the many barracks quarters. Fort Wayne Drs. Hamilton and Gilpin, formerly members of the local unit, were sent from Fort Harrison last week. No one has been passed along that the Indiana camp will be populated by 45,000 negro soldiers after December 1.

In letters home, the Fort Wayne recruits into the medical department write "there was no military training order to report for intensive training. I find that intensive training is right."

The young men are being drilled in every form of sanitary and army medical duties. They write that they are busy from "reville" to "taps." Besides the military and gymnastic drills there are special classes of from two to four hours a day in physiology and hygiene. A big red text book is used. It all seems very much "college," writes the serious men.

"The seriousness of the task ahead is just beginning to sink in to our position in the war activities," writes George Ryder, a member of the little group. "At first it all seemed like a dream. It was so sudden. As we tramped through the darkened camp streets on the first night we were all signs expecting the flash many electric signs to appear just around the corner. The golden glare did not materialize. We know now that we are in another realm, a kingdom fraught with all of war's tragic possibilities, and every man of us is in to stick."

On Monday when the order was read that Unit M members would be moved south there was a rush for the telegraph office and the registering of half a dozen long distance telephone calls. As a result several Fort Wayne people visited the Indiana camp on Tuesday to say good-bye.

At 6 o'clock the young men were called to the office of Captain Edwards, each man was given a fountain pen. Then they were marched to the waiting Pullman coach where they were assigned to Pullman quarters. This treatment, added to the extra prompt manner in which the new recruits were fitted in uniforms, caused one Fort Wayne man to say: "They must have us slated for the suicide club."

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

When Cross, Feverish and Sick Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely. A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly closed with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.
Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.
Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Advertisement.

ONE HUNDRED DENTISTS AT DENTAL MEETING

The second semi-annual meeting of the Isaac Knapp Dental society proved to be one of the most successful meetings ever held. Practically the entire day was devoted to the Hall Method of Denture making. Dr. L. T. Smith, of Indianapolis, presented the paper and clinics, and the clinician was highly praised for the proficiency he demonstrated in his subject. About one hundred dentists attended the meeting. Many were present from cities in other states.

ORDER FAILS

gem of their defenses, but the assaulting troops were hurled back after a grim struggle, leaving the British line before Passchendaele intact.

Barrage Stops Assault.

The greater part of the enemy infantry was stopped by the tremendous British artillery barrage which ploughed through their ranks as they began the advance, but some of them, answering to that famous discipline ingrained by Prussian military rule, pushed through this rain of death and reached the British front line. A sanguinary struggle followed at close quarters. The Germans battled doggedly, but the British soldiers lunged themselves upon the enemy with such ferocity that he was compelled to give ground and finally retired, leaving many dead upon the barren crest.

The enemy attack was prefaced by a terrific bombardment. The German guns opened on the right at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The British had been expecting the counter attack for several days. Captured German officers had freely admitted that the loss of Passchendaele was regarded as a most serious matter, and that every effort would be made to re-take it.

Terrible Shelling.

All day Passchendaele and the forward area were shelled continuously by the concentrated German artillery, while the British heavies and field guns replied with a violent bombardment of the enemy's lines and battery positions. No such artillery duel had occurred along the British front in many weeks. For hours it was maintained by both sides with a drum fire intensity that shook the country for miles about. Windows in houses fifty miles away rattled as if from a wintry blast, and in a town 75 miles by airplane from the scene of activities, the detonations could plainly be heard.

About 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, enemy infantry was seen advancing southward along the ridge on a front of about 700 yards toward the British positions. At the same time the Germans dropped a heavy barrage on the British line to the west, preventing infantry assistance coming to the British from that quarter.

The S. O. S. signal went up from the British lines and the great British artillery responded as though a lever had been thrown. All the British guns within range came into action with an inferno of noise that was appalling, and their myriad of shells began breaking in a steady rain across the ridge in front of the advancing Germans. The enemy was attacking in force, and as they surged along the high ground they were caught in this tornado of steel.

Many of them went down, never to rise again. Many more were wounded and the majority of the attacking line was forced to retire after struggling blindly against this awful deluge for a few moments.

Some of the more determined men, however, pushed on. The shrill chatter of the machine guns and the crack of the rifles along the British positions joined the choruses of these guns and a stream of steel was whipped out across the open ground waist high into the German ranks. But, nevertheless, these men continued to advance determinedly.

Pay Fulle Price.

The order had been given that Passchendaele must be taken regardless of cost. They were paying the cost now in their spectacular but futile career. They reached the British front line and hurled themselves against it. Then came the bitterest work of all at close quarters. It is possible that very few of those Germans who braved the final rush ever regained their own line. The rest were left lying before the British defenses.

When the attack finally was smashed it was a complete defeat for the Germans. The spirit with which the British met this assault was epitomized by a German officer who remarked the other day: "With such men as that we could go anywhere and do anything."

DISCOUNTS

The Berliner Tagblatt, which reports this conversation with von Richthofen at the Flanders front, adds that the German air service, which evidently has been forwarded by newspaper discussion of American plans is steadily increasing the number of aviators and machines.

German fighting airplanes, Gen. von Ardenne says, now carry wireless receiving outfits which enable them to engage in combat promptly with enemy fliers. This is necessitated by new conditions on the Flanders front, where whole squadrons of allied machines can appear over the German lines in a surprisingly short time. German squadrons starting from the ground to meet the invaders would be too late so they must constantly be in the front lines either flying or ready for flight.

German aviators say they have noted recently that a majority of the British fliers in Flanders are showing themselves in the Dixmude section of the front instead of the region of Passchendaele.

Gen. von Ardenne discusses various developments of the Flanders fighting, among them the decrease in the use of hand grenades, which he says, in close fighting are as dangerous to friends as to foes. They are being displaced by light machine guns and special units whose task is to seek out enemy batteries by sight or hearing. The muzzle flash of a gun, he says, is observed from three to five stations connected by telephone and the position of the gun is determined easily. Special apparatus has been designed to determine the distance and direction from which the sound of a cannon's discharge comes.

Spirit Broken: Weeps.

General Cordova wept as he surrendered his silver mounted sword and pistol to Captain Theodore Barnes, and the spirit of the entire Mexican command was broken. Villa was not definitely located, although he was reported to have been seen yesterday. The report stated that he was wearing a full beard and was mounted on a big white mule.

One of two Americans who operated machine guns for the federals was killed in the battle. The other American disappeared and it is believed he escaped across the Rio Grande.

Two assaults were made on Ojinaga yesterday morning by the Villa forces, but they were both repulsed by the garrison defending the town.

HON. JOHN W.

FOSTER DIES

trouble; also his advanced years and failing health had given his family great concern for some time. After funeral services for Mr. Foster will be held here Friday and the burial will be at his old home, Evansville, Ind.

SKETCH OF A GREAT CAREER.

With a record of practically a half century of continuous service in diplomacy and the practice of international law, John Watson Foster had a fair claim to the title of Dean of the Diplomatic Service of the United States. He had been secretary of state under President Harrison, succeeding Blaine when the latter resigned after his sensational quarrel with the chief executive, and had held three separate commissions as a minister plenipotentiary. Beside that he represented the United States in many special treaty negotiations, had acted as its agent before international commissions, and even had been called into the service of foreign governments.

As secretary of state his most notable act was a treaty with the Americans in Hawaii who had been concerned in the overthrow of the native queen, providing for annexation of the islands to the United States. President Harrison's administration was drawing to a close and before the treaty could be ratified by the senate, President Cleveland took office and withdrew it as his first official act.

Mr. Foster's notable services to his country in diplomatic capacities abroad were successively as minister to Mexico, minister to Russia, minister to Spain and as a special plenipotentiary to negotiate reciprocity treaties with Brazil, Spain, Germany and the British West Indies. Following that he became secretary of state, later he became the agent of the United States at Paris in the League of Nations convention and at the close of the war between China and Japan was invited by the Emperor of China to participate in the peace negotiations.

While the invitation was officially extended by the emperor Mr. Foster was really invited by Li Yuan Chang who describes the occasion in a volume of his published memoirs, speaking affectionately of Mr. Foster, not alone as a personal friend but as a representative of the friendship of the United States for China in her hour of trial.

The great Chinese statesman frankly acknowledged how valuable was the counsel of the American friend at a moment when he was confronted with the almost hopeless task of preserving his country against the demands of the victor. Later the Chinese government chose Mr. Foster as its representative at the second league conference in 1907.

Soon after the peace conference Mr. Foster went to Russia and Great Britain on a special mission for the United States. On his return he became a member of the Anglo-American Commission. Then he became the agent of the United States at London before the Alaskan Boundary tribunal. His last public work was as China's representative at The Hague in 1907.

Thereafter he lived in comparative retirement in Washington writing his memoirs. His daughter became the wife of Robert Lansing, secretary of state in President Wilson's cabinet, and continued to make her home with him. It is no disparagement of Mr. Lansing's conduct of the many delicate diplomatic negotiations which confronted him as an outcome of the European war to say that he doubtless enjoyed the counsel and ripe experience of his distinguished father-in-law.

Mr. Foster was born in Pike county, Indiana, March 2, 1836, the son of a lawyer. He entered law at an early age and served in the union army as an officer.

On his eightieth birthday anniversary, March 2, 1916, President Yuan Shi-Kai conferred upon him the Order of the Golden Grain, the highest order of merit within the gift of the Chinese government. Yuan had been the commanding general of the Chinese army which fought with Japan which brought on the conflict Mr. Foster took a part in adjusting.

GERMANS SHELL

TRENCHES HELD

BY OUR TROOPS

The Germans were permitted to pass, when the Americans and Frenchmen on their flank, opened a hot fire from shell craters and other shelters where they were secreted.

The Germans were taken completely by surprise and bolted, carrying with them their men who had been hit.

The number of dead and wounded Germans is uncertain, but none of the men in ambush was hit by the bullets the Germans later sent in from a distance.

There were congratulations all around when the Americans and French re-entered their trenches. Patrol work on both sides is becoming more active, as is also the artillery fire. The Germans during one 24 hour period of a recent day sent over at least three times as many shells as on the first day during which the Americans were entrenched. One night the firing in the back areas against the approaches of the communicating trenches reached the proportions of drum fire. It was evident that the Germans thought an American trench relief was taking place. As a matter of fact no relief was in progress and no material damage was done.

During the last two nights the Germans have continuously used machine guns in the direction of the American line. Sniping is becoming more active on both sides. American sharpshooters are working close to the German lines, especially when the nights are clear.

The activity by enemy snipers thus far has resulted in one American casualty. A non-commissioned officer was hit in the head and killed.

NEW CASUALTY LIST OF NOV. 2.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—A revised report from General Pershing today on the German raid on American trenches, November 2, puts the killed at three, the wounded at eleven and the missing at eleven. The first report was three killed five wounded and twelve missing.

First Lieutenant William H. McLaughlin is added to the list of wounded. Private William H. Grigsby, of Louisville, Ky., previously reported a prisoner in the hands of the Germans, is among the wounded, also.

The list of three killed is unchanged but the following others are added to the wounded:

Private Louis A. Delfer; mother, Mrs. Catherine Deifer, box 48, route 6, Sullivan, Ind.

Private Paul W. Fann; father, George W. Fann, Sarona, Wis.

Private George Wesley; Miss Margaret Welch, 623 Eighth street, Dayton, Ky.

Private Lester C. Smith; R. A. Smith, P. O. No. 5, Concord, N. C.

The following are added to the list of missing and probably captured: Private Clyde I. Grimsley; Frank Grimsley, Stockton, Kan.

Private Hoyt D. Decker; W. F. Decker, Vincennes, Ind.

The casualty reported as Private Harry R. Laughman should be Private Harry R. Laughman; Ada Laughman, 461 Oak boulevard, Chicago.

The war department issued this statement: "The war department has received the following corrected list of the casualties resulting from the German raid before daylight, November 2, upon the salient occupied by a company of American infantry. This revised list shows our losses to have been three killed, eleven wounded and eleven missing. The additions to the original list of wounded include First Lieutenant William H. McLaughlin and five privates. One of the latter, Private William H. Grigsby, was originally listed as missing. Private Dewey D. Kern, previously listed as missing, has been accounted for and is no longer among the casualties. The name given as Private Keckon, unidentified, previously on the missing list, does not appear on the revised list. The wounded are reported as doing well."

this. They must flourish. But they should never cause us serious uneasiness again.

In face of the re-avindication of sea power, the greatest war achievement of the British, American and allied navies in the last 3 1/2 years we may be sure that the world will be a reaction of optimism. For Germany's defeat at sea is final, universal and permanent; whereas, Germany's successes on land are local, partial and temporary. And her defeat at sea means that America's share in the war can be and will be decisive.

PERMIT PLAY ONLY BY REQUEST OF WILSON

Washington, Nov. 15.—Unwillingness of the Georgia school of technology to permit its football team to play that of the University of Pittsburgh, both unbeaten for three years, for the benefit of the Red Cross, unless expressly requested by President Wilson, has caused Red Cross officials here to drop the project. Chairman Davidson, of the Red Cross war council, was asked to arrange a game for Nov. 25, when neither had a game scheduled. The Georgia school officials have wired that they would not play unless requested by President Wilson. Red Cross officials say they would not think of asking the president to make such a request.

fighting force, but she must help to feed the people of England, France, Italy and Russia. To do this with the highest measure of efficiency is the real problem. There must be no loss of time. Every man must be made to count. Every act must be for democracy to save and redeem civilization. It is not enough that people should all be alert to the food needs of America and her allies; they must back that alertness with constructive skill and real industry.

This is one of the purposes of a home demonstrator. The work is not an experiment. The government pays her salary of $1,200 a year and all that Fort Wayne need do is to provide her a convenient office, with a telephone, a demonstration kit and pay for the materials used in the demonstration work.

The glass jar manufacturers of this country have delivered during the season of 1917 about 119,000,000 glass jars. A survey of the household supply of jars used for canning and preserving in some twenty typical towns throughout the country showed that the housewives of America in 1917 used 1 but one new jar to over three and one-quarter old glass jars which were already on hand. Thus it is seen, that in conservative terms the home women of the country put up nearly 5,000,000 quart jars of vegetables and fruits, certainly three times what had been accomplished in any season before. Next year, profiting by their experience of this year, they will can millions more, and more will be needed. It is very essential that this canning is done right. Women who never have done canning, gardening and the other things that the war situation has brought upon them must be taught and will require assistance.

eral in command told American officers today that the marksmanship of the artillerymen was excellent, comparing favorably with that of troops which had been at war for years. The American officers were highly elated at the compliment. The only complaint heard is that a few of the American batteries are not as rapid as they might be, but they are improving daily.

The infantry is now interesting itself especially in patrols. All the men who have not had this experience are eager to try their hand, and some of them have asked to be assigned to this work. It is unanimous opinion that the men are learning more of war by their short stay in the trenches and gun pits than is possible to gain in months of other instruction. While the infantry is learning how to handle itself in the trenches, the artillery, in addition to actual firing, is acquiring experience in observation work and locating enemy batteries by the sound method. The heavy guns on both sides are now engaged in a duel at long range with the lighter pieces working at targets nearer the lines.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The government still was without further official advice today from Russia. The last received on Saturday, dated Nov. 8, were far behind the news-dispatches of that time. Dispatches of later developments, however, have since come through in news cables.

SUMMARY OF THE

DAY'S WAR NEWS

tween the upper Piave and the Suggia valley on the edge of the Trentino district.

Berlin's statement reports no change along the lower Piave, where the Italian reports have shown repeated attempts by the Austro-German forces to pierce the river line and compel its abandonment and in consequence the loss of the Trentino. It has been pointed out that every day this line is held counts heavily in Italy's favor, as the Anglo-French contingent in Italy will soon be on the fighting line to support the Italian armies. The Rome war office statement today throws out the following light on the situation from the entente viewpoint. The frustration of new attempts by the invaders to encircle previously had secured a footing on the west side of the river have been held fast, virtually in their tracks.

Continuation of the German advance is announced in the hill region, south of Fonzaso and Feltrina, where Rome concedes the retirement of advanced posts to previously prepared positions. It is in this section that the Italian line has been broken by the German forces and west extension from the Piave and there have been indications for several days that the Italians were drawing out of it.

Berlin makes no claim to further advances in the Trentino, where the Italians are holding the hill region so far against the threat of the drive aimed at the Venetian plain to outflank the Piave line.

American soldiers have carried out a successful ambush of a German party in No Man's land on the western front, killing and wounding a number of the enemy while German shells have caused a number of casualties in the American lines.

An American patrol one night recently lay in the mud in wait for an enemy party for which they had arranged an ambush. A German detachment of about 20 men fell into the trap. The enemy troops were surprised and did not to fight, scurrying away with their dead and wounded. The Americans suffered no casualties.

Artillery firing on the American sector is becoming more active and the Germans have been shelling our trenches heavily. A number of Americans have been killed or wounded, one shell which dropped into a trench, causing several casualties. American artillerymen also have been laboring the Germans strongly, and it is believed their shells have claimed quite a few victims.

All the movable art treasures have taken from Venice and the cities of Vicenza and Treviso also have been shorn of their works of art in the event of a German success in breaking the Piave line and forcing the Italians to retire to the Brenta or Adige.

Germany's submarine campaign apparently is losing its effectiveness, as British losses during the past week were only one ship over 1,600 tons and five under that weight. This was the poorest week the submarines have had since the beginning of ruthless warfare in February. The lowest previous week was that ending on Nov. 4, when 12 vessels, including eight of more than 1,600 tons, were lost. The best week for the Germans was that ending April 22, when 53 vessels—40 of more than 1,600 tons, and 15 of the lesser category—were sent down.

Although Petrograd has not been in communication with the Nyastad cable station in Finland for several days, reports from Scandinavia permit control of the capital. Reports come from Sweden that the Bolsheviks maintain their hold on Petrograd and are preparing for a stout resistance against the forces of Kerensky and Generals Korniloff and Kaledines.

In Moscow the Bolsheviks apparently have been overpowered. An official report received in Copenhagen being to the effect that General Korniloff has taken the Krenlin where the extremists were besieged several days ago. Another rumor says that Siberia has announced its independence and proclaimed former Emperor Nicholas an emperor.

The proposed new inter-allied war council has provoked a near crisis in British politics. Challenged in the house of commons yesterday to explain his Paris speech on the needs for such a council, Premier Lloyd-George read the teams of the agreement, which he declared made it clear that the council was merely advisory. Formal debate on the inter-pellation will begin in the house next Monday. Negotiations for the formation of a new French cabinet are proceeding.

eral in command told American officers today that the marksmanship of the artillerymen was excellent, comparing favorably with that of troops which had been at war for years. The American officers were highly elated at the compliment. The only complaint heard is that a few of the American batteries are not as rapid as they might be, but they are improving daily.

The infantry is now interesting itself especially in patrols. All the men who have not had this experience are eager to try their hand, and some of them have asked to be assigned to this work. It is unanimous opinion that the men are learning more of war by their short stay in the trenches and gun pits than is possible to gain in months of other instruction. While the infantry is learning how to handle itself in the trenches, the artillery, in addition to actual firing, is acquiring experience in observation work and locating enemy batteries by the sound method. The heavy guns on both sides are now engaged in a duel at long range with the lighter pieces working at targets nearer the lines.

GEN. SIBERT'S FIFTH SON IN.

With the American Army in France, Wednesday, Nov. 15.—Major Gen. Sibert's fifth son is now in the army. Two of his sons are captains, one is a lieutenant and one a West Point cadet, and the general instructed his fifth and youngest son to keep away for the present. He has been advised, however, that his youngest felt he could keep out of the army no longer. He has just enlisted as a private.

Paris, Nov. 15.—The Belgian communication issued by the war office tonight says: "During the day of Nov. 13 the artillery fire was rather lively southeast of Dixmude. Enemy aviators carried out a raid on the night of Nov. 13-14 and dropped a number of bombs on Adinkerke, Banne and Furnes causing a number of victims among the civilian population. North of Dixmude one of our detachments exploded a mine near the German lines. During today the activity of the two artilleries was strong along the entire front."

BRITISH GAIN IN PALESTINE.

London, Nov. 15.—The junction point of the Damascus-Beersheba railway with the line to Jerusalem is now in the possession of the British army in Palestine. It was officially announced today. The railway line to the vicinity of Na'aneh and El Mansurah came into British possession as a result of the continued advances of General Allenby's infantry and mounted troops. The Turks lost 1,500 men in prisoners and more than 400 in dead on Tuesday besides four guns and a score of machine guns.

REV. FOLSOM SPEAKS FOR Y. M. C. A. FUND

People of Monroeville Are Stirred by His Appeal for Funds.

Monroeville, Ind., Nov. 15.—The address given by Rev. A. J. Folsom, of Fort Wayne, at the high school Tuesday evening was a rare treat for he explained the work of the Y. M. C. A. in such a manner that everyone was convinced beyond a doubt that this organization is an absolute necessity for the good and welfare of the soldier boys. A brief introductory address was given by Mr. Briggs, of the Bowser works, and remarks relative to the soliciting work were made by the chairman, Rev. S. C. Zechel.

Monroeville Minor News.

The W. G. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. Jos. Miller Tuesday afternoon. Reports of the delegates from the state convention were given by Mrs. Bertha Youse and Mrs. Gertrude Marquardt.

The Twentieth Century club mailed X-mas boxes to thirteen of the Monroeville boys, some of whom are now in France, and the others in different camps here in the states. Other boxes will be prepared and mailed to the remaining few in a short time.

Seymour Jones, monument dealer here, has recently landed a contract for a monument in Lindenwood cemetery which will cost close to $5,000.

Mrs. Chas. Nill is spending a few days at Fort Wayne with her son, Robert Nill, and wife.

The Epworth league of the M. E. church is observing win-my-chum week with appropriate services. Wednesday was Junior league night and interesting services were held, and tonight the gospel team of the First M. E. church of Fort Wayne will be present.

Quite a number from Monroeville and vicinity attended the sale of A. J. Shaffer in Madison township, Wednesday. Mr. Shaffer and family will move to town this week to their home on Allen street, recently purchased from Leslie DeBee.

Monroeville is experiencing an epidemic of whooping cough. A number of children from the different grades and high school are being kept at home on account of the disease.

The M. E. Ladies' aid met at the home of Mrs. George Painter Wednesday afternoon. The purpose of the meeting was the coming bazaar and supper. The society voted $10 to the Y. M. C. A. fund.

MRS. S. U. TARNEY IS DEAD IN AUBURN

Death Follows Illness of Several Years Due to Paralysis.

(Special to The Sentinel.)
Auburn, Ind., Nov. 15.—Mrs. U. S. Tarney, a resident of this city for forty-seven years, passed away at the family home on South Main street Wednesday afternoon after an illness of several years following a stroke of paralysis. Mr. and Mrs. Tarney have been married fifty-seven years and the death of Mrs. Tarney comes as a great shock to the aged companion. Besides the husband there are two children, Mrs. Loretta Guy, of this city, and Rose Tarney, of San Jose, Cal. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home, Rev. A. P. Bourns officiating, and interment will be at Woodlawn.

Auburn Brief Items.
The people of Auburn are busy preparing the packages to be sent to the soldier boys from this vicinity who are "somewhere in France." Many packages will be mailed this week.

The Auburn fire department was called out last evening to the home of Amos Hikey where a chimney burning out caused the fire alarm to be sent in. However, with the aid of the garden hose they were able to extinguish the blaze that had already started and prevented what might have been a disastrous fire.

The Auburn Daughters of Rebekah will entertain the "Bekahs from Angola" this evening in the Odd Fellows hall. A 6 o'clock dinner will be served, following which the initiatory work will be completed on several candidates. The Angola degree team will give the work.

The final lap of the big Y. M. C. A. drive was started this morning and it seems that every man in Auburn is doing his bit toward getting the people interested in what this movement really means. Mass meetings have been held in every town and rural school in every county in the state—men and women qualified to carry on a definite program of poultry work in their home counties and townships.

(Special to The Sentinel.)
Garrett, Ind., Nov. 15.—Mayor J. A. Clevenger and wife entertained a company of nearly two hundred men Wednesday evening at a reception at their spacious home on East King street. At evening this home is always enjoyed by everyone as Dr. and Mrs. Clevenger are artists in extending hospitality to their many friends. The evening was the main feature of the North Side circle. The guests took along ice cream and cake and enjoyed a pleasant evening with Mr. and Mrs. Williams, who expect to move to Wolcottville next Monday. Mrs. Williams was presented a beautiful leather handbag by the ladies. The Garrett High School Football team is planning to go to Bryan, Ohio, Saturday and play the school team of that city. The boys were defeated at Defiance last Saturday, and not only defeated, but about half of them were crippled. It was the roughest team the locals ever played and there were a couple of dislocated jaws, sprained ankles and arms, as souvenirs. The Defiance team were big husky guys, while the locals are small, but nevertheless they play good football and have lost but three games this season. A good crowd of rooters will accompany them Saturday.

The Eagles will give a big dance next Tuesday evening in their lodge home for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. fund.

POULTRY MEN MEET AT COUNTY AGENT'S OFFICE
Greater Production of Poultry and Eggs Along Efficient Lines Urged.

A meeting of the leading poultry men of Allen county was held Thursday afternoon in the office of A. J. Hutchins, county agricultural agent, in the interest of a project mutually agreed upon by Prof. G. I. Christie and the animal husbandry division of the United States department of agriculture, known as "Emergency Extension work in Poultry Husbandry." The plan was explained to the local poultry men by L. J. Brosemer, extension poultry husbandman.

In general this work is to be carried along the lines of organization rather than along lines of individual demonstrations. It is the desire of the department to secure local leaders among men and women interested in poultry in every county in the state—men and women qualified to carry on a definite program of poultry work in their home counties and townships.

human race in peace or war, but because of the moral relaxations that follow war conditions, become worse and worse in war times. The havoc of social diseases can be fought and vanquished by intelligent and united activity against them and it is the purpose of spreading information about this merciless scourge that the Quest club arranged for this lecture and makes it free to every male who wants to hear it. The scourge is not only a present horror but it is one that follows the stream of blood and must be eradicated for the good of generations born a hundred years from now.

The lecturer has been appointed by the president to have charge of this instructional work in all the camps of the country. He will be heard by every soldier in training and in arms. He will illustrate the lecture both by still pictures on the screen and by moving pictures. The lecture will begin at 8 o'clock. The invitation is to every man and youth old enough to understand. The shops of the city have been placarded and it is the hope of the officers of the Quest club that the theater will be packed.

The club will have its usual dinner at 6:30 at the Anthony hotel and will then march in a body to the theater where the lecture will be delivered. E. J. Little, president of the club, will preside.

STATE FOOD RULERS HOLD A CONFERENCE
Important Meeting of Administrators Discusses Economies.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The government's activities everywhere, present and prospective, in the conservation of household commodities, were discussed at a continued conference of federal food administrators from states in all sections of the country except the south, at the administration offices here today. These administrators are vested with broad powers to act within their states, and the purpose of the conference is to enable them to get into touch with each other and with the general supervisory policies here, for mutually informative benefits. There are differing problems in each state to be passed upon, but there are broad general policies on which the effort is to have co-ordinated work in all the states. Both attacks were without apparent cause. As near as could be fathomed Roebuck didn't like the attitude in which the bartender received his kiding and accordingly proceeded to wreck the saloon. Roebuck was given $10 and costs.

TALE OF CURIOUS PACHYDERM.
Kokomo, Ind., Nov. 14.—When the Robinson circus passed through Kokomo last night on its journey to winter quarters in Peru, an unexpected halt was made on the Lake Erie tracks directly in front of the Haynes factory in South Kokomo. Horses and elephants stood before the open doors of the great machine room and one curious elephant started for the entrance, which caused several hundred of the workmen to stampede to places of safety. The keeper prevented the threatened raid of the pachyderm.

Famous Follies Star, ANN PENNINGTON

"The Antics of Ann"

Turbulent Ann Pennington never was more fittingly cast than in this rollicking comedy of girlish romance, tomboy pranks and riotous mirth, laid in that hot-bed of convention, a girls' seminary. The story is, as the name implies, the antics of a very unconventional girl who gets herself into all sorts of trying situations.

PROF. ZEUCH SAYS HE WILL TRY TO ENLIST

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 15.—Prof. W. E. Zeuch insists that he has registered under the conscription law and is subject to draft, but will try to enlist before he is called.

The professor stated that he was not born in Germany and that he had no intention of being disloyal or unpatriotic, but was incensed by what he considered the German race. He said that if he is unable to get in the army he expects to go to Mexico City, where he has been offered a position.

RIVER COURSE DEFLECTED.

London, Nov. 15.—The opening of a large new aerodrome at Haverhill Park, near London, marks the completion of an engineering work which involved the deflection underground for a distance of nearly a mile, of the Wolsey river. The stream intersected the field selected for the main landing ground of the aerodrome and impeded the landing of aircraft there. To remove this defect, the engineers constructed a conduit, capable of carrying 27,000,000 gallons of water daily, into which the stream has now been diverted, and its bed leveled to give an unbroken flat surface for the aerodrome. The size of the conduit was such that before the river was diverted fifty soldiers marched upright through the underground way.

COLLECTION OF EVERY INDIANA WOOD GROWTH

Every Known Specimen to be Put in State's Forest Reserve Park.

(Special to The Sentinel.)
Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 15.—A specimen of every known tree and shrub which grows in Indiana soon will be growing in the Indiana forest reserve near Jeffersonville. Under the direction of Charles D. Deam, state forester, the work of planting the trees and shrubs is going forward rapidly. The object of the work is to ascertain and make public the exact conditions under which the trees and plants will grow best, and their ability to withstand different conditions. There are about 120 different kinds of trees and 100 varieties of shrubs common in the state.

The forest reserve contains about 2,000 acres. Seven acres has been made into a beautiful park. The work of experimenting with shrubs is farther along than that with trees, there being thirty-five large shrub beds now growing. Mr. Deam says it necessarily is slow work, but he expects eventually to have valuable information. The methods of growing the shrubs in both useful and artistic manner are being followed. Much work with vines also is being done.

Part of the work which is under way is with hedges. Along the inter-urban tracks which go through the reserve 400 feet each has been set aside for four varieties of hedge. Plants similar in size are to be put out. At a glance it will be possible to tell which is the best suited for any given purpose.

Another plan of Mr. Deam's is to have beds of shrubs and blooming plants so arranged that they will be in bloom constantly. Early blooming varieties will be planted, another variety which will bloom just as the early quills, and so on until late in the winter. The beds will be arranged to harmonize in color, also.

The information gained about the trees, plants and shrubs may be obtained through the state forestry department by the public.

GERMAN SUBMARINE CAMPAIGN IS GIVEN A DECISIVE BEATING

Noted British War Expert Declares
Prussian Ruthlessness Has Met

OPENS WAY TO AMERICA'S FULL PART

London, Nov. 15.—Arthur Pollen, noted British war expert, has made the following statement to The Associated Press on the submarine war: "Anything unsatisfactory in the military situation in Europe is balanced by the extraordinary news that the German submarine campaign has broken down altogether. The submarine is defeated. This is the most momentous event since the United States declared war. It means we can all stay in and that America can really come in."

THE WHITE WAYS GET THE DIMMER TO SPARE COAL

Washington, Nov. 15.—America's "white ways" will be darkened early tonight. Business thoroughfares in many cities which have blazed with white lights for many years will lapse into comparative gloom at 11 o'clock tonight in compliance with orders of the fuel administration restricting electric display advertising, using power generated from coal, to the hours between 7:45 and 11 o'clock P. M. There will be no curtailment of the small signs used to identify the place of business but the war time fuel shortage makes it necessary to limit the hours during which power will be furnished for the larger signs. Figures announced by the fuel administration indicate that the coal shortage for 1917 is approximately fifty million tons. Although efforts to stimulate production have increased the output by fifty million tons, war time consumption has advanced 100,000,000 tons.

HOW KAISER SPY BETRAYED SELF AND WAS KILLED

Pacific Port, Nov. 15.—The story of how a German spy betrayed himself was told today by M. A. Jeller, who arrived here from Europe.

On the way out Dr. Jeller said there was a passenger on board of charming manners who spoke English and went by the name of Forbes. He showed an unusual interest in military matters and took photograph while passing through the Suez canal. Forbes claimed to be a Scotchman, but Dr. Jeller said that during the journey across the Red sea, he suddenly asked Forbes in German where he was born. Forbes sprang to his feet and also in German asked the doctor what he meant, as he was an Englishman. When the steamer put in a Colombo, Ceylon the doctor saw Forbes making sketches and informed the British authorities, who took the man into custody. Dr. Jeller said he had since learned that Forbes was tried, convicted and shot.

U. S. CONGRESSMEN GIVEN WELCOME BY FRENCH PRESIDENT

Paris, Nov. 15.—President Poincare today welcomed the delegation of American congressmen to France in behalf of the nation and spoke of the cordial relations between the two countries. He asked the congressmen to convey his respects to President Wilson. The party then visited the chamber of deputies, where Speaker Deschanel received them. The speaker said that the ministerial crisis was a kind of familiar affair and did not affect France's attitude toward the war, adding: "The soul of the nation is in the armies in the field." He asked them not to look to the politicians but to the deeds of the men at the front, saying that the present upheaval was purely a desire to accelerate the carrying on of the war. M. Deschanel asked to be remembered to Speaker Clark. Congressman Hicks, of New York, in a brief reply, spoke of the pleasure the party had in visiting France and its certainty of victory. Minister Painleve entertained the party at luncheon. He said he was no longer premier, but that his attitude toward the war was unchanged as was that of the nation. He spoke of the friendship of the two countries as being cemented by the blood shed on the battlefields. Representative Taylor responded. The American party will visit the Belgian front on its way to England.

RAIDING COAL CARS.

"There must be some suffering because of the shortage of fuel in the city," said a railway official this morning. "Reports come to me of an unusual number of women and boys who are carrying coal home, using for the purpose baby buggies, little hand express wagons, buckets, baskets and sacks. They climb upon cars frequently, throwing the coal down and picking it up afterwards," he continued. "Every winter there is more or less of this work going on, but it is worse this year than ever, an indication that fuel is not only high in price, but very difficult to get even if the people have the money."

SUPERINTENDENTS STILL AHEAD

The superintendent's team still leads in the bowling league, but is being pressed by the team from the road foreman of engines' office. At the games at the Star alleys last night, the Road Foreman took two out of three games with the Time Clerks and the Trainmaster took two out of three from the Superintendents. A high score, 192, was made by J. Kalbfleisch. The standing of the league after the games was as follows: Superintendents, won 12, lost 6; Road Foreman, won 11, lost 7; Trainmaster's, won 8, lost 10; Time Clerks, won 5, lost 13.

New York, Nov. 15.—William Harrington, of San Francisco, member of the French foreign legion, lost his life as the result of wounds he received in a recent action, the Herald announces today.

The letter was penned on the front by Oscar Nouvel, giving the circumstances of the death in Lorraine of his twenty-year-old volunteer.

QUALIFIES WHERE QUALITY STANDARDS ARE STRICTEST

Calumet Baking Powder is now used in the Army and Navy. For years it has been used by an army of housewives—and that army enlists thousands of recruits every year.

Housewives use Calumet because it produces best results. They judge it by results entirely. Government experts selected Calumet for this same reason—and other reasons too. They looked back of the results. They demanded purity in Baking Powder, and purity in bakings, as well as surety of results.

They selected Calumet because they could secure these desirable qualities—and were certain of getting them. The strongest guarantee you could ask for Calumet's thorough goodness. Try it

News of Our Neighbors

COMMITTS SUICIDE.

Elmer Oyler, of Atwood, Hangs Himself in Barn.

Warsaw, Ind., Nov. 15.—Elmer Oyler, 53, residing southwest of Atwood, committed suicide early this morning by hanging himself in his barn.

Mr. Oyler got up about 5 o'clock, built the fire in the house and went out to the barn to do the morning chores. It was his custom to call his wife after building the fire, but as he did not do so this morning, she awoke and went out to look for him and found him about 6:30 o'clock hanging to a rope fastened to the rafters of the barn. He had climbed the rope about his neck, jumped from the loft and it is thought that death was instantaneous as his neck was broken.

For some time Mr. Oyler has been worrying over his finances, having been somewhat involved in indebtedness on his farm but at the time he retired last night he was in his usual good spirits.

SLANDER IS CHARGED.

Bluffton, Ind., Nov. 15.—A complaint for slander was filed in circuit court yesterday with William Jesse Kitchen as the plaintiff and Allie Robinson as defendant. The complaint states that on or about October 16 the defendant stated in the presence of various and diverse persons that the plaintiff had killed his turkeys and chickens, and that he had falsely and maliciously accused him of these actions in the presence of other persons. The plaintiff states that his reputation and good name has been injured in the sum of $1,000 and he asks this sum from the defendant.

DISLOYAL TALKS.

Bluffton, Ind., Nov. 15.—Sheriff J. A. Johnson, together with A. B. Cline, Wm. Settle, Dr. G. B. Morris, W. L. Kiger, Dr. Severin and Rev. W. T. Arnold, went to Nottingham township yesterday afternoon to investigate some reported cases of disloyalty and to explain to the men the law in this case. Sheriff Johnson stated this afternoon that all cases of disloyal talk against the government would be investigated and charges filed against the people. It is the duty, he said, of every loyal American to report such cases, so that they may be dealt with according to the law.

CAUSED HIS DEFEAT.

Elkhart, Ind., Nov. 15.—Although the passenger trains on the Lake Shore through here are so regular in their schedules people often say their watches by them when one of them happened to be five minutes late it caused the defeat of Albert S. Forney, round house foreman, for a seat in the city council. Forney was defeated by four votes. The train which arrived five minutes late brought home six men who had promised to vote for Forney. They arrived too late to get to the polls before they closed at 6 o'clock. Had the train been on its usual schedule they would have been able to vote for Forney.

HAD NO LICENSE.

Elkhart, Ind., Nov. 15.—Fined for hunting hares in his own backyard without having procured a hunter's license was the experience of Joseph Kavich, of this city. The rabbits were the property of his next door neighbor who told the court he saw Kavich shoot them. Kavich said the hares ate his cabbage plants. When the owner of the rabbits had been arrested Kavich admitted he did not have a hunter's license until after he had shot the "game." He paid a fine of $5.

PLENTY OF COAL.

Bluffton, Ind., Nov. 15.—Poneto ought to have a plenty of coal, if reports from that town are correct. Tuesday evening a car of soft coal arrived and at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday morning people were at the car to get their share. At 10 o'clock it was unloaded and at 12 o'clock three more cars arrived. And the best part of it is there is a car of excellent hard coal and two cars of West Virginia soft coal.

SUBMARINE WARFARE BIG DISAPPOINTMENT

Ruthlessness at Sea is Not Making Good, as Germans Realize.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Germany's submarine warfare is a failure, according to a sensational article published in the Berliner Tagblatt, by Capt. Persius. This information was received by the United States radio service from the French station at Lyons and made public here today. The message says:

"Capt. Persius publishes in the Berliner Tageblatt an article in which, after having confessed that the German people are beginning to have doubts in the results of piracy without mercy, he himself recognizes that the German admiralty was grossly mistaken in its calculations, and that in Germany today credence is no longer given to the decisive influence of the submarine war," as was the case last February, when the most optimistic forecast was published.

"Capt. Persius will not permit of supposing that the supply of foodstuffs in Great Britain will be threatened by the submarine warfare before the second half of the year 1918."

ONE ITALIAN BOAT LOST.

London, Nov. 15.—Only one small sailing vessel of Italian nationality was lost during the week ended Nov. 11 as the result of the operations of hostile submarines, it was officially announced from Rome today. The statement reads:

"During the week ended Nov. 11 vessels to the number of 384 entered ports and 333 left. The loss due to submarines was one sailing vessel of more than 100 tons.

A British destroyer and a small monitor which were operating in conjunction have been sunk by a hostile submarine. It was officially announced this evening. A total of thirty-three men from the two vessels are missing. The text of the statement announcing the losses reads:

"One of his majesty's destroyers and a small monitor have been sunk by an enemy submarine while co-operating with the army in Palestine. Seven men are missing from the destroyer and twenty-six from the monitor."

An American dispatch to the Daily Mail says a German submarine on Monday torpedoed without warning the Dutch trawler Huibertje at a point twenty-five miles off the Dutch coast. A Dutch boy of 15 years was killed. Ten survivors were rescued after being seven hours in a small boat and were landed at Ymuiden.

ALL WORKING FOR GOOD OF FORT WAYNE

Loyalty of City's Business Interests in Boosting City's Welfare.

The Fort Wayne stores yesterday presented a decidedly busy appearance on account of the immense number of visitors to the city, drawn by the combination of perfect weather and the exceptionally strong inducements offered by the merchants of the city. All Fort Wayne is benefiting from the growing success of Suburban Shopping day, a fact which should inspire appreciation on the part of everyone interested in the upbuilding of the city's welfare. The loyal men who are back of the Suburban day plan are giving willingly to make the weekly trade day a growing success, without regard to their own personal gain. They have the big welfare of the city at heart. They are not asking, "What am I going to get out of it?" but rather, "Is it for the general good of Fort Wayne?"

A study of the list of members of the Fort Wayne Suburban Day Trade Association reveals many names of individuals and firms who do not expect to profit financially from the plan except as the whole idea benefits the city in its general interests.

AGAINST THE WORST FOE.

Germany is a strong, resourceful and unscrupulous foe. Prussianism will be hard to put down; but in the end it will be put down. It will cost hcatombs of dead and treasure inestimable, yet the task must be pressed and the burden borne until the world shall be made safe.

America, in common with her allies, has a worse foe to fight than Prussian militarism. The demoralizations that war inflicts upon manhood do not cease their consequences with the signing of peace pacts. They destroy those who are spared by the bullets and bayonets of the enemy. They go on working their dreadful ruin for generations. Spiritual decay, moral degeneracy, bodily rot are the immemorial inflictions of war upon manhood.

That the American armies may be, so far as human agency is able to provide, well guarded and fenced against the insidious attacks of the most degrading elements of war is the determination of the government and people of this nation. One of the greatest of instrumentalities to this end is the Young Men's Christian association. That great organization will erect its barricades against the foe in every home camp and cantonment and on every battle front in Europe where American troops are sent to fight. That work is now under way. It is doing its splendid duty everywhere that American soldiers are assembled. But the work must be expanded and its activities must be multiplied. To do this vast sums of money are required now and will be required throughout the war.

No good American who is able to give so little as a dime to the fund for the war camp work of the Y. M. C. A. will withhold that contribution. It is a duty that rests alike upon all to help in the financing of this mighty labor to keep the boys clean in body and mind and strong in the spirit of good. The movement now proceeding to raise thirty-five million dollars for this work is well under way. It is meeting with fine success. The people of the nation are aroused to the importance of the work and are responding generously. There remains much to be done that this drive for thirty-five millions shall be fully accomplished. Those who have given nothing are permitting themselves to escape one of the finest as well as one of the most imperative duties of American citizenship in the war. You who have given nothing, make it the highest and most immediate of your obligations to add your contribution to the fund. If you have been missed by workers for the fund, hunt them up. Do not try to find satisfaction in having been overlooked to the advantage of a few dollars to your bank account or your pocketbook. To you no solace will come from having effected that sordid saving.

American money placed in the hands of the Y. M. C. A. for its war camp work can perform wonders to make war safe for young American manhood. The forces of evil must be fought and downed as the forces of the kaiser must be fought and downed and the victory over vice and shame and foul disease will not be the inferior triumph, be sure. It lies in the power of American wealth righteously employed to this great end to accomplish for American fighting men what never before has been true of the armies of any nation in any war. The boys can be sent sound and clean from camps to the trenches and brought back sound and clean from the trenches to their homes. But it will take money—lots of it. Only prodigious expenditures can win this fight for the morals and health of the American fighting man. Do you think he is worth making that fight for? Then put in your money to help make the fight.

WHAT RUSSIA MAY DO.

The word that comes by way of Copenhagen announcing a rebellion in Siberia and the setting up of an imperial throne for Nicholas, the deposed czar, doubtless is of a piece with numerous other fictions that have been arriving by that route for some days. At the same time it may have some value as a forecast. There must be order in Russia under the democracy or there will be search for order under some other form of government. The mass of the people will at length become weary of turmoil and bloodshed, the clash of rivalries and the conflicting ambitions and purposes of factional and party leaders who thrust woe upon the people because they cannot agree.

Autocracy and its despotisms will be preferred to anarchy and its excesses and it seems to be into anarchy that the democracy of Russia is drifting. Liberty that realizes only license for the turbulent will not be thought a priceless blessing by any people that has an instinct for good order and peaceful pursuits. If the factional leaders of Russia can hold out to the people of that land nothing better than has come to them since the autocracy was overthrown it will not be a strange spectacle nor one without precedent to see them looking to a return of the old order that they may have peace among themselves. The situation in Russia has not yet reached that critical point, but that it may be reached is not an unreasonable supposition. What amounts to civil war is in progress in a part of Russia. It may spread extensively.

After some years of the revolutionary government with its red terror the people of France, at the end of the Eighteenth century, fell readily under the influence and leadership of the first Napoleon and welcomed the power of a strong hand to restore order, establish government, give security to life and property and potency to the state. The first empire followed and Napoleon made France the greatest power since Rome. Democracy in France fared precariously upon a devious road for near three-quarters of a century and got its root firmly into the soil only after the Napoleonic dynasty went down at Sedan before the sweep of von Moltke's Prussian legions. The republic of France, begun a century and a quarter ago, had no real establishment until after the commune of '71 had again made the way for it. After almost fifty years of order and progress the democracy of France may now be said to be durable.

The task of democracy in Russia is beset by enormous difficulties that France did not and could not know. The people of France are French. The people of Russia are of many kinds. The empire was a hodge-podge of nations knit together by the sword and held together by tyranny. Whatever force it is that keeps Russia together, whether a despotism or a democracy, must at least be strong. The failure of democracy to govern and set material and social conditions ahead will open the way for a return of the Romanoffs. It may be an ill refuge, but still a refuge from an anarchy that is worse than despotism. We believe that the people of Russia will be disposed to heed their wiser counselors and to give support to rational theories of government and aid to bring normal economic conditions about. But they haven't yet made headway.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM.

The Fort Wayne woman who caught up an ice pick and chased her from her premises a stranger who insisted he was a federal agent with authority to inspect the food stores in her cellar set a worthy example. Not all mistresses of households may have either an ice pick handy or the courage to use it, but the good sense and resourcefulness of the heroine of this local episode may be emulated.

There is no purpose or effort of the federal government to pry into domestic cellars to find out what thrifty and patriotic American housewives have stored from the harvests of summer and fall. The more they have conserved perishable foods the better the government is pleased and they are more than welcome to their comforting stores. Hoarders of certain forbidden foodstuffs, who are preventing others from having even a meager share of the things that now are scarce will be looked after in good time by agents who are properly credentialed and can give good account of themselves.

Strangers who come nosing around your home demanding to get into your cellar are either thieves spying out the land for a raid or are enemy agents trying to perform a service for the kaiser. In any event of the sort, get the ice pick or call the police and be sure if the fellow gets away that you have noted him carefully enough to be able to identify him.

Did up your little or big bit for the Y. M. C. A. fund, give it cheerfully and then line your pocket for another touch.

TO MY MAECENAS, WHEREVER HE MAY BE.
(Q. Horatii Flacci Carminum: Liber Primus, Carmen I.)

"Maecenas atavis editis regibus—"
Maecenas, how I wish I knew
Just where you are. It makes me sick
To prow around, while maybe you
Are searching near my bailiwick.
Desiring with an impulse warm—
(It's warmest when you are at table—)
That you might give that Sabine farm
To me. I wish this were no fable!

Maecenas, whom Q. Horace loved,
A Sabine farm near Cassian
Would make me feel—well, rather moved—Eucletic days for sure! Say, man!
Just try me out. I dare you to.
Your whole long life shall be a poem.
I'll write one every day to you—
You bet your life, old pal, I know 'em!

Maecenas, we will hold high links,
And deck your brows with festive green,
And every time a golden wink
We'll order up the Hippocrene.
Ay, nymphs and satyrs will be there—
Believe me, Mike, I am some stayer—
Buterpe's arms shall smite the air,
And jolt our jazz piano-player!

Maecenas, let me kid you on!
I want that farm—I do, bedad!
'Twould make me pretty near bon ton—
In this place farms are all the fad.
That settled we might talk on "ars
Poetica"—and I might, I dunno,
Hit my fool head agin the stars,
If you classed me with Harriet Monroe!

Our Daily Affirmation.
IT WOULD BE A GRAND THING TO OWN
A SABINE FARM, IF MAECENAS OR SOME OTHER GOOD-NATURED GUY WOULD LOOK AFTER THE COAL AND TAXES.

"TH' MORE I'M WITH ANYBODY WHEN THEY'RE ALONE TH' MORE TALKATIVE I GET WITH MYSELF. WIDDER HECKLESS SAYS SHE JUST LIKES T' VISIT WITH HERSELF 'CAUSE SHE KIN TALK A BLUE STREAK AN' NOBODY BE ANY WISER."

Great Moments in Poetry.

The following gems were selected with great care from the poem which Mr. William S. Braithwaite considers one of the best of the year. There are ten lines in the masterpiece. No, we beg Mr. Johns' pardon—there are twelve lines.

"She is never around for any one to touch,
But of ecstasy and longing she, too, knew much."
—From "The Interpreter," by Orrick Johns.

"Like snow in the springtime on a sunny hill,
And we were only frightened and can't think still."
—From "The Interpreter," by Orrick Johns.

"We can't think quite that the katydids and frogs,
And the little cheeping chickens and the little grunting hogs,
And the other living things, that she spoke for us,
Have nothing more to tell her since it happened thus."
—From "The Interpreter," by Orrick Johns.

And, at this point we pause, remembering full well what happened to those who read the fatal "King in Yellow."

But, it seems unfair to give Mr. Johns all the flowers. There's Mr. Morris C. Spriggs, of Denver, our only discovery. May we not, in our little private anthology, add a final sprig of real verse?

"To know the haunts of the possum,
The raccoon and the skunk,
You ask, 'How did you do it?'
How come you to think to think?"
Was brought up in the backwoods
'Mongst the buzzards and the crows,
And who wasn't little reckons
All the things a body knows."

As long as breath gurgles through our wind-pipe
With—Mr. Braithwaite's nosegay—with Mr. Spriggs.

TROT-ZKY

HELPING TO WIN THE WAR

Article VI—Advice to Americans Between Ages of 50 and 100

By GEORGE ADE

Prepared for the Indiana Council of Defense.

If it is not too late accept an apology for the label of "advice" on these little talks regarding the war.

The writer does not pretend to be in charge of any reservoir of knowledge from which to ladle out exclusive information.

He is simply endeavoring to remind people of things they already know, and possibly permit them to draw some fresh conclusions from the same old array of facts.

"Old men for counsel and young men for actions."

The old men are counseling these days and doing great work.

A few of them have gone into the ditch and are lying upside down, with the wheels still revolving, but 98 per cent are on the job and swinging huge undertakings with calm efficiency.

The inside directors of this war are men past 50 and many have edged beyond 60 and an active minority will tell you that a fellow never gets into his prime until he is around 70.

The older men who have observed the grind of world politics for fifty years and who recognize the present struggle as the culmination of a cold-blooded plot to Germanize the planet—they do not have to be lectured as to the dreadful significance of what is happening in Europe.

The venerable Joseph H. Choate, almost with his last breath, begged his countrymen to stand and fight for their heritage.

They say that Elihu Root is an old man but every time he speaks we are stirred as by the call of a bugle.

Thousands and thousands of college camps last spring and all of them received benediction from gray-haired professors, who know their Europe as well as their America, who have studied history and classified the underlying influences that move the races of the earth, and who know that all of the humane and decent influences in the world are now lined up against organized military brutality, and there can be no compromise.

The dangerous man these days is the fellow who cannot remember anything that happened more than six weeks ago and who cannot see beyond the boundaries of his own picket fence.

He is ready to discuss with you the report that the night the boys got into Camp McGinnis they had only a blanket apiece, but if you try to inject into him the plans which have been incubating in Berlin ever since 1871, and the stealthy German efforts to get footholds in Mexico and Venezuela and the West Indies, and the revelation of German duplicity in 1914, and the whole diabolical plot for butchering nations, one at a time, you will lose your audience.

You are getting too far away as regards geography, and too far back as regards time and too blinded deep into psychology in your endeavor to explain motives.

The terms in which you are talking do not seem to connect the war with the tax rate in our township or the price of grain at the elevator.

Take this same Mr. Sleepy Citizen and recall to him how we kept turning one cheek and then the other, until we were slapped silly, and he will agree with you that a man or nation must fight if insulted and humiliated beyond endurance.

All right, he gets that part of it.

But, if he regards this war merely as an attempt on our part to lick some one who picked on to us, he had better be straightened out in the head or he will be voting, in a few months, for the acceptance of fake terms of peace.

The counselors, the leaders of thought, the molders of opinion, the elderly wise men, who can see through a board when it has a knothole in it, must set down with Mr. and Mrs. Average Man and drive it into them that we are fighting an enemy who never means what he says, who travels roundabout instead of direct, whose diplomacy exalts the lie and ex-

the felony, with whom the ulterior motive is always uppermost.

We know that the solid men of our country will buy Liberty Bonds and give to the Red Cross and make special prizes to the government and serve on councils of defense and pay increased taxes without whimpering.

Just now another and larger duty is at hand—to convince the whole United States of America that when Germany begins to talk peace we must be hard of hearing.

A half-finished job is of less account than one that never was begun.

Of course Germany wants peace—on her own terms.

Any burglar will make peace with a policeman, if permitted to retain the bag of silverware and if given a fresh license to go out and commit future burglaries.

When Germany talks peace (in vague terms and without coming down to cases) one purpose is to delude the simpletons behind the allied lines and weaken the resolution needed to back up a successful war.

The other purpose is to convince the simpletons at home that the allies, in refusing peace terms, make evident their determination to exterminate the German people, therefore, every subject of the Kaiser must steel himself to new resolution and make ready for further sacrifices.

If the unfortunate Ottos and Fritzels, who are serving as cannon fodder, choose to believe the bulletins sent out from Berlin that is their habit and their blessed privilege.

But an American above the age of seven who regulates his war activities so as to be in harmony with the latest information from Potsdam, needs looking after, that's all.

The man and his wife who have a boy somewhere away off yonder, crouched in a shell crater—can you blame them for wanting the war to end?

The young wives and the sweethearts, and the anxious relatives, and the college mates and the townspeople—all grabbing at bits of information from the front and hoping for the best—is it surprising that they will pull for peace next year a good deal harder than they are pulling this year?

That is what we are coming to and we must be ready to checkmate and put into the discard all premature and aimless talk about quitting.

If people know what must happen to the world if the German conspiracy succeeds, there will be no faltering.

The editorials and magazine articles and public letters up to this time have tried to answer the question "Why we are at war?"

That question seems to be answered.

Now it needs to be shown that the war must continue until Germany, with bloody hands and bowed head, stands before the tribunal of everlasting right, pleading guilty and asking for mercy.

IN WASTE PLACES.

(From the Terre Haute Tribune.)

The Chicago Tribune, in a very faithful and commendable spirit, day by day seeks to insill into the hearts of Chicagoans such a regard and respect for the American flag as will prompt the citizen to remove his hat when the American flag goes by.

Of course it would be unfair to imply that all this delinquency on the part of the citizens of Chicago is a reflection of the limp and lame patriotism of the mayor of that city. But that will be the conclusion to a great extent of the people.

Indiana has been comparatively free from this discouraging phenomenon. Fort Wayne probably is the only point in the state where ulterior influences have seemed to pale real Americanism, and there it is due to some of the newspapers projecting the local and state political game before the welfare of the nation and by studied and malicious criticism of the president and his chief aids in the conduct of the war creating a suspicion in the community mind that has concealed its patriotic devotion to the cause of America.

Fort Wayne has, however, about overcome this obsession. She is showing signs of coming to her senses and appears to be lining up with the rest of the loyal and patriotic cities of the Hoosier commonwealth.

It is to be heartily hoped that the campaign of The Chicago Tribune to rehabilitate respect for the flag there will succeed. Fort Wayne will probably be restored to sound health patriotically by the very wave of loyalty that is sweeping the state from the sand dunes to the Ohio.

It is fervid enough to rekindle any dead or extinct area in the state.

PAYING WAR TAXES.

(Spokane Spokesman-Review.)

The government specifically expects the war tax on theater tickets to be paid by the buyer of the tickets, and not by the theater owners. That is made clear in the law which does not require the owners to go to a single cent of added expense on account of the ticket tax.

The theatergoer understands this, and expects to pay 10 per cent of the face value of his ticket as part of his contribution to the country's war expenses. Whether he would be so cheerful in the face of a 50 per cent increase, 40 per cent of which would go into the theaters' tills, is another question.

Care must be taken, now that the new taxes are about to go into effect, that they be not made an excuse for increasing profits. The temptation in many lines of business to take up a war tax of a cent by a price increase of a nickel will be great, especially if a few merchants make a notable success of it from the start.

Nobody will object to paying a small direct tax to help the government finance the war, but everybody will object to contributing extra war profits to greedy tradespeople.

FROM THE SENTINEL PAGES 25 YEARS AGO

Benjamin Benninghoff, of near Maysville, is thinking of locating in this city and investing $20,000 in tenement houses.

One of Centlivre's teams ran away Saturday evening on West Jefferson street and wrecked the wagon at the corner of Brackenrigs street. One horse ran to the stable and one is missing.

On Thursday of this week the Messrs. Centlivre will begin to bore for gas near their brewery. Some new and improved machinery will be used by the drillers. The effort is in the line of enterprise.

Willie Perry, whose parents reside at No. 1 Oak street, is the victim of an air gun accident. A playmate shot him in the eye, inflicting a wound which may result in the loss of the optic. Dr. Schilling is attending the lad.

Last night the family of A. Walters, who live on Huettis street, were awakened by loud screams of "burglars," "burglars," and Mr. Walters reached for his revolver and ran to his mother-in-law's room upstairs from which portion of the house the noise originated. He found the door locked upon the inside and aroused the neighbors. George Byers, a neighbor, went out on the street and began calling for the police, but in the meantime the door had been forced open, and it was found that the lady had been only dreaming of burglars.

Last evening about 5 o'clock, the patrol wagon was called to the corner of Wayne and Francis streets by a telephone message which stated that a man was creating a disturbance in that locality. Officer Limecooly went with the wagon, but after making a diligent search nobody could be found to arrest. At 12 o'clock last night an alarm of fire was turned in from the same locality. When the engine arrived the fire was found to be in the African M. E. church, on Francis street, near the corner of the alley between Wayne and Erie. The efficient work of the department soon extinguished the fire, but not until damage amounting to $100 had been done. The fire was the work of an incendiary and was started in the northwest corner of the room. While the fire was in progress some suspicious characters were seen loitering about and were chased away.

Big Audience Charmed by "Aida," San Carlo Co.

Music lovers generally, and admirers of grand opera in particular, filled the Palace theater last evening with a splendid and appreciative audience to hear "Aida" presented by the San Carlo Grand Opera company. The company visited Fort Wayne under the auspices of the Morning Musical society, which rarely fails to present all that it expects to in the way of the best in music. So the audience for the beautiful and big opera presented superbly, the unusual settings of the land of Egypt, during the epoch of the Pharaohs, with the rich coloring of costumes, lending a gorgeous and picturesque, as well as stately atmosphere that was as interesting as it was beautiful. The music was beautifully sung and the orchestra, under the extremely artistic direction of Chevalier Carlo Peroni, did superb work. The opera is particularly wonderful in orchestration and varied in color with little of thematic quality, easy to single out to linger in the memory, but deeply impressive as a whole.

The role of Aida was sung by Miss

Not Russian Furs But Really English

Although their richness and the smart little Russian hat betokens the eastern origin of these Christmas furs, they were sent out by a London designer. The coat is of mole-skin and the trimmings are smoked fur—a grayish black tinge that combines well with other smooth, short-haired furs, and with velvet.

The Russian hat of silk is heavily embroidered and beaded with shell and wooden chains in brilliant colors and is in effective contrast with the subdued hues of the coat.

Louisa Darclee, who is taking the place of Mary Kaxstner while that dramatic soprano is having a rest. Perhaps the role might have been better sung, but no one had any way of telling unless he had heard it done so, for Miss Darclee has a beautiful voice of range and power that easily carries such an aria as "O Skies of Tender Blue," third act, and she rises to the needed dramatic force at all times. Very appealing was the duet between Aida and Radames when he impetuously her to "fly with me." Manuel Salazar as Radames was magnificent. A wonderful voice, a fine presence, much "verve" and apparently an intuitive appreciation, left nothing to be desired in his presentation of the part. Joseph Royer, basso, as the Ethiopian King, was equally impressive both as to voice and dramatic intensity, while Pietro De Biasi, high priest, and Natolo Cervi, Egyptian King, were two other members of the operatic cast whose singing was always an entire pleasure. Miss Stella Demetis, the mezzo-soprano, who sang Amneris, has a smooth, sweet voice which always appeared to good advantage and in solos especially was equal to all musical demands.

Fortunately the audience was well seated early so that wonderful aria for the tenor, "Celeste Aida," was heard with an almost breathless silence. All the way through the opera, all the scenes of unusual beauty, of which the closing may well be touched upon, bringing as it does the story of the opera to a sad close with the two lovers, Radames and Aida, shut in the subterranean hall of the Temple of Vulcan to die, Aida by choice to be with the man she loves. Radames because he has refused to marry Amneris or to confess that he was not a traitor to his country. Above the departing lovers is represented the interior of the temple with the statue of the god, Osiris, surrounded with the splendor of gold and lights of various colors, while two priests with burning vessels of oil in front of them guard the stone they have placed over the vault below and Amneris kneeling before them bewailing her jealousy and beseeching the priests to release Radames.

AT THE PALACE

Graciously Artistic Girl On Bill Today at Palace.

A two-way headline bill opened this afternoon at the New Palace for the remainder of the week with Mlle. Bianca and Edward F. Reynard as the featured attractions. Mlle. Bianca, formerly premier danseuse of the Metropolitan dancers in New York, with the assistance of Korakoff, a Russian dancer of note, and Miss Ragnhild, a graceful girl interpreter of the terpsichorean art, will present on this bill a series of artistic dance specialties, each with an elaborate individual stage setting.

Edward F. Reynard, the ventriloquist comedian, assisted by Katherine McConnell, and of course the famous Seth Dewberry, will present "Before the Court," a riot in ventriloquist comedy, depicting some scenes in Judge Dewberry's rag time court. Miss McConnell is afforded some excellent opportunities for the displaying of her ability as a dancer. Harry Madison and Gene Winchester in "Versatile Nonsense," present a bit of everything including eccentric dances and musical songs. Among the super men in the bill are The Gladiators, super men in feats of tremendous physical strength and agility; Claudia Tracy, the petite miss with the talent for graceful dance and clever talk, and Duke Johnson and Mae Wells, in songs and dances of the moment.

BY BIDDY BYE.

When the American daughter reaches the "teen age" there is a flurry in the family circle and a disturbance in the family purse—presaging its deepening depression as young daughter grows in marriageability. The excitement is due to the realization that it is time to make daughter an accomplished girl.

Father is all for common sense home training in cooking and sewing, but Mother knows such staples of education have little publicity value.

Now comes a New York art critic explaining: "Mothers that a bit of training in the sense of color would double their daughters' success as homemakers."

Louis Weinberg, art lecturer of New York university, says "most women's knowledge of art is so limited that they think of color in such terms as blue, red and green rather than as values of blues, reds and greens."

"Color has a definite drawing power, so why shouldn't the daughter of the house study its uses? If a girl learned something about color she would have made a better homemaker."

Most women say, "If I had lots of money I could make my home beautiful, too."

"Now that is all wrong," declares Weinberg. "Art is possible for everyone. If a woman would only realize that she is the artist and her own home and her own person are her canvases, she could work wonders. There is no reason why she should take the word of a decorator or painter about her house or her dress. Let her do with what she has."

"Usually removing things from the rooms, rather than adding, makes an improvement."

"Assembling colors, not mixing them, requires color judgment, and this comes only with training. Every child in school should learn the principles of color."

ZOUAVE TO BE POPULAR IN NEXT SPRING STYLES

Probably the most salient feature of the collection of models for spring brought over to New York is the prominence of the zouave idea. This does not apply only to the skirt, for the elongated jacket is a feature of the zouave dress, as is also the bound-in neckline, and these features are all repeated and played upon in this collection.

While it may not seem that there is anything startling new in a dropped waist-bound-in neckline, and these features are bound, the jacket and the showing of the blouse section under the jacket is distinctive. It produces really another silhouette, which, although narrow, is not straight and binds in around the hips.

Mix ingredients, heat gradually, stir occasionally and cook slowly two hours over a low flame. Add ground spices to taste after mince meat is cooked or when making pies.

BOILS CAUSED BY GERMS. THEY CAN BE AVOIDED

Indianapolis, Nov. 15.—Boils are caused by germs, and are something which can be avoided to a certain extent. Dr. J. N. Hurty, state health commissioner says: "It no longer is necessary to suffer with the patience of Job. How to avoid them; and what to do if boils appear is the subject of a bulletin issued by Dr. Hurty."

"Certain germs cause boils by boring into the skin. Under normal conditions the body does not suffer from boils causing germs, but when from body abuse vitality becomes lowered, then the germs get in their work. Then they enter through the slightest abrasions of the skin, multiply, produce puss and cause inflammation, swelling and pain."

"To prevent boils don't assault your body and cause debility. Keep your body clean. If your nutrition is good and your blood up to normal you won't have boils, even though your skin is not kept clean, still bathing helps keep boils away. Persons with boils should take a bath in hot water and soap twice a day, morning and night."

After the bath the patient should have clean clothing. Above all one who is subject to boils should build up his resistance by eating simple food, leading a regular life, living much out of doors, and eating little meat. Eat bran bread, fruits and vegetables and drink freely of pure cool water."

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Hardwood Floors.—To remove stains from hardwood floors use a mixture of powdered pumice and water.

To Remove Burnt Grease, Etc. From Skillets and Other Cooking Utensils.—Place same (except aluminum) in half tub of water with half can of lye and let boil until all can easily be removed with a scraper.

Also try this with the burners and the pieces from the top of your cook stove and you will be delighted with results.

How Will You Have Your Hat, Madame? Here Are Two Types Quite Opposed

Regarding the proper thing in hats for the winter season Dame Fashion is in a most amiable mood. If one admires small, smart toques with towering crowns, they are very good, and if one chooses broad, simple sailors or wide drooping brims, why very good too.

Pictured herewith are the opposing types which bid for our approval, the very smart sailor of black silk beaver with its binding of grosgrain ribbon, a single band of the same crossing the top of the hat, and below, the delectable turban in seal brown velvet with its high soft crown showing special aspiration at the right.

Banded with a brown and iridescent breast and cinched with a tall wing this hat lends an irresistible snap to the trotteur frock.

VEGETABLES, SALADS, JELLY FOR THANKSGIVING TABLE

BY BIDDY BYE.

The turkey is not entitled to all the attention of the hostess and guests at the Thanksgiving feast. He must share honors with the lowly vegetable, for Thanksgiving is essentially a harvest festival and the fruits of the garden should liberally flank the king-like brown bird.

Autumn vegetables such as onions, carrots, beets, turnips, potatoes and squash are especially appropriate.

The salad too is an important bit of the menu and usually commands the honor of a separate course.

Jellies and tart sauces are desirable and accompaniments of the rich and heavy meal and a few recipes for each of these necessities are appended.

Glazed Onions.

Small, silver skinned onions should be peeled and boiled in salted water until they are tender. After being drained well they should be baked with a mixture of melted butter in which a little sugar is stirred, repeating until the onions are delicately brown.

Baked Squash.

Four cups of hot steamed squash should be put through a sieve. Add to squash 2 tablespoons of brown sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 1/4 teaspoonful pepper and 3 cups of whole milk, with the beaten yolks of 3 eggs. Fold in the whites of 3 eggs beaten stiff, and bake in a buttered baking dish until brown.

Thanksgiving Fruit Salad.

Individual salads. Arrange thick slices of Hawaiian pineapple on lettuce leaves. Cover pineapple with a layer of marshmallows, heap with peeled segments of grape fruit, and top with a marshmallow. Serve with cream mayonnaise dressing.

Thanksgiving Vegetable Salad.

Wash and drain a can of French peas, but do not heat. Mince 1 cupful of turkey or chicken giblets, or cold roast veal. Chop fine two boiled carrots and with the meat add to the peas and mix lightly. Add 1 cupful of English walnut meats chopped and moisten the salad with mayonnaise dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves with crisp red radishes cut in flower shapes.

Mint Jelly.

Mint jelly is best if made only a few days before using. It is really a tart apple jelly with mint flavoring which renders it delicious for serving with meat and fowl. Pare and quarter tart apples and nearly cover with cold water. Cook slowly until apples are soft then crush and drain through cheesecloth bag, without squeezing. Boil juice 20 minutes and add an equal quantity of heated sugar. Boil 5 minutes, skim, add green vegetable coloring matter and flavor rather strongly with creme de menthe or essence of peppermint. A few fresh mint tops should be used when the jelly is served.

Cranberry Jelly.

Pick over and wash 4 cups of cranberries. Put in a stewpan with 2 cups of boiling water and boil 20 minutes. Rub through fine sieve and add 2 cups of sugar. Boil 5 minutes and turn in to single mold or small individual molds.

HOME HOSPITALITY FOR THE MEN IN CAMP

Letter From Soldier to His Hostess Shows Deep Appreciation.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The extent to which the enlisted man appreciates home hospitality when he is thrown into strange surroundings is impressively shown in a letter, a copy of which has been received at the national headquarters of the War Camp Community Recreation Service.

The letter, written by a young soldier at Quantico, Va., to a Washington woman who had entertained him, in company with other soldiers, at Sunday dinner, read in part as follows:

"My visit at your home last week was such a pleasure to me I feel I can express it no better than by saying it was almost like a visit home. I will always remember your kindness in taking into your home strangers who longed for just such a homelike place. You people probably will never know us and how much we appreciate them and while you do not seem to consider it out of the ordinary, I think it is a very worthy contribution to the cause for which we are enlisted."

"Will drop you a card or, if possible, a letter when we get over there and will always remember your kindness and also those good hot muffins. How I have longed to have a plate of them before me, with all the butter I could eat. Such is life in the army, however, and we now appreciate more the things which heretofore we have always taken as a matter of course."

Endorsements of the movement continue to come into national headquarters from prominent army officers. "Your services in behalf of the soldiers of this command have been keenly recognized by those in authority here and I know they are appreciated. I hope the good work will go on," writes Col. Abner Pickering, commanding the Eleventh Infantry at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Col. Robert H. Noble, of the Sixth Infantry, expresses similar sentiment and adds: "The soldiers' rest rooms at Chattanooga, various public and private entertainments for our soldiers, the welcome given by the churches, fraternities, libraries and the community generally have been of real value, and are gratefully remembered by us."

RECIPE FOR NUT BREAD.

One egg, one cupful milk, one-half cupful sugar, three cupfuls flour, three teaspoonsful baking powder, one teaspoonful salt, one cupful English walnut or pecan or hickory nut meats, cut into small pieces. Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar, and add the milk, the egg well beaten, and the nut meats. Place in a well buttered pan and let rise one hour. Bake three-quarters of an hour in a moderate oven.

SPICED BAKED HAM.

Boil ham until tender. Then peel off the heavy skin (which is over the fat part), stick about a dozen cloves in the fat, sprinkle cracker crumbs over ham, and put in pan in hot oven for five or ten minutes, until a golden brown.

SOAP SCRAPS.

Don't throw away these small pieces of soap. Put them all in a mason jar, add hot water and place it near your sink. You will always have on hand good fluid soap for washing dishes, etc.

The death of Mrs. John Harrington came as a great shock to relatives and friends. On Monday afternoon Mrs. Harrington had appeared to be in her usual health and spent the afternoon with her sister, Mrs. Byron Thimier. In the evening she returned home, lighted the fires and lamps and was preparing to get the supper when attacked by a cerebral hemorrhage.

When Mr. Harrington came into the house shortly after he found her lying in an unconscious condition on the floor. She lingered but a few hours, dying at 8:15 o'clock. Mrs. Harrington was loved and respected by all who knew her. She was a faithful member of the Methodist Episcopal church, attending all services whenever possible to do so. She was 53 years old in January and has lived all her life in New Haven. She is survived by her husband, three daughters, Mrs. Arthur Ginter, of Cleveland, O.; Mrs. Reishard, of Toledo, and Mrs. J. Mosier, of Toledo, Ohio; her mother, Mrs. Sarah Tutison, and sister, Mrs. Byron Thimier, and three brothers, Oliver, Lee and Vire Huston. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Methodist Episcopal church.

Carl Brudi was buried in the Lutheran cemetery Wednesday afternoon. The funeral was held at the house at 1:30 and at the Lutheran church at 2 o'clock.

SLEEPING BAG FOR BABY.

A sleeping bag for baby will be very handy these cold nights. Take an old tennis flannel nightgown, cut it off just below the opening in the gown. Turn in the cut edges and stitch across. Make two buttonholes in the hem about 25 inch apart, run a tape through it, slip the bag over baby's feet, draw up tape and tie around the waist. This gives the feet as much freedom as night drawers and is much warmer and more comfortable. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

When, during the convention of clubs held in Moose hall, an exhibit of work done by the adult blind of the state institution for those so afflicted, was held, but little attention was paid to it. Then a branch of the College club took it up, arranged for a display at the Wolf & Dessauer store on condition that saleswomen be provided to take charge. The result of one week nets $250.74.

A general chairman and teams of workers have been in charge. People have found out that things are beautifully made and not extravagant in price. Hence the "rush" to purchase. Team No. 2 went on duty this morning in charge of Mrs. Carl Getz, captain and Mrs. Louis Heilbroner in charge today. Tomorrow Mrs. Louis Siefert, Saturday, Miss Lorene Travers; Monday, Mrs. Ben Levy; Tuesday, Miss Elizabeth Walts; and Wednesday, Mrs. G. W. McCaskey will round out the second week. WELL ATTENDED.

The Standard Jewelry company threw open their sumptuous quarters to the public today and the opening was well attended. This new firm, located in the new utility building, over the gas office, has spared no pains in fitting up the finest installment jewelry store in this section. Beautiful cases and side wall cabinets, finished in mahogany, filled with jewelry, cut glass, ivory goods, etc., greeted the visitors and many were the expressions of appreciation at the vast display. The firm makes a specialty of selling diamonds, etc., on the installment plan, at no interest, and already have established themselves as very liberal in all transactions. The opening continues throughout this week.

NARROW SQUEAK FOR SOLDIER.

Kokomo, Ind., Nov. 15.—His arrest two hours before the expiration of a ten day period, saved Ross E. Baker, Kokomo, Ind., from being classed as a deserter from the United States army. Baker at a government school for cooks and bakers in Massachusetts, took unauthorized leave nine days and twenty-two hours before he was arrested by a local recruiting officer; two hours more would have made him a deserter in the eyes of the government. Baker made no effort to evade the officer but told him "I am glad that you have found me."

A PRETTY SKATING SET.

A new skating set is made of black velvet combined with trimmings of white Angora; the hat is a turban of the velvet draped into a high ear on one side and caught with a knot of the Angora. The scarf is of the velvet drawn low about the shoulders, with the opening coming at the back, where long white tassels fall to the waistline; about the neck is a small strip of the Angora. The small barrel muff shows a small Angora band around each end with two tiny tassels pendant.

A VISIT WITH YOUR BOY IN THE TRAINING CAMP

By SAMUEL MERWIN.

Let me try to paint a little picture of a cantonment town as I saw it a few days and nights ago.

It was, last spring, a quiet enough little junction city of a few thousand inhabitants. Then in the summer the contractors descended on it, took possession of the railway sidings and built many others, rushed to work thousands of laborers on a large tract of land not a mile away, and in two months' time cleared forests, built roads and churned up hub-deep the mud where other roads will be before winter, erected hundreds of wooden barracks, stables, gunsheds, cook houses, administration buildings. Then, in September, the first drafts of the National Army began pouring in. Today about forty thousand of these young men, all torn abruptly from familiar environment, from the more or less settled habits of work and friendship, torn by the grim hand of war for training as individual units of a colossal but as yet wholly new military machine.

Into the little junction city poured, at the same time, as inevitably as parasitic insects moving to their prey, the hosts of organized evil. The little city fought them earnestly but feebly through its loose-jointed, rather casual, typically easy-going political organization. Commissioners organized by the government—the first great government that has ever, right from the beginning of a war, determined to protect its young soldiers from evil influences, no matter what subtly powerful organized forces it might have to fight and destroy—moved in, set up standard of decency; impressed them on the local authorities, moved on to neighboring cities that are not an hour away by trolley or by convenient and ever-waiting automobiles, and grappled there with the local problems of drink and immorality.

But, able and determined as the men of these commissions were and are, effective as has been, already, much of their work, forcible as is the new, hitherto unheard-of federal regulations that alcoholic drink may not be served to men in uniform and that soldiers must wear their uniforms, the blind, persistent forces of organized and unorganized evil press in here, there, everywhere. Here and there they break through the walls of regulation, slip under or around. Eternal vigilance is necessary to achieve even a partial success. There is much that is ugly in life; of an ugliness that persists, assuming a thousand attractive forms and faces, confusing the individual, appealing to his weakness, his loneliness, his temperament.

Yes, in spite of this organized and determined against evil, evil persists. It swarms at the young soldier as by an unerring instinct. Here, in the young man, torn so unexpectedly from his very roots in life, thrust into a hard, rough life, brought for the first time face to face with the dispiriting reactions of bayonet practice, of killing for a cause but of killing, homesick, more than a little bewildered—here the vicious forces find their natural prey. The soldier has always been their prey. The camp follower is a tradition as old, though not so often mentioned, as armies.

And today—or last week, when I drove slowly through the streets, turning idly this way and that, watching the faces that moved by, backing into the crowded, tangled parking space behind the railway station and observing the vast new traffic flowing into and out of the town—our little junction city is not unlike boom towns I have seen in the west, years ago. Confusion, crowding, new and flimsy buildings, crowds of human pirates of both sexes flying the flag of casual, even good-humored human intercourse above a blackened heart—all a tangled disorder of work, service, profit and piracy.

Among all this—crowding into and out of the station, lounging on curb and store doorstep, catching the too-ready smile of a lurking, painted face, riding away, perhaps homeward, perhaps toward one of the nearby cities, on trolley or jitney or train—move the soldier boys.

A mile away lies the great area of the cantonment; the mud, the light, quickly-built structures in which forty thousand soldiers live cooped in long blanketed rows, clothes hang from lines and hooks about each cot, the rush of work on stumpy drill grounds, the bustle of a vast enterprising, through some miracle already well along toward a sort of completion, yet anything but a settled and hospitable home.

The forty thousand soldiers—each a boy with a home somewhere, with a wife or girl somewhere, with his own little puzzling tangle of personal problems in the life he has got to live (if he lives)—are in the care of a corps of officers. These in their turn are mostly young men who have been prepared, quickly, in a sense unexpectedly, for the grim business of war. They are an earnest, devoted body of men. They are—all of them—taxed to the limit of their capacity to keep up, in thought, study, day by day practice, with the work that has got to be done. They have got to make officers out of themselves as well as make soldiers out of the forty thousand. They must, whatever their personal sympathies, maintain an authority, a reserve, toward their men. They must drill them, must by sound, company by company, battalion by battalion, into a smooth-running, tactful, thoughtful fighting machine. But that is more, here and there. But that is their job—making fighting machines. You think of it as you drive about the city or drive and walk about the cantonment, watching the faces of these young fellows who last month were just young fellows but who now are cogs in the fighting machine? What of their minds and spirits? What are they thinking, behind the quiet, already bronzed faces under the wide beams of the campaign hats? What confusions are there, what stirring, restless desires, what complex personal problems, what desperate needs of mind or spirit?

These and other disturbing questions rose among my own thoughts as I watched those faces the other day. Then, in the cantonment, as I went from one to another of the low-spreading green "huts" of the Y. M. C. A. all my brooding questions were answered.

I want to tell you if I can, briefly of necessity but as forcibly as possible, how the Y. M. C. A. is doing today, in every training camp in England, France, Egypt—wherever our boys in olive-drab are being sent—a work so necessary, so vital, so comprehensive that it reaches straight back through every soldier boy to cheer the home he came from, to strengthen the faith of every watching sister, mother or father in the boy, in the army of which he is a unit, in the country for which he fights.

In this cantonment there are ten or eleven buildings, of which eight or nine are the so-called "huts."

A "hut" usually has a roomy entrance hall, with stove, desk and counter for the local secretary, for the dispensing of writing paper and envelopes, of postcards, stamps and other little necessities. There is a big stove or two. There is a telephone room with perhaps a dozen instruments divided off by boards to give at least a little privacy. There are long shelves of books—good but never goody books—and magazines. There is always a talking machine with plenty of records. There are chairs and benches.

It is all as simple as possible, for the expense of all this construction and maintenance in America and Europe is immense. But it is as comfortable and cheery as a strong corps of trained experts in comfort and cheer have been able to make it. On the wall behind the counter, just where your eye will rest on it when you come up for letter paper and envelopes, there is likely to be a lettered placard reading: "Have You written home?" with the "You" in red ink.

Push through the swinging doors and you find yourself in the auditorium, where perhaps six or eight hundred can crowd in, sitting on the wood benches, standing at the back around the stove or on the endless bench and plank writing table (with inkwells) that line the walls.

We will consider the uses of these auditoriums in moment. First please let me tell briefly what these "huts" broadly mean. Here is the soldier's club. Here he can come in any free moment between reveille and taps and find a welcome. Here he always finds a reminder of home and of his home obligations. His own home really touches him every day through the nearest Y. M. C. A. "hut."

If a telegram comes to him and he seems to be lost in the vast army machine, the Y. M. C. A., through these nerve centers (and it has nerve fibers in the persons of residents in each barracks) will find him. If a long-distance telephone call comes from some anxious one to our soldier boy, the Y. M. C. A. will bring him into its own convenient telephone room where he can hear the home voice. Though the Y. M. C. A. is essentially a religious organization, here he can smoke to his heart's content, play checkers or other games, find a good novel. He can study simple conversational French. He can box, or, in some huts, play billiards. Spiritual counsel is always ready at his elbow, yet, so far as I can gather, not a boy in the forty thousand feels nagged, if he did he wouldn't come. And come he certainly does!

I went about, during the evening, from hut to hut—five or six in all. I had come without warning, to see the machinery of the organization at its usual daily work. It was in no sense a special occasion—a Friday as it happened. But in those five or six huts and in the larger main auditorium, where a "Kilties" band was giving a formal concert, I estimated as carefully as I could that between five and seven thousand men were accounted for, busy, comfortable and in good spirits.

In the first hut, an observer fresh from the trenches in France—an easy, crisp, very affectionate speaker, who knew or sensed his audience and held them—was giving a sort of lecture. The place was literally jammed. Men everywhere standing or sitting on those long wall writing tables. In the next hut there were motion pictures. And a crowd. In another the more talented "stunt" men of a certain company were entertaining the rest of the regiment. They produced while I was there, an excellent, well-trained baritone singer, an adequate accompanist, and an orchestra of eight or ten pieces with a conscientious conductor. In another hut, Vernon Stiles, one of the commissioned song-leaders, was teaching the crowded hall to sing "Over There," with a chart of the words above the platform. And they all sang. For ours is to be a singing army.

And then—there are many moving little histories of the sort—the Y. M. C. A. men are trained to leave, in a moment, the ninety and nine in the fold and go out after the one that is lost. For among the forty thousand, lurking, hidden here and there, are tragedies.

One war bride tried to kill herself at home. The young husband, desperate, planned to desert. It was a Y. M. C. A. man who arranged for his leave, dropped all other work and rode home with him, four hours, in an express car, and stood by until the hysterical crisis had passed.

One soldier found himself about to become unhappily a father. The father of the girl he had injured threatened to kill him. It was a Y. M. C. A. man who went home with that boy and drew the parties together at a wedding which appears to have turned an apparently certain tragedy into at least partial happiness.

These are grim facts. I mention them after deliberate thought. For they illustrate that the work of the Y. M. C. A. is real and vital. It takes hold of the soldier where the army control must, in certain ways and to a considerable extent leave off. It reaches

Work of Indiana Fuel Administrator Relieves General Situation.

Indianapolis, Nov. 15.—All coal needed to meet the demands of the state for the present week, as indicated in estimates made on Monday by the county fuel administrators, has been ordered to the various counties according to information given out today at the office of the state fuel administrator, Evans Woolen. A total of 494 cars was ordered to 47 counties. This indicates either that the coal situation is much better or that people and jobbers are not taking advantage of their mild weather to lay in a supply.

Alex. R. Holliday, assistant fuel administrator, has called attention to delay in some communities in unloading cars. Mr. Woolen and others have repeatedly impressed on those having charge of coal shipments that it is necessary the cars be unloaded as quickly as possible.

The executive committee for the Indiana administration met with Mr. Woolen yesterday and the attention of coal jobbers was called for a second time to what apparently will be their function in aiding the shortage of coal. At the conference it was brought out that coal jobbers can be of service in bringing eastern coal to this state and they will be advised to exercise that function.

With a total of $10,805 in new subscriptions reported today by the teams in the drive to bring up Allen county's quota of $45,000 on the war work fund of the Y. M. C. A., the total reached $21,898.

Final reports will be made tomorrow noon, and it is fully expected that the quota will not only be reached, but be safely passed.

Bishop Commends Movement.

Rt. Rev. Herman J. Aldering, bishop of the diocese of Fort Wayne, has not only made a personal contribution to the cause, as he did to similar work under direction of the Knights of Columbus, but has given his cordial approval of the big undertaking of the Y. M. C. A.

Eighty teams are at work today in the outside districts of the county, from whom no report has yet been received. Special campaigns are in progress at the B-wyer works, the Pennsylvania shops and other institutions about the city which are yet to be heard from. More than this, the city teams were released from the card system at noon today and started the final round-up by soliciting everybody within reach.

Enthusiasm is Marked.

Enthusiasm was at high tide when the teams gathered at noon today at the Elks club for the luncheon and the reports of the canvass. During the dinner, in response to many requests, Mrs. W. W. Fowler sang "Over There" in her admirable fashion, and the group of men joined her heartily in the chorus.

As was the case yesterday, there was lively rivalry among the teams for leadership in the amount of subscriptions secured, and Mrs. Fowler's victory, thereby winning the $2,000 B-wyer subscription, which was promptly added to the club's total, bringing it to $10,035.

Reports of the Teams.

Bishop Aldering Commends It.

Rt. Rev. Herman J. Aldering, bishop of Fort Wayne, not only has subscribed to the Y. M. C. A. fund in a sum equal to his gift to the Knights of Columbus for war work, but has assured the managers of the Y. M. C. A. campaign that he is fully convinced of the great value of the war work of the association. The bishop recognizes in the Y. M. C. A. a world-wide perfected organization which he hopes will be supported to the fullest extent.

"You may quote me as being heartily in sympathy with the great work which the Y. M. C. A. is doing in these perilous times," said the bishop.

The Boys Are Working.

The Fort Wayne high school boys' committee are just getting under their campaign in earnest. They had a meeting this morning, addressed by George Carhart, representing the state headquarters war work committee. One boy had ten cards which he produced. The boys plan to make a twenty-four whirlwind finish, and expect to reach the 200 mark. The local slogan is "Earn and Give." The national slogan is "One Hundred Thousand Boys, One Million Dollars," each boy earning and contributing $10 between now and the 15th of April, 1918. Principal L. C. Ward and the men of the high school faculty are forming an advisory committee, and backing up the boys in their efforts, and will keep them in suggestions for getting employment. Firms and individuals having work of various kinds which boys can perform are asked to get in touch with Mr. Ward and his committee, as the boys are not to ask their fathers to "fork over" $10, but to earn it themselves, according to the terms of the boys' campaign—a challenge to the heroic that finds an enthusiastic response with boys.

Good for Adams.

Word received from Decatur this morning is to the effect that Adams county, with very incomplete returns, has gone over its quota of $5,000 by $152. Several townships had not yet reported, and it is believed the total will exceed $6,000.

Up to this morning, Huntington county had registered $2,142 of its $12,000, with every prospect of success. State headquarters report that one-third of Indiana's quota of $1,000,000 has been reported. A number of cities throughout the state have reported the proportion of their quotas subscribed as follows, up to last evening: Indianapolis, 51 per cent; Anderson, 55; Crawfordsville, 66; Gary, 55; Vincennes, 80; Marion, 30.

More Money Needed.

A telegram received by the Fort Wayne Y. M. C. A. campaign committee from Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary in charge of the war-work of the association, contains these significant words: "In the light of the startling developments on the eastern and southern fronts and in the light of significant cablegrams just received from the prime minister of France, it is clear that we shall need much more than $35,000,000, and this is in the national interest as well as to save the allies. These recent developments have convinced our best advisers that the war will continue longer than most of them anticipated when our goal was fixed. All think it would be most desirable if we could now raise a sum sufficient to make another canvass unnecessary prior to October."

TO RECEIVE BIDS ON FOUR NEW SIDEWALKS

Board of Works Will Act on Assessment Roll at Regular Session.

The board of works will hold its regular meeting Thursday evening at which time bids for four new sidewalks will be received. The first on the south side of High street, from Francis to Hanna; the second on the east side of Arlington to Rudisill, the third on the south side of Pierce, from South Wayne to the first alley east and the fourth on the east side of St. Mary's, from Burgess to High, and on the west side of St. Mary's from High to Third.

The assessment roll for the sewer to the alley south of High street, from Barthold to Shannon street, has been completed and will be acted upon. The total assessment will be about $845.25.

Now 200 Cases.

Two hundred cases of smallpox are in Fort Wayne at the present time. Although the most cases are those of children, a considerable number of grown people are also afflicted. Owing to the prompt action of employers of the spread of the disease has been hampered to a great degree. All downtown stores have been requested to have their employees vaccinated, and any cases found at those places will not be through lack of precaution.

The following cases were reported up to Thursday afternoon: Rev. Doege, 1636 St. Mary's avenue; G. Harlan, 2003 California avenue; H. Ulmer, 1616 Oakland street.

The Birth Record.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Schultz, 1705 Lafayette street, a daughter.

BAVARIANS GET SORE AT SABBATH TRANSFER

Copenhagen, Wednesday, Nov. 14.—The Bavarian government in order to effect better utilization of water power and electricity and to save coal, has decided to transfer the Sunday holiday to another day in the week. This has stirred up a hornet's nest. The Catholic clergy have protested most energetically and are supported by the Protestants. Catholic labor unions have held a big meeting of protest. Only the socialist unions acquiesce.

GERMANS FELICITATE BOLSHIEVSKI BUNCH

Stockholm, Nov. 15.—The German minority socialist executive committee has sent the local newspaper of the Russian Bolshieviski a telegram congratulating the Bolshieviski on their "seizure of political power." His work will be confined exclusively to the treatment and prevention of tuberculosis in the various cantonments of the country. He is now taking a special training for that purpose at Fort Benjamin Harrison.

NO CASE AGAINST WEBER.

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 15.—Instructions to the jury to return a verdict in favor of Horace Weber, former surveyor of Delaware county, charged with having presented false claims against the county, were given today by the court at the close of the state's evidence. The court held the state had failed to prove the material allegations in the indictment against Weber.

PLEA THAT VENICE'S ART MAY BE SPARED

Geneva, Nov. 15.—The emperor and empress of Austria-Hungary are appealed to by the Journal de Geneva to save Italian art treasure in a petition which it is circulating among art lovers in Switzerland for signatures before forwarding to Vienna. The appeal describes the treasures as the common patrimony of civilized humanity. Damage to them, it says, would cause profound sadness to the whole world and bring unanimous reprobation.

MADE HIM WASH AND DO MUCH OF COOKING

George A. Bugert Can Stand It No Longer and Sues for Divorce.

Because his wife made him do his own cooking and do his own washing, George A. Bugert, 825 Home avenue, filed suit Thursday in the superior court asking for a divorce from Hanna Marie Bugert. He is represented by Attorney Harry Hilgenbaum.

Bugert also alleges that his wife told him to go to lower regions, has falsely accused him of infidelity, often has told him she did not love him and finally deserted him. Mr. and Mrs. Bugert were married June 17, 1914, and separated Nov. 13, 1917.

FAULT-FINDER.

Mildred J. Miller Brings Action for Divorce From Frank.

Charging her husband with constantly finding fault, Mildred J. Miller filed suit Thursday through her attorney, Edward W. Meyers, for a divorce from Frank E. Miller. Mr. and Mrs. Miller were married September 4, 1912, and separated November 15, 1917.

Mrs. Miller alleges that her husband possesses a disagreeable and quarrelsome disposition and calls her vile and profane names—names which impute lewdness and unchastity to the plaintiff and reflect upon her character. He also has hit her, she charges. In addition to a divorce she is asking for alimony in the sum of $500.

SUES FOR $300.

Dr. E. H. Underwood Says Auto Was Damaged to That Extent.

Suit for $300 damages was filed Thursday by Dr. Edwin H. Underwood against Oliver P. Parker for damage done to his automobile at the corner of St. Mary's avenue and High street, on September 14, 1917, when an auto truck belonging to the defendant ran into him. He alleges that the truck was running at a speed of twenty miles an hour and was on the wrong side of the street.

Divorces Granted.

Divorces were granted Wednesday by Judge Carl Yapple in superior court to Dorothy B. Sanders from Charles L. Sanders and to Emma J. Gaunt from Charles J. Gaunt on a cross-complaint. Sanders was ordered to pay his wife's attorneys' fees, and Mrs. Gaunt's maiden name of Shirk was restored.

Divorce Case Dismissed.

The divorce suit filed by Alice Thurman against Charles A. Thurman was dismissed Wednesday when Mr. and Mrs. Thurman decided they couldn't get along without each other and are now living together as happy as newlyweds.

Married One Year.

It was not until late Wednesday that The Sentinel court house man was told that Frank Koch, popular deputy county clerk, was celebrating his first wedding anniversary. It was too late to give the matter as much attention in this column Wednesday as such a momentous matter deserves. One year ago Frank took himself a charming wife for better or worse. It has been better ever since, and if the remaining years of their married life are as happy as the first twelve months have been the future will be a path of roses, with happiness and contentment reigning supreme in the lives of both.

Application Dismissed.

The application of John T. Brown for admittance to the Allen county bar has been dismissed with no action having been taken, as "more than reasonable time" had been allowed since the date of filing the application.

CONFERENCE COMES TO END

Many Subjects Discussed by Lutheran Ministers at New Haven.

REV. LANKENAU READS PAPER

Next Meeting Will be Held Second Week in November, 1918.

New Haven, Ind., Nov. 15.—A paper on "Justification by Faith" was read by Rev. F. J. Lankenau, of Napoleon, O. The conference requested that this paper be published in the Theological Quarterly of the synod. Rev. H. Hicken, of Kouts, Ind., read an essay on the subject, "The Supervision of the Parochial School on the Part of the Pastor." The essayist clearly defined the relative spheres of pastor and teacher and showed the great necessity of hearty co-operation by the two in order that the school may be the greatest possible power for good in the home, society, country and church. The incalculable importance of the Christian day school for the religious and moral training of the child was brought out in that discussion, and again and again the speakers insisted upon everything being done to increase the efficiency of this means of educating intelligent church members and conscientious citizens. A number of speakers emphasized the need of expert professional school supervision.

Rev. M. Kretzmann, of Kendallville, proposed that the conference petition the Central district that it request the various pastoral conferences to place the discussion of missions on their regular program. Rev. P. Skoepelwerth proposed that the synod be requested to appoint an auxiliary board on missions for each conference. His proposal met with the approval of the conference. Rev. P. Miller, of Fort Wayne, presented the claims of the indigent students' fund. The committee appointed by the chair to work out the details of the plan to increase the receipts of the synodical treasury submitted its report. New subjects for treatment were assigned to Rev. L. Dornseif, of Decatur, and Rev. O. Sauer, of Michigan City.

A motion was carried that the conference convene at the usual time, the second week of November, 1918. After the committee on excuses had presented its report, and the conference had expressed its hearty thanks to the congregation of New Haven for its hospitality, the conference adjourned.

DAN SHAY TRIAL IS MAKING SLOW HEADWAY

Little New Light Shed on Baseball Manager's Killing of Negro.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 15.—Miss Elizabeth Braskett, cashier in the hotel cafe in which Dan Shay, formerly manager of the Kansas City, and Milwaukee American association baseball teams shot and killed a negro waiter last May, continued her testimony today at Shay's trial. She said she did not assert that the waiter did not attack Shay until after Shay had shot him.

The defense cross examined the cashier at length. Dr. Wm. Barnes, of Evansville, Ind., testified that he was in the cafe at the time of the shooting, but had noticed no trouble until he heard the shot from Shay's revolver. He said the waiter then attacked Shay, took the revolver from him and knocked him down. The trial is not moving as rapidly as was expected, and as about thirty witnesses are to be examined, the case probably will not go to the jury before next week.

WOULD BAR FOREIGN FIRE RISK CONCERNS

American Defense Society Opposes Licensing Certificate of Them.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Arguments for and against licensing eleven German, Austrian or Bulgarian insurance companies operating in the United States were presented today to Secretary McAdoo. Richard M. Hurd, of New York, representing the American Defense society, opposed the licensing on the ground that insurance agents could obtain information to direct fires and explosions in industrial plants and that as the companies can obtain no money from parent organization in enemy or ally-of-enemy countries to meet extraordinary losses, their business was not sound. E. Rushmore, a New York lawyer, argued that although the companies were financed by enemy capital, their business in this country was conducted as if by independent American concerns, and was directed by loyal and patriotic Americans. Mr. Hurd opposing the licensing, set forth that the companies under question had assets of $27,700,000 and risks of $2,533,000,000.

FEDERATION ACCLAIMED

Labor Body Praised and Congratulated for Patriotic Attitude.

Steps to Prevent Strikes in Shipyards and Munitions Plants Win.

Buffalo, Nov. 15.—Telegrams from all parts of the country congratulating President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor and the officers of the building trades department for the steps they have taken to eliminate strikes on shipbuilding and munitions plants have been received and several of them were read by Secretary Frank Morrison at the opening of today's session of the Thirty-seventh annual convention.

Printed copies of about 200 resolutions introduced during the last three days were on the delegates' desks and the indications were that debate would get under way today. A score of the resolutions, introduced by the radicals, intended to develop their strength at this convention, but thus far there has been little indication as to their numbers or plans.

Addresses by fraternal delegates from Canada and Great Britain were made a special order of business after the reading of the minutes.

MUST LEND TO THE RAILWAYS

President Rea, of Pennsylvania, Declares That Time Has Come.

Puts His Reason on General Ground "Because of the War."

Washington, Nov. 15.—The time for considering the question of the government lending money to the railroads has arrived, Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania, told the interstate commerce commission today during cross-examination on the proposed 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

Questioned as to whether it was because the government required extensive transportation facilities now and because equipment was being shipped abroad, Mr. Rea confined his answer to the statement, "because of the war." Whatever action might be taken, he stated, however, should not affect the request for higher freight rates.

Railroad officials whom representatives of shippers desired to cross-examine appeared at today's hearing.

Besides Mr. Rea, Howard Elliott, of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, testified. John Muir, president of the Railway Investors' League, gave a statement favoring higher rates for what he termed the standpoint of small investors in railway securities.

MAGNATES TO VISIT PEORIA

National Association of Baseball Leagues Picks That City for 1918.

LOUISVILLE MEET

COMPLETING WORK

Harry Stahlhefer of the Central on Committee of Important Work.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 15.—With the selection of Peoria, Ill., for the 1918 convention of the National Association of Baseball leagues closed its annual convention here today. The meeting will be held next November.

John H. Farrell, secretary of the national association; President M. H. Sexton and Harry Stahlhefer, of Evansville, Ind., president of the Central league, were appointed to meet with the national committee in the interest of international league affairs. They will endeavor to arrange early payment of funds for drafted players. Some of the major league clubs, it was contended, have declined to reimburse the minor league clubs until satisfied that the drafted players will not be called for military service.

The minor league representatives also will seek to establish the status of players under contract to leagues which suspended last season. Several clubs have been seriously crippled through the loss of star players who were signed in other leagues. They want these players returned or settlement made for their loss.

Players in the class AA and A leagues hereafter may be released without the customary five-day notice. The convention passed a resolution presented by President Baum of the Pacific Coast league calling for the elimination of the five-day clause from the players' contracts.

The convention also passed a resolution prohibiting players in every league from participating in any game outside of the regular schedule without the consent of the club owner. The action was directed at players in several eastern leagues who, under assumed names, played on semi-professional and other teams of objectionable character to organized baseball.

President Sexton was elected to membership of the national board of arbitration to succeed M. E. Justice, former president of the Central association, who no longer is identified with the game.

GIFFORD PINCHOT IS ONCE MORE RESIGNED

Quits His Place as Member of Food Administration for Usual Reason.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Resignations of Gifford Pinchot and E. C. Lassater, a Texas cattle grower, have been accepted as members of the food administration organization. They have been serving as voluntary aids to Food Administrator Herbert C. Hoover. Mr. Pinchot and Mr. Lassater resigned, it was said at the food administration today, because they differed with administration officials as to how the meat situation should be handled. Both contended that the packing industry be taken over and operated by the government and that the cotton seed crop be taken so that cotton seed meal cake could be sold to cattle growers at low prices.

NO CASE AGAINST WEBER.

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 15.—Instructions to the jury to return a verdict in favor of Horace Weber, former surveyor of Delaware county, charged with having presented false claims against the county, were given today by the court at the close of the state's evidence. The court held the state had failed to prove the material allegations in the indictment against Weber.

PLEA THAT VENICE'S ART MAY BE SPARED

Geneva, Nov. 15.—The emperor and empress of Austria-Hungary are appealed to by the Journal de Geneva to save Italian art treasure in a petition which it is circulating among art lovers in Switzerland for signatures before forwarding to Vienna. The appeal describes the treasures as the common patrimony of civilized humanity. Damage to them, it says, would cause profound sadness to the whole world and bring unanimous reprobation.

MADE HIM WASH AND DO MUCH OF COOKING

George A. Bugert Can Stand It No Longer and Sues for Divorce.

Because his wife made him do his own cooking and do his own washing, George A. Bugert, 825 Home avenue, filed suit Thursday in the superior court asking for a divorce from Hanna Marie Bugert. He is represented by Attorney Harry Hilgenbaum.

Bugert also alleges that his wife told him to go to lower regions, has falsely accused him of infidelity, often has told him she did not love him and finally deserted him. Mr. and Mrs. Bugert were married June 17, 1914, and separated Nov. 13, 1917.

FAULT-FINDER.

Mildred J. Miller Brings Action for Divorce From Frank.

Charging her husband with constantly finding fault, Mildred J. Miller filed suit Thursday through her attorney, Edward W. Meyers, for a divorce from Frank E. Miller. Mr. and Mrs. Miller were married September 4, 1912, and separated November 15, 1917.

Mrs. Miller alleges that her husband possesses a disagreeable and quarrelsome disposition and calls her vile and profane names—names which impute lewdness and unchastity to the plaintiff and reflect upon her character. He also has hit her, she charges. In addition to a divorce she is asking for alimony in the sum of $500.

SUES FOR $300.

Dr. E. H. Underwood Says Auto Was Damaged to That Extent.

Suit for $300 damages was filed Thursday by Dr. Edwin H. Underwood against Oliver P. Parker for damage done to his automobile at the corner of St. Mary's avenue and High street, on September 14, 1917, when an auto truck belonging to the defendant ran into him. He alleges that the truck was running at a speed of twenty miles an hour and was on the wrong side of the street.

Second Divorce Case.

Henrietta Coby has filed suit for divorce against Herschel Coby for the second time within a month. She says that this time she is determined to see the case "through," notwithstanding the pleadings of husband, who had her withdraw the first complaint, he paying the costs.

Divorces Granted.

Divorces were granted Wednesday by Judge Carl Yapple in superior court to Dorothy B. Sanders from Charles L. Sanders and to Emma J. Gaunt from Charles J. Gaunt on a cross-complaint. Sanders was ordered to pay his wife's attorneys' fees, and Mrs. Gaunt's maiden name of Shirk was restored.

GOOD SPORTS AT GREAT LAKES NAVAL STATION

Will Be Very Conducive to Physical Perfection of Youngsters.

Great Lakes, Ill., Nov. 15.—Health and muscle building sports of all sorts promise to make the winter at the Great Lakes naval training station a period of recreation, which will be conducive to the physical perfection and fitness of approximately 17,000 youngsters averaging 19 years, who are being trained to fight sea battles.

In the athletic office some of the country's sportsmen are mapping plans that will provide for competition in indoor track, basketball, indoor baseball, swimming, boxing and wrestling. According to the plans of Dr. J. B. Kaufman, who is in charge of athletics, every jackie will be extended the use of the gymnasium and other health developing channels. In fact it is probable that athletics will be compulsory in the daily routine of the enlisted man.

Back in the days when the enlisted personnel of the station was being increased daily by hundreds from all over the middle west, Capt. W. A. Moffett, consistent with his policy to place every man where he would be of the most benefit, detailed every prominent athlete who enlisted to the athletic office. The wisdom of this policy was shown in the summer months in boxing, wrestling, track and football.

The last week in November will see the final match in the station football league, after a series of competitions which commenced Oct. 15. The organization brought into play eight teams which represented various regiments on the station. It is estimated that 5,000 boys profited physically as a result of their football training which can be traced directly to the interest in the game worked up through the station league and the camp's representative eleven.

Basketball activities promise to bring more boys into the gymnasium than any two of the other sports combined. Speculation as to the strength of the "best" team of the station, which probably will be composed of the star college players, already is being indulged in by the boys but the station basketball league seems to attract more gossip than the representative five, which will be confined to a squad of ten or fifteen men.

It was estimated by a prominent collegian in the athletic office some time ago that the station houses 5,000 men who have played basketball. From this one could conclude that there will be all of 100 quintets in uniform. It is probable, however, that the station league will be limited to twenty-five teams, or a representative aggregation for every branch of the naval service.

Boxing, which was introduced to Great Lakes just before the war, by Gunner Jack Kennedy, continues to thrive. During the summer months were held weekly in "the ravine," the station's natural amphitheater, but at the first call for steam heat the drill hall was adopted as the scene of glove matches. Some commanding officers have suggested boxing to their boys, others have requested it, but none has made it compulsory.

Boxers who fought professionally in civil life are instructing the jackies in the fine points of the mitt game. Among them are Maurice Flynn, Morris Bloom, Billy Walters, Cal Delaney and Eddie Nearing.

Ben Reuben, claimant of the middleweight wrestling championship of the world, has done his share to popularize the mat pastime. He has held classes, assisted by proficient enlisted Chicago grapplers, and as a result more than 500 men will know how to conquer a German should hand to hand fighting ever occur in their sea careers. Wrestling shows also are put on weekly and bring an average of twenty-five new faces a week to the mat, and a consistent attendance of 5,000 enthusiasts. Reuben's co-workers are Jack Gruppel, Sam Varron and Herb Singer. They hold forth in the various camps and are free at all times for consultation with the bluejackets.

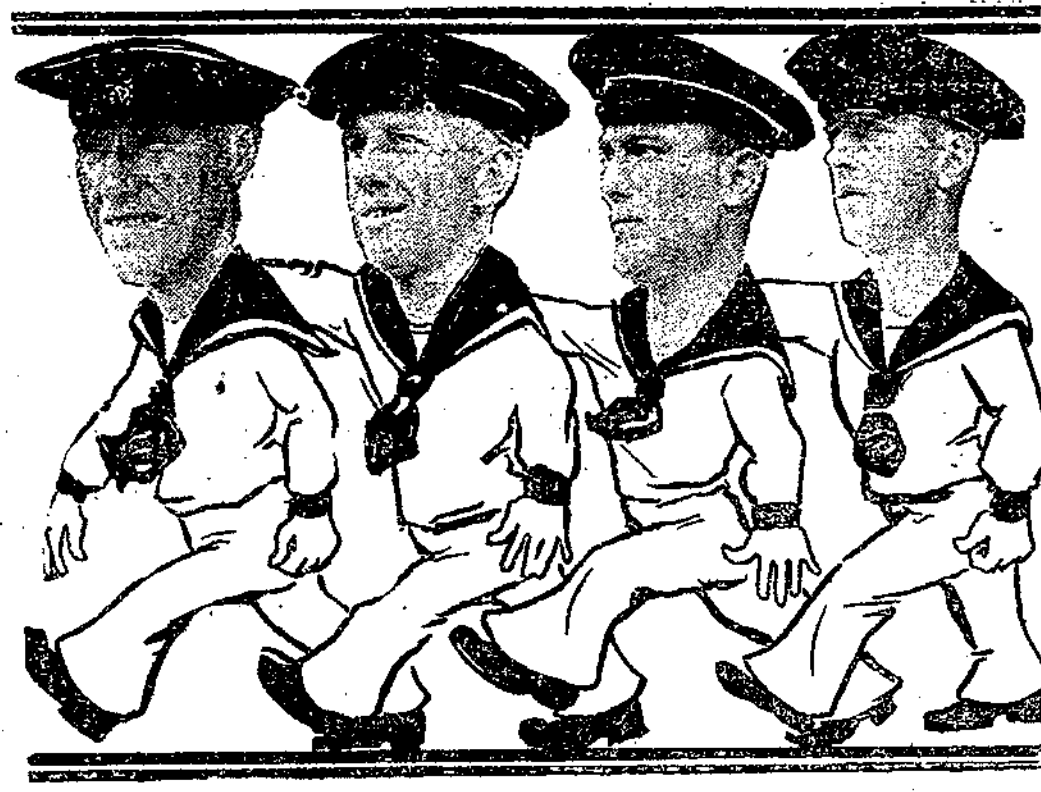

Andy Ward, national A. A. U. 100 and 220 yard dash champion; Eddie Fall, western conference two mile record holder, and Frank Hill, former distance star, all chief yeomen, have charge of the indoor track work. Weekly track meets probably will be held, with interregiment competition as monthly features.

Bowling, billiards, indoor baseball and skating also will play big parts this winter in making the sailors capable and efficient members of Uncle Sam's fighting forces.

BASKET BALL CHALLENGE.

The Spencerville basket ball team has organized a strong quintet for the season and is now booking games with all fast clubs. Write at once to Manager Fred High, Spencerville, Ind., for further particulars.

(By Paul Purman.)
It's only a year ago that we were all re-creating a certain world series and telling about the exploits of the Boston Red Sox, the best team of "money players" ever gathered together.

There are five members of this club who very probably won't be seen cavorting over American league diamonds this year for the simple reason they have given their services to Uncle Sam.

Down at Boston navy yard after May 15 Jack Barry, manager of the Red Sox, and the biggest world series money winner in baseball, is a yeoman and with him are three of his teammates, Chick Shorten, utility infielder, and Ernie Shore, the string bean right-handed pitcher.

Southerners Are No Match for Fort Wayne Boys at Camp Shelby.

Herb Miller, one of Fort Wayne's star bowlers, now a member of Company A, 113th regular engineers, Camp Shelby, Hattiesburg, Miss., has written an interesting letter telling of a three-game match between Fort Wayne soldiers at the latter camp and some of Hattiesburg's star pin sharks. The soldier boys won by a margin of 274 pins. Score:

WILL FIGHT EMMETT.

Tommy Atkins, a local battler, will meet "Emmett" for a ten-round bout in Indianapolis on November 20 at 120 pounds. The latter is a bantamweight. Some time ago Atkins lost his decision to Emmett at the capital city and is anxious to redeem himself. Joe Walters, of Columbus, Ind., who will be remembered here as having defeated Nip Howell before one of the local clubs, will appear on the same card with Atkins, whom he was instrumental in getting on there.

STILL HOLDS CUP. Eddie Kraft is still in possession of the St. Paul bowling trophy, notwithstanding the strenuous efforts of the challengers to take it from him. Kraft met E. W. Koenig the other evening, but Koenig's poor start resulted in his defeat. Walter Franke is Kraft's next opponent.

FRIARS MEET COLUMBUS PANHANDLES SUNDAY

Somebody Starts False Report That There Will Be No Game.

In some unaccountable way the report has been pretty generally circulated that the Friars will not play in Fort Wayne next Sunday. How such an erroneous rumor ever was started and why the Friar management is at a loss to explain.

However, there will be a game here Sunday and one of the best games of the season. The Columbus Panhandles, who play here Sunday, are old-timers at the game and have a reputation of being one of the strongest as well as dangerous independent aggregations in the middle west.

The famous Nesser brothers are still with them. There are five of them, and each of them are stars. As a matter of fact they have been playing together for so many years that there isn't much more about the game for them to learn. Besides, their team work is perfect.

But the Nesser brothers are not the whole team. There are other stars equally as brilliant and clever. By reason of the fact that the Columbus Panhandles have a light backfield as open style of play is expected. Forward passes are their specialty, and while dangerous, this style of playing is always pleasing to the fans.

Although having a light backfield, the Panhandles' line is exceptionally heavy, much heavier than the Friars, it is said. While the Friars confidently expect to win Sunday, they will have no walkaway by any means.

HAMMOND CLABBYS TO PLAY WABASH SUNDAY

Wabash, Ind., Nov. 15.—According to information received here, 500 rooters will accompany the Hammond Clabby team here next Sunday when they will meet the W. A. A. team in what promises to be the hardest fought battle of the season with the locals.

Two weeks ago the Hammond eleven defeated the W. A. A. at Hammond. Since then the locals have strengthened their team.

SPORT RAVINGS

The latest report is that the Friars will play Wabash on November 25. Such a game would no doubt prove very interesting to Fort Wayne football fans as the Wabash county team has been playing of the Friars for a number of years.

The Columbus Panhandles, next Sunday's Friar opponents have given the local team two hard battles on their last two trips to League park. Both games resulted in a 3 to 0 victory for the locals. Next Sunday's game promises to be another hard battle.

One of the big factors in last Sunday's victory over Racine was the playing of Elward at end. His touchdown after capturing a long pass gave the Friars the needed confidence and spurred the Racine warriors. Elward, who is a college coach, had not intended to play in the game but dropped into Fort Wayne Sunday morning on his return from a scouting trip. He was sitting on the bench without a uniform when the game opened, having refused to play. Seeing that the Friars were in for a hard game he rushed to the club house and put on a uniform and came back and went into the game. On the first play he captured the pass that clinched the game.

It is reported that Glickson, Racine's star linebacker and punter, would like to play with the Friars. He may be given a chance as his punting would be a valuable asset to the Friar machine.

Indiana fans will get a good line of comparison between the strength of Indiana and Purdue as the result of next Saturday's games. Purdue will play Wabash, whom Indiana defeated earlier in the season by a 45 to 0 score, while Indiana will play Depauw, who held Purdue to a 7 to 6 score. Indiana will be the favorite in the annual state struggle.

...months powerful guard, despite physical handicap, is a tough proposition for any opponent.

Ohio and Illinois will play a game Saturday that will no doubt decide the championship of the conference. Ohio will go into the game the favorites although Illinois may pull the unexpected and win.

Chicago and Michigan are other conference teams who have not been beaten this year. Chicago will get a big test Saturday when she lines up against Minnesota. Although the Gophers were beaten by Wisconsin, with two weeks rest they may be expected to wage a bitter comeback and will make things exceedingly interesting for the maroons.

There has been no new claimant for the state football title lately. The claims of the Hammond manager have not doubt been stifled for he has made no serious attempt to sign up with the Friars. Several little advances have been made by the Hammond manager but they have all been of no importance because of the unreasonableness of his propositions.

BOXING TO CONTINUE.

St. Louis, Nov. 15.—Boxing will be given a chance to thrive in St. Louis despite the bench without a uniform when the game opened, having refused to play. Seeing that the Friars were in for a hard game he rushed to the club house and put on a uniform and came back and went into the game. On the first play he captured the pass that clinched the game.

It is reported that Glickson, Racine's star linebacker and punter, would like to play with the Friars. He may be given a chance as his punting would be a valuable asset to the Friar machine.

INDIANA WILL PLAY AT HATTIESBURG

Post Season Game Will Be Played for Benefit of Indiana Soldiers.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 15.—At a meeting of the university athletic board last night it was voted to send the varsity football team to Hattiesburg, Miss., Thanksgiving day to play a post-season game for the benefit of the 30,000 soldiers of Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia at Camp Shelby. Early in the week the board declined an invitation from a commercial organization at Hattiesburg to play the University of West Virginia for a commercial guarantee but since this action a letter was received from the army Y. M. C. A. secretary at Camp Shelby asking that the Indiana team play a soldiers' eleven. No admission will be charged the soldiers at the camp but expenses of the Indiana team will be cared for through assessments against the regiments.

ILLINOIS' PROSPECTS ARE NOT VERY BRIGHT

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 15.—Prospects for a victory over Ohio State did not appear bright to Coach Robert Zuppke and members of the University of Illinois football team as final preparations were made today for Saturday's contest at Columbus, The team will leave for Columbus tonight by way of Chicago. The greatest obstacle to a victory, according to Zuppke, is Harley, Ohio's star punter.

"Don't be fooled because Harley didn't make any long runs against Wisconsin," said Zuppke. "He is the most dangerous man in the country. If you are not on the job every minute he'll be gone."

SOCIAL TONIGHT.

An enjoyable evening is in store for all Wayne Knit bowlers who, with their wives and sweethearts, will congregate at the club house tonight for a social time. An excellent program of entertainment has been provided for the early hours, which will be topped off with a supper that will not serve to cement still closer the friendly feeling permeating like gatherings of the enormous Wayne Knit family.

TO AVOID GETTING LOST IN THE SKIES NAVIGATORS OF THE HEIGHTS NEED MAPS AS BADLY AS A SAILOR

How Airmen Map Uncharted Lanes and Find the Way by Watching a Roll-Map in Front—A Noted Air Authority Indicates How Geographers Will Help Make Flying Safe.

Special Dispatch from J. H. Duckworth of Our Washington Bureau.
New York, Nov. 15.—Finding one's way in an aeroplane is not the least of an aviator's troubles.
An aviator may be very familiar with the roads of a certain piece of territory and yet easily get lost while flying over it.
A birdseye view of a stretch of country looks very different from the view of the poor crawling human being below. Hills are flattened out, and if the airplane is up high enough it is difficult for the novice to distinguish between a forest and a potato patch.
Airmen need maps—as much as sailors need charts. The ocean navigator must be warned of rocks, shoals and dangerous currents. The aeroplane pilot must have a map that will show him all the possible landing places.
The most popular kind of aeronautical map is that showing the air routes between two given points, say between Washington and New York. Such a map, printed on a long strip of paper and rolled like the music on a piano-player, while based on the regular geographical and geodetic survey maps, has landmarks such as church towers, unusually tall buildings, gas tanks, lakes, reservoirs, and other stretches of water marked with particular clearness.
In the accompanying illustration, which the artist has prepared from an actual photograph taken from the air, the aviators are passing over Washington. They are flying east over the mall and approaching the Capitol. The map in front of the pilot shows plainly the Capitol building, the most distinctive landmark in Washington.
A map is being prepared of the airline of Great Circle route between New York and San Francisco, which would make it possible for any aviator to fly across the continent without losing his way. This map will not only show the narrow strip along its course, but will include lines leading from the main line to central landing places like Erie, Cleveland, Detroit, etc.
As soon as regular air lines are established to carry passengers and mail, and aircraft start from a given station at a given time daily, says Henry Woodhouse, in the Geographical Review of New York, it will be possible to insert on this type of map the appropriate time at which the aircraft must pass certain places so that the aviator will be able to navigate the air with even less trouble than the mariner navigates the sea.

CITES REGULATIONS AS TO REOPENING CASES

Letter is Received by Various Selection Boards from Eschbach.

The four selection boards in this city are in receipt of a letter from Jesse Eschbach, state conscription agent, containing a copy of a telegram from Provost Marshal-General Crowder, in which stringent regulations concerning the reopening of cases of drafted men are set out and a statement by Eschbach. The statement said:
"We are facing a crisis in the history of the world. We firmly believe the reopening of cases should no longer interfere with the mobilization and training of our army. The federal government has made provision for needy cases in the act of congress approved October 6, 1917. May we plead with you to give the above (telegram) very careful study and the federal authorities your active co-operation in the execution and enforcement of provisions of this important message?"
Work Impaired.
General Crowder's telegram talks how the reopening of cases of drafted men has seriously impaired the work of the government in organizing and training the new army. Now restrictions are thrown about the reopening of cases of men already in service, and the order says that "cases of men already inducted into military service heretofore reopened and now in process of rehearing shall be forthwith closed and the prior disposition of the case adhered to." The order continues:
"Any person already inducted into military service who claims that he has not had a full and fair hearing or has not had a full and fair opportunity to be heard by a local or district board as required by the selective service law and regulations, or who claims that the board has exceeded its jurisdiction or substantially violated the selective service law or regulations in passing on his claim, may apply to the commanding officer of his mobilization camp at any time within seven days after arrival at the mobilization camp to be discharged under the provision of Paragraph 133, army regulations."

Steps Necessary.
The order then goes on to explain the necessary steps to be taken by the commanding officer, the adjutant-general of states and local exemption boards with reference to such case.
The report also points out that the response to the recent intimation from the president that lawyers throughout the country assist the government in examining additional draft men has been so widespread that it is now suggested that the service of the lawyers be requisitioned to assist state conscription headquarters and local board of appeals to reopen cases, and thus "clear the decks" for the subsequent draft machinery.
I will not be responsible for any debts contracted by my wife, Marie.

COST OF WAR WILL BE LESS THAN EXPECTED

Secretary McAdoo Says Expenditures Run Far Below the Estimates.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 15.—In a speech before the Investment Bankers association here last night Secretary McAdoo disclosed that government expenditures are running far below estimates given congress, and predicted that the amount of money still to be raised for the fiscal year would not exceed ten billion dollars.
"Vague and unfounded apprehensions seem to exist in the public mind as to the extent of the financial requirements of the United States during the current fiscal year," the secretary said. "It may be helpful to the country to know that these requirements have been greatly exaggerated and that in the judgment of the secretary of the treasury there is no reason whatever for apprehension on this score. This opinion is based on the latest estimates of our financial needs."
"During the past few days the various departments of the government have submitted to me their estimates of expenditures during the current fiscal year. On the basis of these estimates, I am confident that allowing for a liberal balance in the general fund at the close of the fiscal year, not more than $10,000,000 remains to be raised by the issue of bonds, war savings certificates and treasury certificates of indebtedness."
"This is not regarded by the treasury department as a task which will in any way strain the capacity or resources of the United States. The splendid score of the second liberty loan shows that the people are fully determined to support the war and are prepared to make such sacrifices of luxuries, pleasures, comforts and conveniences as may be necessary."
"The estimates of the various departments include appropriations already made and proposed supplemental estimates to be submitted at the forthcoming session of congress. Though the estimated extraordinary expenditures (excluding advances to the allies) for the year average about a billion a month, the ordinary expenditures for the four months period ended October 31, have been only $1,296,000,000 or at the rate of $324,000,000 a month. For instance the expenditures for the war department for the four months period have been fifty per cent. less than was estimated by that department for that period. It may be confidently expected therefore that the actual expenditures for the balance of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, will not at the most exceed the estimates."

SECOND DAY'S SESSION LUTHERAN CONFERENCE

Laporte Minister Reads Paper on Organization and Work of Y. M. C. A.

New Haven, Ind., Nov. 15.—The Lutheran conference of northern Indiana began its second day's session yesterday morning with devotional exercises conducted by the chairman, Rev. J. Jungkuntz. After the appointment of a number of important committees, Rev. P. Beicksteadt, of Laporte, read a paper on the organization and work of the Y. M. C. A. The paper brought surprising data concerning the wonderful growth of the association, its diversified purposes and aims in times of peace and war, in our cities and encampments, at sea and on land, at home and abroad. The moral and social influence exerted by the Y. M. C. A. workers was shown to be very great, and increasing from day to day. The paper called forth a very brief and enlightening general discussion.
A letter from Rev. Fr. Wambagans, who is taking spiritual care of our boys at Camp Taylor, Louisville, Ky., was read to the conference. Chaplain Wambagans is doing very satisfactory and successful work at Camp Taylor. In his letter he speaks in very complimentary terms of the military authorities and the Y. M. C. A. officials of the camp. Rev. J. H. Jans, superintendent of the large Lutheran institution for the feeble-minded, Watertown, Wis., was given opportunity to present the claims of his institution to the conference. His words made a deep and, as we believe, a lasting impression upon the members and we doubt not, will bear fruit in the form of liberal donations to prosecute this work on an enlarged scale in the future. A paper by the Rev. Aug. Rump, of Tolland, Ind., bearing the title, "The Synod as an Advisory Body," was presented to the conference in the afternoon session. The essayist, among other things, called the attention of the conference to the great debt owed to the founder of the Lutheran Missouri Synod for founding a body which as one organization is a model of true democracy, in which no individual nor body of men is granted particular powers, but where all privileges and rights are vested in all the members as a royal priesthood. It was shown by the essayist that no church body in our country is so consistently democratic and popular in its practical working as is the Lutheran Missouri Synod with its membership of over a million souls and, therefore, how truly American the Lutheran church is in its principles of government.
During the war 437 aeroplanes have been received by the British government as gifts from different parts of the empire, and from British subjects in neutral or allied countries.

WILL GO TO FRANCE TO AID Y. M. C. A. WORK

First Man from Camp Taylor to Be Ordered Abroad is a Preacher.

Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., Nov. 15.—Iowa, which has no troops in training here for the national army, will send the first man, and he a civilian, too, from Camp Zachary Taylor to France. He is the Rev. James S. Corkey, religious work director of the Y. M. C. A. building No. 152 at the big cantonment on the edge of Louisville, where thirty odd thousand selected men from Indiana, Kentucky and southern Illinois are being trained for service overseas. His order came from the International War Work council at New York, which directed that he prepare to leave for Europe in the near future. The order was supplemented by the statement that all Y. M. C. A. workers at the cantonment will be sent eventually into the war zone. Beginning Dec. 1, Ave will be sent each month from the camp, indicating the cantonment will be a training post and a feeding station from which workers for foreign fields will be selected.

Dr. Corkey, the first to go, came to Camp Zachary Taylor two months ago from Winteret, Ia., where for ten years he had been the pastor of a Presbyterian church. He enlisted in the Y. M. C. A. army when war was declared and was assigned here. He comes from a family distinguished as preachers and authors. He is a graduate of the Magee college, Ireland, and the Union Theological seminary, New York city.

His father was Dr. Joseph Corkey, a noted minister of Londonderry, Ireland. There were eight sons and three daughters in the family. All the sons entered the ministry and the daughters became missionaries. Mr. Corkey has three brothers now in France. One is chaplain in the English army, who lost an arm while at the front, but has returned to duty. Two others are in the English Y. M. C. A. working in France.

Fort Harrison.

Back across the southern slope of the Alleghany mountains and through the Cumberland Gap comes the seven official message home from the Fort Wayne Red Cross hospital unit M who have been transferred into the medical department of the regular army.

The young men who enlisted in the Fort Wayne unit, and eight of whom lived in the city have been sent to Camp Green, at Charlotte, North Carolina, for winter training. They arrived at the southern camp on Wednesday evening, according to a message to The Sentinel.

Members of the former Fort Wayne unit were called into service just a week ago, and after most of the young men had been enlisted for several weeks. They reported at Fort Benjamin Harrison but as soon as they were fitted out in uniforms there came the order to move south.

The local medical service men are the first to be transferred to the North Carolina post from Fort Wayne, which is said to be the best equipped of the southern camps.

The Fort Wayne unit, men were thrown in with instruction Company K of the medical branch upon their arrival at the Indianapolis fort. Company K was made up of New York and Pennsylvania medical troops.

On the first evening the members from the local unit were taken out for drill under Lieutenant Bodala, former chief interne in the largest Philadelphia hospital. The unit M men were in citizen's clothes. They had known nothing about "squads right" before. Their odd number of seventeen added to the unguiliness of their general appearance. Yet their earnestness in taking up the new line of work made an impression on Major McCormack, in charge of the Indiana fort. He paused to compliment the raw recruits when he passed the drill grounds.

When instruction Company K was broken up and its members scattered to five different posts, it was by order of Major McCormack that the members of the Fort Wayne unit were sent with the best trained squad of the company to Camp Green.

The Indianapolis fort is now almost deserted. Less than 4,000 men occupy the many barracks quarters. Fort Wayne Drs. Hamilton and Gilpin, formerly members of the local unit, were sent from Fort Harrison last week. Word has been passed along that the Indiana camp will be populated by 45,000 negro soldiers after December 1.

In letters home, the Fort Wayne recruits into the medical department, write "there was no mistake about the order to report for intensive training. We find that intensive training is right."

The young men are being drilled in every form of sanitary and army medical duties. They write that they are busy from "reville" to "taps." Besides the military and gymnastic drills there are special classes of from two to four hours a day in physiology and hygiene. A big red text book is used. It all seems very much "scotlege," writes the young men.

"The seriousness of the task ahead is just beginning to awaken us to our position in the war activities," writes George Ryder, a member of the little group. "At first it all seemed like a dream. It was so sudden. As we tramped through the darkened camp streets on the first night we were always expecting the flare of Calhoun street glory, with its many electric signs to appear just around the corner. The golden glare did not materialize. We know now that we are in another realm, a kingdom brought with all of war's tragic possibilities, and every man of us is in to stick."

On Monday when the order was read that Unit M members would be moved south there was a rush for the telegraph office and the registering of half a dozen long distance telephone calls. As a result several Fort Wayne people visited the Indiana camp on Tuesday to say good-bye.

At 1 o'clock the young men were called to the office of Captain Edwards, each man was given a fountain pen. Then they were marched to the waiting Pullman coach where they were assigned to Pullman quarters. This treatment, added to the extra prompt manner in which the new recruits were fitted in uniforms, caused one Fort Wayne man to say: "They must have us slated for the suicide club."

The local recruiting station announced Thursday that they were especially in need of men for the ambulance company of the Indiana national guards, which will be mobilized and trained at Camp Shelby, Hattiesburg, Miss. Men are also needed for the Indiana company of infantry and artillery, also training at Camp Shelby.

Four more enlistments were received Thursday morning. Two went to the aviation section as gas engine mechanics, one as a machinist and the other to the remount section.

A. LESLIE JACOBS TO GIVE ORGAN RECITAL

Musical Service at Grace Reformed Church Sunday Afternoon.

Next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Grace Reformed church A. Leslie Jacobs will be heard in organ recital. The public is invited.

Mr. Jacobs is one of the younger musicians of the city, who already has attained a marked degree of excellence upon the organ. A pupil of Prof. Emil Koepf, organist of the First Presbyterian church, and of Prof. Palmer Christian, of Chicago, Mr. Jacobs has enjoyed unusual advantages in the preparation for his profession. Already Mr. Jacobs has a large musical following in and around Fort Wayne.

The program will embody a variety of styles of organ composition. Mr. Jacobs will play the well known Tocatta and Fugue in Dmi, by Black. The Modern school will be represented by Clair de Lune by Karg-Elert, while the distinctive lilies of Nevin's "Sketches of the City" well represent the character of that work.

The program follows:
I. Concert overture, Cmi., Holhuis
II. (a) Romance, Debussy
(b) Tocatta from Oedipus and Thebes, De Merenax Asst. Clarence Dickson.
(c) Clair de Lune, Karg-Elert

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire in this manner to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy and their beautiful floral offerings during the sickness and death of wife and mother: PETER URBINE AND FAMILY.

According to the Earth, a publication put out by the Santa Fe Railroad company, the state of New Mexico, known as the Sunshine state, holds 18.75 square miles of lands selected from the best in the public domain. This is an area larger than the combined states of Maryland, Connecticut and Delaware. During the first seven months of the current year the state land office sold a total of 332,657.06 acres for a total of $2,156,507, an average of $6.48 an acre. It is expected that the land sales of the state will go over $3,000,000 for the entire year.

SEARCH CAMP SHELBY FOR AGENTS OF ENEMY

Secret Service Men Examine Every Soldier at Hattiesburg.

Hattiesburg, Miss., Nov. 15.—A thorough and systematic search is going on at Camp Shelby for spies and persons suspected of pro-German sympathy. The investigation is not being made secretly. On the contrary as much publicity as possible is being given to it and any one is liable to be tapped on the shoulder by a man wearing the eagle and star of the American intelligence department. This man may be employed as a carpenter or he may be a civilian working about the camp. The investigation is due to the report of the presence of spies and the fact that numerous forest fires are occurring in the vicinity of Camp Shelby. These fires generally have started on a day when the wind was blowing directly toward the camp and sometimes fires were so close to the buildings that only the quick work of the soldiers prevented a fire that would have threatened the entire camp.

Louis L. Millar is Appointed First Lieutenant in Radio Department of Signal Corps.

Louis L. Millar, of 2713 Fairfield avenue, returned to Fort Wayne Wednesday night from officers' training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, having received a special commission of first lieutenant in the radio department of the signal corps, and was ordered to leave camp at once and report at Washington, D. C., within seven days for final disposition. He also received at the same time a commission of captain in the ordnance department, which he declined, to accept the former commission, as the commission he accepted is in the most desirable branch of the service.

Out of 220 applicants for this department, Millar was one of four that was accepted for commission, he being the only one to receive a first lieutenantcy, and the others second lieutenantcies.

Lieut. Millar and Second Lieut. Glenn Black, of Cleveland, were the only ones that received special commissions in the fifteenth company, which consisted of 120 men.

Lieutenant Ray P. Harrison Has Opportunity to Take Examination.

Columbia City, Ind., Nov. 15.—Ray P. Harrison, in a letter from the Pershing forces in France, written to his father, Joseph R. Harrison of this city, states he will probably soon take the examination for a captaincy. His company led the division in the purchase of liberty bonds, buying $30,000 worth. Lieutenant Harrison himself purchased $400 worth. Two Wash-bash college fraternity friends of Lieutenant Harrison recently arrived on French soil, in the United States service, according to Mr. Harrison's letter.

ONE HUNDRED DENTISTS AT DENTAL MEETING

The second semi-annual meeting of the Isaac Knapp Dental society proved to be one of the most successful meetings ever held. Practically the entire day was devoted to the study of denture making. Dr. L. T. Smith, of Indianapolis, presided at the meeting, and the clinic was highly praised for the proficiency he demonstrated in his subject. About one hundred dentists attended the meeting. Many were present from cities in other states.

HINDENBURG ORDER FAILS

gem of their defenses, but the assaulting troops were hurled back after a fruitless struggle, leaving the British line before Passchendaele intact.

Barrage Stops Assault.

The greater part of the enemy infantry was stopped by the tremendous British artillery barrage which ploughed through their ranks as they began the advance, but some of them, answering to that famous discipline ingrained by Prussian military rule, pushed through this rain of death and reached the British front line.

A sanguinary struggle followed at close quarters. The Germans battled doggedly, but the British soldiers flung themselves upon the enemy with such ferocity that he was compelled to give ground and finally retired, leaving many dead upon the barren crest.

The enemy attack was prefaced by a terrific bombardment. The German guns opened on the right at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. The British had been expecting the counter attack for several days. Captured German officers had freely admitted that the loss of Passchendaele was regarded as a most serious matter, and that every effort would be made to re-take it.

Given Terrific Shelling.

All day Passchendaele and the forward area were shelled continuously by the concentrated German artillery, while the British heavies and field guns replied with a violent bombardment of the enemy's lines and battery positions. No such artillery duel had occurred along the British front in many weeks. For hours it was maintained by both sides with a drum fire intensity that shook the country for miles about. Windows in houses fifty miles away rattled as if from a wintry blast, and in a town 75 miles by airplane from the scene of activities, the detonations could plainly be heard.

About 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, enemy infantry was seen advancing southward along the ridge on a front of about 700 yards toward the British positions. At the same time the Germans dropped a heavy barrage on Coesberg spur to the west, preventing infantry assistance coming to the British from that quarter.

Big Guns Give Answer.

The S. O. S. signal went up from the British lines and the great British artillery responded as though a lever had been thrown. All the British guns within range came into action with an inferno of noise that was appalling, and their myriad of shells began breaking in a steady rain across the ridge in front of the advancing Germans. The enemy was attacking in force, and as they surged along the high ground they were taught in this tornado of steel.

Many of them went down, never to rise again. Many more were wounded and the majority of the attacking line was forced to retire after struggling blindly against this awful deluge for a few moments.

Some of the more determined men, however, pushed on. The shrill chatter of the machine guns and the crack of the rifles along the British positions joined the choruses of these guns and a stream of steel was whirled out across the open ground westward into the German ranks. But, nevertheless, these men continued to advance determinedly.

Pay Pledge Price.

The order had been given that Passchendaele must be taken regardless of cost. They were paying the cost now in their spectacular but futile charge. They reached the British front line and hurled themselves against it. Then came the bitterest word of all—at close quarters. It is possible that very few of those Germans who braved the final rush ever regained their own line. The rest were left lying before the British defenses.

When the attack finally was smashed it was a complete defeat for the Germans. The spirit with which the British met this assault was epitomized by a German officer who remarked the other day: "With such men as that we could go anywhere and do anything."

DISCOUNTS OUR BIRDS

the Berliner Tageblatt, who reports this conversation with von Richthofen at the Flanders front, adds that the German air service, which evidently has been forwarded by newspaper discussion of American plans is steadily increasing the number of aviators and machines.

German fighting airplanes, Gen. von Ardenne says, now carry wireless receiving outfits which enable them to engage in combat promptly with enemy fliers. This is necessitated by new conditions on the Flanders front, where whole squadrons of allied machines can appear over the German lines in a surprisingly short time. German squadrons starting from the ground to meet the invaders would be too late so they must constantly be in the front lines either flying or ready for flight.

German aviators say they have noted recently that a majority of the British fliers in Flanders are showing themselves in the Dixmude section of the front instead of the region of Passchendaele.

Gen. von Ardenne discusses various developments of the Flanders fighting, among them the decrease in the use of hand grenades, which, he says, in close fighting are as dangerous to friends as to foes. They are being displaced by light machine guns and special units whose task is to seek out enemy batteries by sight or hearing. The muzzle flash of a gun, he says, is observed by from three to five stations connected by telephone and the position of the gun is determined easily. Special apparatus has been designed to determine the distance and direction from which the sound of a cannon's discharge comes.

took Ojinaga by assault, from the Huerta federals.

General Cordova went as he surrendered his silver mounted sword and pistol to Captain Theodore Barnes, and the spirit of the entire Mexican command was broken. Villa was not definitely located, although he was reported to have been seen yesterday. The report stated that he was wearing a full beard and was mounted on a big white mule.

One of two Americans who operated machine guns for the federals was killed in the battle. The other American disappeared and it is believed he escaped across the Rio Grande.

Two assaults were made on Ojinaga yesterday morning by the Villa forces, but they were both repulsed by the garrison defending the town.

HON. JOHN W. FOSTER DIES

trouble; also his advanced years and failing health had given his family great concern for more than a year. Funeral services for Mr. Foster will be held here Friday and the burial will be at his old home, Evansville, Ind.

SKETCH OF A GREAT CAREER.

With a record of practically a half century of continuous service in diplomacy and the practice of international law, John Watson Foster had a right claim to the title of Dean of the Diplomatic Service of the United States. He had been secretary of state under President Harrison, succeeding Blaine when the latter resigned after his sensational quarrel with the chief executive, and had held three separate commissions, as a minister plenipotentiary. Beside that he represented the United States in many special treaty negotiations, had acted as its agent before international commissions, and even had been called into the service of foreign governments.

As secretary of state his most notable act was a treaty with the Americans in Hawaii who had been concerned in the overthrow of the native queen, providing for annexation of the islands to the United States. President Harrison's administration was drawing to a close and before the treaty could be ratified by the senate, President Cleveland took office and withdrew it as his first official act.

Mr. Foster's notable services to his country in diplomatic capacities abroad were successively as minister to Mexico, minister to Russia, minister to Spain and as a special plenipotentiary to negotiate reciprocity treaties with Brazil, Spain, Germany and the British West Indies. Following that he became secretary of state. Later he became the agent of the United States at Paris in the Bering sea arbitration and at the close of the war between China and Japan was invited by the Emperor of China to participate in the peace negotiations.

While the invitation was officially extended by the emperor Mr. Foster was really invited by Li Hung Chang who describes the occasion in a volume of his published memoirs, speaking affectionately of Mr. Foster, not alone as a personal friend but as a representative of the friendship of the United States for China in her hour of trial.

The great Chinese statesman frankly acknowledges how valuable was the counsel of the American friend at a moment when he was confronted with the almost hopeless task of preserving his country against the demands of the victor. Later the Chinese government chose Mr. Foster as its representative at the second Hague conference in 1907.

Soon after the peace conference Mr. Foster went to Russia and Great Britain on a special mission for the United States. On his return he became a member of the Anglo-American Commission. Then he became the agent of the United States at London before the Alaska boundary tribunal. His last public work was as China's representative at The Hague in 1907.

Thereafter he lived in comparative retirement in Washington writing his memoirs. His daughter became the wife of Robert Lansing, secretary of state in President Wilson's cabinet, and continued to make her home with him. It is no disparagement of Mr. Lansing's conduct of the many delicate diplomatic negotiations which confronted him as an outcome of the European war to say that he doubtless enjoyed the counsel and ripe experience of his distinguished father-in-law.

Mr. Foster was born in Pike county, Indiana, March 2, 1836, the son of a lawyer. He entered law at an early age and served in the union army as an officer.

On his eightieth birthday anniversary, March 2, 1916, President Yuan Shi-Kai conferred upon him the Order of the Golden Grain, the highest order of merit within the gift of the Chinese government. Yuan had been the commanding general of the Chinese troops in the clash with Japan which brought on the conflict Mr. Foster took a part in adjusting.

GERMANS SHELL TRENCHES HELD BY OUR TROOPS

The Germans were permitted to pass, when the Americans and Frenchmen on their flank, opened a hot fire from shell craters and other shelters where they were secreted.

The Germans were taken completely by surprise and bolted, carrying with them their men who had none left.

The number of dead and wounded Germans is uncertain, but the men in ambush was hit by the bullets the Germans later sent in from a distance.

There were congratulations all around when the Americans and French re-entered their trenches.

Patrol work on both sides is becoming more active, as is also the artillery fire. The Germans during one 24 hour period of a recent day sent over at least three times as many shells as on the first days during which the Americans were entrenched. One night the firing in the back areas against the approaches of the communicating trenches reached the proportions of drum fire. It was evident that the Germans thought an American trench relief was taking place. As a matter of fact no relief was in progress and no material damage was done.

During the last two nights the Germans have continuously used machine guns in the direction of the American line. Sniping is becoming more active on both sides. American sharpshooters are working close to the German lines, especially when the nights are clear.

The activity by enemy snipers thus far has resulted in one American casualty. A non-commissioned officer was hit in the head and killed.

NEW CASUALTY LIST OF NOV. 2.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—A revised report from General Pershing today on the German raid on American trenches, November 2, puts the killed at three, the wounded at eleven and the missing at eleven. The first report was three killed, five wounded and twelve missing.

First Lieutenant William H. McLaughlin is added to the list of wounded. Private William H. Grigsby, of Louisville, Ky., previously reported a prisoner in the hands of the Germans, is among the wounded, also.

The list of three killed is unchanged, but the following others are added to the wounded:

Private Louis A. Deifer; mother, Mrs. Catherine Deifer, box 48, route 6, Sullivan, Ind.

Private Paul W. Fann; father, George W. Fann, Warsaw, Wis.

Private George Wesley; Miss Margaret Welch, 623 Eighth street, Dayton, Ky.

Private Lester C. Smith; R. A. Smith, R. F. D. No. 5, Concord, N. C.

The following are added to the list of missing and probably captured:

Private Clyde I. Grimsley; Frank Grimsley, Stockton, Kan.

Private Hoyt D. Decker; W. F. Decker, Vincennes, Ind.

The casualty reported as Private Harry R. Langham, should be Private Harry R. Langham; Ada Langham, 461 Oak boulevard, Chicago.

The war department issued this statement:

"The war department has received the following corrected list of the casualties resulting from the German raid before daylight, November 3, upon the salient occupied by a company of American infantry. This revised list shows our losses to have been three killed, eleven wounded and eleven missing. The additions to the original list of wounded include First Lieutenant William H. McLaughlin and five privates. One of the latter, Private William H. Grigsby, was originally listed as missing. Private Dewey D. Kern, previously listed as missing, has been accounted for and is not longer among the casualties. The name given as Private Keckon, unidentified, previously on the missing list, does not appear on the revised list. The wounded are reported as doing well."

this. They must fluctuate. But they should never cause us serious uneasiness again.

"In face of the re-vindication of sea power, the greatest achievement of the British, American and allied navies in the last 2½ years we may be sure that there will be a reversion of optimism. For Germany's defeat at sea is final, and permanent; whereas, Germany's successes on land are local, partial and temporary. And her defeat at sea means that America's share in the war can be and will be decisive."

PERMIT PLAY ONLY BY REQUEST OF WILSON

Washington, Nov. 15.—Unwillingness of the Georgia school of technology to permit its football team to play that of the University of Pittsburgh, both scheduled for three years, has caused the Red Cross, unless expressly requested by President Wilson, to ban the Red Cross officials here to drop the project. Chairman Davidson, of the Red Cross war council, was trying to arrange a game for Nov. 25, when neither had a game scheduled. The Georgia school officials have wired that they would not play unless requested by President Wilson. Red Cross officials say they would not think of asking the president to make such a request.

FOOD PROBLEM VITAL ISSUE

fighting force, but she must help to feed the people of England, France, Italy and Russia. To do this with the highest measure of efficiency is the real problem. There must be no lost motion. Every move must be made to count. Every act must be a blow for liberty in this work for democracy to save and redeem civilization. It is not enough that food needs of America and her allies; they must back that alertness with constructive skill and real industry.

This is one of the war is not an experiment. The government pays her salary of $1,200 a year and all that Port Wayne need do is to provide her a convenient office, with a telephone, a demonstration kit and pay for the materials used in the demonstration work.

The glass jar manufacturers of this country have delivered during the season of 1917 about 119,000,000 glass jars. A survey of the household supply of jars used for canning and preserving in some twenty typical towns throughout the country showed that the housewives of America in 1917 used not one new jar to over three and one-quarter old glass jars which were already on hand. Thus, it is seen, that in the conservative terms the home women of the country put up nearly 5,000,000 quart jars of vegetables and fruits, certainly three times what had been accomplished in any season before. Next year, profiting by their experience of this year, they will can millions more, and more will be needed. It is very essential that this canning is done right. Women who never have done canning, gardening and the other things that the war situation has brought upon them must be taught and will require assistance.

PETROGRAD IS BURNING

rendering. They only have evacuated Gatchina in order to avoid useless bloodshed and take a defensive position near Petrograd. The position now is strong enough to resist for ten times as long as Petrograd's. Our troops are in the best of spirits. Order and calm prevail in Petrograd.

"Beside the cruiser Aurora the warships Sarg and Svoboda, the training ship Africa and six torpedo boats of the Baltic fleet have arrived from Helsinki and anchored in the Neva near the Nicholas bridgehead, in the center of Petrograd, whence they can bombard the entire capital.

"Their crews are made up of Bolsheviks."

NO WORD IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The government still was without further official advice today from Russia. The last received on Saturday, dated Nov. 8, were behind the news dispatches of that date. The test information to the state department on the Russian situation came through Stockholm last Tuesday, and reported the Bolsheviks' control of Petrograd. Dispatches of later developments, however, have since come through in news cables.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY'S WAR NEWS

tween the upper Pieve and the Tugana valley on the edge of the Sengana district.

Berlin's statement reports no change along the lower Pieve, where the Italian reports have shown repeated attempts by the Austro-German forces to pierce the river line and compel its abandonment and the consequent loss of Venice by the Italians. It has been pointed out that this every day line is held by the Austro-German forces in Italy will soon be on the fighting line to support the Italian armies. The Rome war office statement today throws a still more favorable light on the situation from the entire view point. The frustration of new attempts by the invaders to encamp is reported, while the parties which previously had secured a footing on the west side of the river have been held fast, virtually in their tracks.

Continuation of the German advance is announced. In the hill region, south of Fonzaso and Keltre, where Rome contends the retirement of advanced troops to previously prepared positions. It is in this section that the Italian line forms an awkward salient in its east and west extension from the Pieve and there have been indications for several days that the Italians were drawing out.

Berlin makes no claim to further advances in the Trentino, where the Italians are holding the hill region safely so far against the threat of the drive aimed at the Venetian plain to outflank the Pieve line.

American soldiers have carried out a successful ambush of a German party in No Man's land on the western front, killing and wounding a number of the enemy, while German shells have caused a number of casualties in the American lines.

An American patrol one night recently lay in the mud in wait for an enemy party for which they had arranged an ambush. A German detachment of more than twice the size of the American party fell into the trap. The enemy troops were surprised and did not stop to fight, scurrying away with their dead and wounded. The Austrians suffered no casualties.

Artillery firing on the American sector is becoming more active and the Germans have been shelling our trenches heavily. A number of Americans have been killed or wounded, one shell which dropped into a trench, causing several casualties. American artillerymen also have been laboring the Germans strongly, and it is believed their shells have claimed quite a few victims.

All the movable art treasures have taken from Venice and the cities of Vicenza and Treviso also have been shorn of their works of art in the event of Austro-German success in breaking the Pieve line and forcing the Italians to retire to the Brenta or Adige.

Germany's submarine campaign apparently is losing its effectiveness, as British losses during the past week were only one ship over 1,600 tons and under that weight. This was the poorest week the submarines have had since the beginning of ruthless warfare in February. The lowest previous week was that ending on Nov. 4, when 12 vessels, including eight of more than 1,600 tons, were lost. The best week for the Germans was that ending April 22, when 55 vessels—40 of more than 1,600 tons, and 15 of the lesser category—were sent down.

Although Petrograd has not been in communication with the Nyasted cable station in Finland for several days, reports from Scandinavia persist that Premier Kerensky has gained control of the capital. Reports come from Sweden that the Bolsheviks maintain their hold on Petrograd and are preparing for a stout resistance against the forces of Kerensky and General Kornilov and Kaledin.

In Moscow the Bolsheviks apparently have been overpowered, an unofficial report received in Copenhagen being to the effect that General Kornilov has taken the Kremlin where the extremists were besieged several days ago. Another rumor says that Siberia has announced its independence and proclaimed former Emperor Nicholas as emperor.

The proposed new inter-allied war council has provoked a near crisis in British politics. Challenged in the house of commons yesterday to explain his Paris speech on the needs for such a council, Premier Lloyd George read the terms of the agreement, which he declared made it clear that the council was merely advisory. Formal debate on the inter-allied will begin in the house next Monday. Negotiations for the formation of a new French cabinet are proceeding.

SHOOT BIG GUNS WELL

eral in command told American officers today that the marksmanship of the artillerymen was excellent, comparing favorably with that of troops which had been at war for years. The American officers were highly elated at the compliment. The only complaint heard is that a few of the American batteries are not as rapid as they might be, but they are improving daily.

The infantry is now interesting itself especially in patrols. All the men who have not had this experience are eager to try their hand, and some of them have asked to be assigned to this work. It is unanimous opinion that the men are learning more of war by their short stay in the trenches and gun pits than is possible to gain in months of other instruction. While the infantry is learning how to handle itself in the trenches, the artillery, in addition to actual firing, is acquiring experience in observation work and locating enemy batteries by the sound method. The heavy guns on both sides are now engaged in a duel at long range with the lighter pieces working at targets nearer the lines.

GEN. SIBERT'S FIFTH SON IN.

With the American Army in France, Wednesday, Nov. 15.—Major Gen. Sibert's fifth son is now in the army. Two of his sons are captains, one is a lieutenant and one a West Point cadet, and the general instructed his fifth and youngest son to keep away from the present, as he has been advised, however, that his youngest felt he could keep out of the army no longer. He has just enlisted as a private.

ITALY HOLDS LINE FIRMLY

FRENCH ARE BOMBED.

BRITISH GAIN IN PALESTINE.

London, Nov. 15.—The junction point of the Damascus-Baersheba railway with the line to Jerusalem is now in the possession of the British army in Palestine. It was officially announced today. The railway line to the vicinity of Na'anah and El Mansurah came into British possession as a result of the continued advances of General Allenby's infantry and mounted troops. The Turks lost 1,500 men in prisoners and more than 400 in dead on Tuesday besides four guns and a score of machine guns.

AMERICAN DRIVER STRUCK.

Paris, Nov. 14.—(Wednesday.)—J. C. McDonald, of the American ambulance service who was wounded while engaged around Verdun a few days ago, has just been brought to the American hospital at Neuilly where it is reported his injuries are not serious. McDonald was struck in the head by a shell splinter while transporting French wounded.

NO WORD FROM RUSS FRONT.

London, Nov. 15.—Word was again received from Petrograd by wireless today—that no report from army headquarters had been issued.

FRENCH TAKE PRISONERS.

Paris, Nov. 15.—French reconnoitering parties near Allette took prisoners, says today's official communication. "The night was calm except in the region of Caubieres (Verdun front), where a heavy bombardment is in progress.

"On Tuesday four German airplanes were brought down by our pilots and four others fell disabled within the enemy lines. Our aviators made a number of effective raids, dropping many projectiles on various enemy depots and ammunition cars near Mulhausen. German aviators carried out a violent bombardment on Tuesday night in the region of Calais. It is reported there were a number of victims among the civilian population."

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT PLOWING MATCH

Over Three Thousand Present at Twenty-Seventh Annual Plowing Contest.

Over three thousand people gathered at the state farm, four miles north of the city, Wednesday for the twenty-seventh annual plowing contest held by the County Plowing association. The number of entries in the contests was held down because of the unusually busy time but in spite of this handicap the affair was pronounced the most successful ever held. A number of motor-driven tractor plows were in the contests but no decision was announced because of the difference in the condition of the soil. Nearly all of the twenty-eight acre field was plowed up during the contest. The plowmen, judges and officers of the association were the guests of Dr. Bliss, superintendent of the state school, for dinner.

LOCAL MARKETS

HAY CLIMBS TO $24

PRICE AT MARKETS

Street Markets Favored
With Fair Trade—Hay and Corn Have Big Day.

The hay market has continued its steady advance toward a $24 price and Thursday a top price of $24 was quoted on the Fort Wayne markets. Local dealers do not think the price will go past the mark which was estimated some days ago. Out of eighteen loads or hay received Thursday ten were baled and will be shipped from the local market. Five loads of new corn brought a price ranging from $1 to $1.10 a bushel. No old corn was received and only two loads of oats, which brought 60 to 62 cents a bushel. The retail street markets enjoyed a fairly large trade Thursday and a number of farmers were stationed at the various stalls. Apples, potatoes, Irish and sweet onions, carrots, parsnips, cabbage, poultry, fresh country meats, butter and eggs were the main articles of sale. For the late season the prices have remained reasonable.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.
The pressure continues high over central sections, and there is no well defined storm within the confines of the United States. Except that scattered precipitation occurred on the middle Atlantic coast and in the southern Rocky mountain states, the weather has been fair during the last 24 hours. Moderate temperatures obtain as a rule, but the weather is cooler than the normal in south central sections and the temperature has fallen in the gulf and south Atlantic states, but elsewhere the changes have been generally unimportant.

Famous Follies Star, ANN PENNINGTON

—IN—
"The Antics of Ann"

Turbulent Ann Pennington never was more fittingly cast than in this rollicking comedy of girlish romance, tomboy pranks and riotous mirth, laid in that hot-bed of invention, a girl's seminary. The story is, as the name implies, the antics of a very unconventional girl who gets her self into all sorts of trying situations.

PROF. ZEUCH SAYS HE

WILL TRY TO ENLIST

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 15.—Prof.
W. E. Zeuch, member of the Indiana university faculty, who resigned Tuesday because of the investigation of a letter which he wrote protesting against the publication of a list of German atrocities, will try to get into the army, he declared today. Zeuch insists that he has registered under the conscription law and is subject to draft, but will try to enlist before he is called.

The professor stated that he was not born in Germany and that he had no intention of being disloyal or unpatriotic, but was incensed by what he considered attempts to arouse hatred against the German race. He said that if he is unable to get in the army he expects to go to Mexico City, where he has been offered a position.

RIVER COURSE DEFLECTED.

London, Nov. 15.—The opening of a large new aerodrome at Hanworth Park, near London, marks the completion of an engineering work which involved the deflection of a river, of a distance of nearly a mile, of the Wolsey river. The stream intersected the field selected for the main landing ground of the aerodrome and impeded the landing of aircraft there. To remove this defect, the engineers constructed a conduit, capable of carrying 27,000,000 gallons of water daily, into which the stream has now been diverted, and its bed leveled to give an unbroken flat surface for the aerodrome. The size of the conduit was such that before the river was diverted fifty soldiers marched upright through the underground way.

COLLECTION OF EVERY INDIANA WOOD GROWTH

Every Known Specimen to Put in State's Forest Reserve Park.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 15.—A specimen of every known tree and shrub which grows in Indiana soon will be growing in the Indiana forest reserve near Jeffersonville. Under the direction of Charles D. Deam, state forester, the work of planting the trees and shrubs is going forward rapidly. The object of the work is to ascertain and make public the exact conditions under which the trees and plants will grow best, and their ability to withstand different conditions. There are about 120 different kinds of trees and 100 varieties of shrubs common in the state.

The forest reserve contains about 2,000 acres. Seven acres has been made into a beautiful park. The work of experimenting with shrubs is farther along than that with trees, there being thirty-five large shrub beds now growing. Mr. Deam says it necessarily is slow work, but he expects eventually to have valuable information. The methods of growing the shrubs in both useful and artistic manner are being followed.
Much work with vines also is being done.

Part of the work which is under way is with hedges. Along the interurban tracks which go through the reserve 400 feet each has been set aside for four varieties of hedge.
Plants similar in size are to be put out. At a glance it will be possible to tell which is the best suited for any given purpose.

Another plan of Mr. Deam's is to have beds of shrubs and blooming plants so arranged that they will be in bloom constantly. Early blooming varieties will be planted, another variety which will bloom just as the early quills, and so on until late in the winter. The beds will be arranged to harmonize in color, also.

The information gained about the trees, plants and shrubs may be obtained through the state forestry department by the public.

REV. FOLSOM SPEAKS FOR Y. M. C. A. FUND

People of Monroeville Are Stirred by His Appeal for Funds.

Monroeville, Ind., Nov. 15.—The address given by Rev. A. J. Folsom, of Fort Wayne, at the high school Tuesday evening was a rare treat for he explained the work of the Y. M. C. A. in such a manner that everyone was convinced beyond a doubt that this organization is an absolute necessity for the good and welfare of the soldier boys. A brief introductory address was given by Mr. Briggs, of the Bowser works, and remarks relative to the soliciting work were made by the chairman, Rev. S. C. Zechiel.

Monroeville Minor News.
Mrs. Harry Erwin and daughter, of Huntstown, are visiting Mrs. William Erwin, Mrs. Charles Krick and other friends here for a few days. Her husband, Dr. Harry Erwin, has recently been called to the front.

The W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. Joe Miller Tuesday afternoon. Reports of the delegates from the state convention were given by Mrs. Bertha Youse and Mrs. Gertrude Marquart.
The Twentieth Century club mailed X-mas boxes to thirteen of the Monroeville boys, some of whom are now in France, and the others in different camps here in the states. Other boxes will be prepared and mailed to the remaining few in a short time.

Seymour Jones, monument dealer here, has recently landed a contract for a monument in Lindenwood cemetery which will cost close to $5,000.

Mrs. Chas. Nill is spending a few days at Fort Wayne with her son, Robert Nill, and wife.

The Epworth league of the M. E. church is observing win-my-church week with appropriate services. Wednesday night was Junior league night and interesting services were held, and tonight the gospel team of the First M. E. church of Fort Wayne will be present.

Quite a number from Monroeville and vicinity attended the sale of J. Shaffer in Madison township, Wednesday. Mr.
Shaffer and family will move to town this week to their home on Allen street, recently purchased from Leslie DeBolt.

Monroeville is experiencing an epidemic of whooping cough. A number of children from the different grades and high school are being kept at home on account of the disease.

The M. E. Ladies' aid met at the home of Mrs. Gurney Painter Wednesday afternoon. Further plans were made for the coming bazaar and supper. The society voted $10 to the Y. M. C. A. fund.
A delicious two-course lunch was served by the following hostesses: Mrs. David Miller, Mrs. John Neeks, Mrs. Wm. Al-legar, Mrs. Wm. Swartz, Mrs. Seymour

MRS. S. U. TARNEY

IS DEAD IN AUBURN

Death Follows Illness of Several Years Due to Paralysis.

(Special to The Sentinel.)
Auburn, Ind., Nov. 15.—Mrs. S. U.
Torney, a resident of this city for forty-seven years, passed away at the family home on South Main street Wednesday after an illness of several years following a stroke of paralysis.
Mr. and Mrs. Torney have been married fifty-seven years and the death of Mrs. Torney comes as a great shock to the aged companion. Besides the husband there are two children, Mrs.
Loretta Guy, of this city, and Romeo Torney, of San Jose, Cal. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home. Rev. A. P.
Bourne officiating, and interment will be at Woodlawn.

Auburn Brief Items.
The people of Auburn are busy preparing their packages to be sent to the soldier boys from this vicinity who are "somewhere in France." Many packages will be mailed this week.

The Auburn fire department was called out last evening to the home of Amos Hilleke where a chimney burning out caused the fire alarm to be sent in. However, with the aid of the garden hose they were able to extinguish the blaze that had already started and prevented what might have been a disastrous fire.

The Auburn Daughters of Rebekah will entertain the "Bokals from Angola" this evening in the Odd Fellows hall. A 6 o'clock dinner will be served, following which the initiatory work will be exemplified on several candidates. The Angola degree team will give the work.

The final lap of the big Y. M. C. A. drive was started this morning and it seems that every man in Auburn is doing his bit toward getting the people interested in what this movement really means. Mass meetings have been held in every town and rural school in the county in the past week and the subject has been thoroughly explained to everyone. Those who are very active in the work stated this morning that they felt DeKalb county would have no trouble in going beyond the $10,000 mark.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ketcham returned yesterday from their honeymoon trip and are making their home on South Indiana avenue in the house formerly occupied by the groom's mother. Mr. Ketcham is prosecutor-elect of DeKalb county.

Nightwatchman Fred Kruger was taken very ill Tuesday night while on duty and on Wednesday was found to be suffering with an attack of appendicitis and rushed to St. Joseph hospital in Fort Wayne. He was operated on within an hour after his arrival there, the attending physician finding it to be a very serious case.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas left Wednesday for their new home, near West Branch, Mich., where they have purchased a big stock farm.

Mrs. Harvey Williams is visiting friends at St. Mary's O. for ten days.
Dr. E. O. Hall, of North Main street, was at Fort Wayne Wednesday attending a dental meeting.

Garrett Mayor Is Host to 200 Men

Artists When It Comes to Extending Hospitality.

(Special to The Sentinel.)
Garrett, Ind., Nov. 15.—Mayor J. A.
Clevenger and wife entertained a company of nearly two hundred Garrett men Wednesday evening at a reception at their spacious home on East King street. At evening this home is always enjoyed by everyone as Dr. and Mrs. Clevenger are artists in extending hospitality to their many friends.
Lunch was served, the main feature of which was an elegantly roasted young porker, was a treat to all. Following lunch a smoker and social hour followed and the evening's entertainment was closed by the guests all going to the movies with their host. Dr. Clevenger was recently re-elected mayor of this city by a majority of 97 in a town that has a democratic majority of 270, but nevertheless he was able to overcome this and was elected chief executive of Garrett. The financial condition of our city was never in as good shape as at present, there being over $10,000 in the treasury and no bills due and unpaid. Considering the great amount of money paid out in the last two years, it is remarkable that there is as much money on hand.

Garrett Brief Items.
Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Williams, of North Cowan street, were given a farwell surprise party last evening by their many neighbors and the ladies of the North Side circle. The guests took along ice cream and cake and enjoyed a pleasant evening with Mr. and Mrs. Williams, who expect to move to Wolcottville next Monday.

Mrs. Williams was presented a beautiful leather handbag by the ladies.
The Garrett High School football team is planning to go to Bryan, Ohio, Saturday and play the school team of that city. The boys were defeated at Defiance last Saturday, and not only defeated, but about half of them were crippled. It was the roughest team the locals ever played and there were a couple of dislocated joints, sprained ankles and arms, as souvenirs. The Defiance team were big husky guys, while the locals are small, but nevertheless they play good football and have lost but three games this season.
A good crowd of rooters will accompany them Saturday.

The Eagles will give a big dance next Tuesday evening in their lodge home for the benefit of the Y. M. C.
A. fund.

Mrs. J. H. Zeek left yesterday for New York city where she will visit her sister and niece for two weeks.

First Lieutenant George Carroll will come home today for a few days' visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carroll, of East Keyser street. Lieutenant Carroll has been stationed at Fort Benjamin Harrison since September 1.

Mrs. M. E. Klingler went to Greenville, Ohio, Wednesday, for a few days' visit with relatives.

The Quest club will be host to every man in Fort Wayne and Allen county at the Majestic theater tomorrow, Friday night, when Dr. W. F. Martin, of Battle Creek, will deliver his famous lecture on "Enemies Within Our Ranks"—to men only. This title refers to the diseases that war upon the human race in peace or war, but because of the moral relaxations that follow war conditions, become worse and worse in war times. The havoc of social diseases can be fought and vanquished by intelligent and united activity against them and it is the purpose of spreading information about this merciless scourge that the Quest club arranged for this lecture and makes it free to every male who wants to hear it. The scourge is not only a present horror but it is one that follows the stream of blood and must be eradicated for the good of generations born a hundred years from now.

The lecturer has been appointed by the president to have charge of this instructional work in all the camps of the country. He will be heard by every soldier in training and in arms. He will illustrate the lecture both by still pictures on the screen and by moving pictures. The lecture will begin at 8 o'clock. The invitation is to every man and youth old enough to understand.
The shops of the city have been placarded and it is the hope of the officers of the Quest club that the theater will be packed.

The club will have its usual dinner at 6:30 at the Anthony hotel and will then march in a body to the theater where the lecture will be delivered.
E. J. Little, president of the club, will preside.

Miss Vinnie Compt returned to her home in Toledo, Wednesday, after a visit of ten days with Miss Esther Lott.

John Moughler left Wednesday for Pasadena, Calif., to spend the winter months in hopes that it will be beneficial to his health.

Mrs. Will Coffinberry and daughter,
Nell, and Mrs. Elizabeth Coffinberry, of South San Francisco, Cal., are guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Thomson.

Greater Production of Poulcient Lines Urged.

A meeting of the leading poultry men of Allen county was held Thursday afternoon in the office of A. J.
Hutchins, county agricultural agent, in the interest of a project mutually agreed upon by Prof. G. I. Christie and the animal husbandry division of the United States department of agriculture, known as "Emergency Extension work in Poultry Husbandry." The plan was explained to the local poultry men by L. J. Brosemer, extension poultry husbandman.

In general this work is to be carried along the lines of organization rather than along lines of individual demonstrations. It is the desire of the department to secure local leaders among men and women interested in poultry in every county in the state—men and women qualified to carry on a definite program of poultry work in their home counties and townships.
